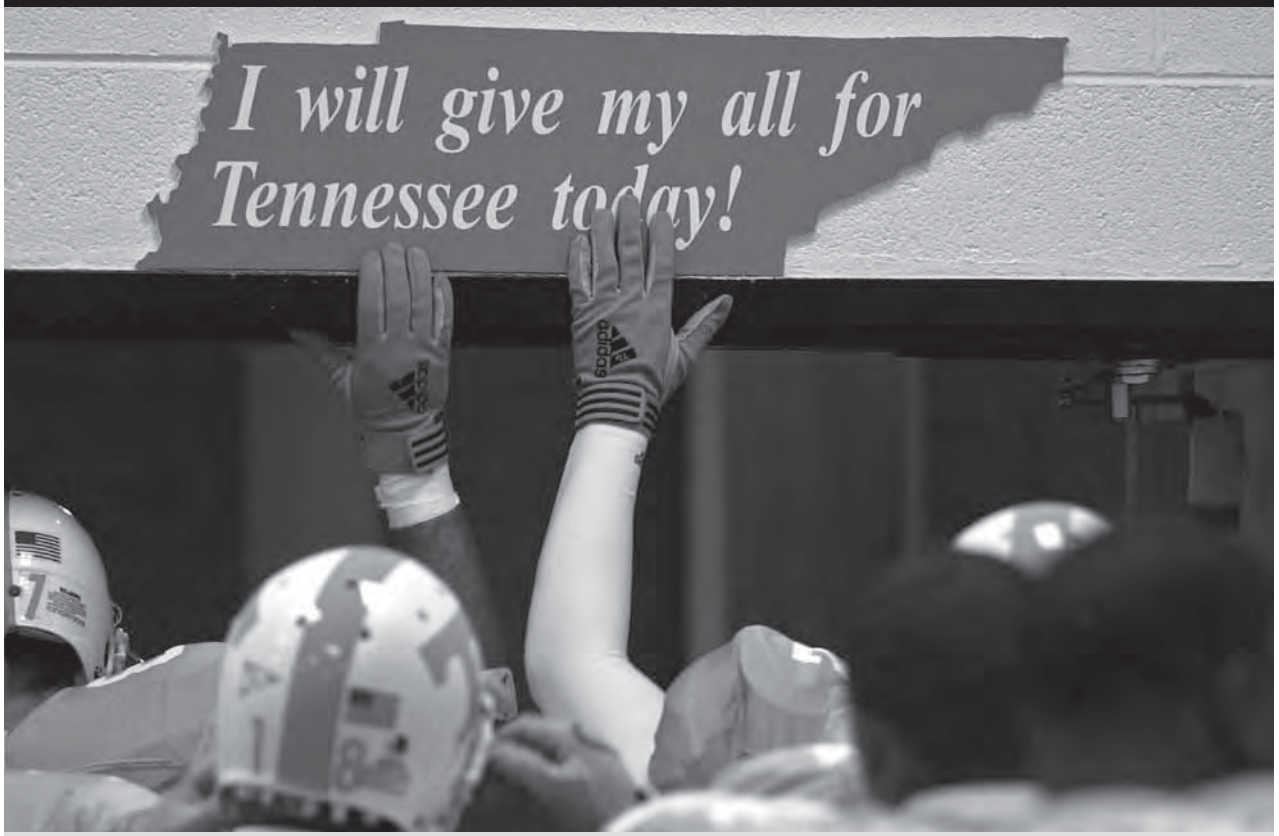
Tennessee Postseason Notebook



For Starters

4	Consecutive games the Vols won in November to finish the season and earn bowl eligibility. The winning streak is the longest by the Vols since 2007.
49	Bowl appearances for the Vols, including this year's Franklin American Mortgage Company Music City Bowl. Tennessee is tied with Texas for the second-most bowl appearances in the FBS.
16	True freshmen have played for the Vols this season, tied for third most in Division I. Seven true freshmen started in the Vols' 50-14 victory at Tennessee.
1	The Vols will be making their first appearance in the Music City Bowl. However, the Vols have already won once in Nashville this season, defeating Vanderbilt 24-10, and have been victorious in 15 consecutive trips to the Tennessee capital.
32	The Music City Bowl marks the 32nd meeting between Tennessee and North Carolina, although the two schools have not met in 49 years. The Vols lead the series 20-10-1.

Postseason Bound

Vols Win Four Consecutive to Clinch Bowl Trip

- On November 27, Tennessee defeated Kentucky 24-14 to improve to 6-6 and become bowl eligible for the second consecutive season... in addition to being the fourth consecutive win for the Vols following a 2-6 start, the win was also the 26th consecutive for the Vols over the Wildcats...the four-game winning streak is the first for Tennessee since 2007, and a bowl victory would give the Vols their first five-game winning streak since UT won five in a row to close the 2007 regular season.
- Despite an 0-5 start in conference play this season, Tennessee's three-game winning streak vs. SEC opponents trails only Auburn (9) and Arkansas (5) in the conference.
- Tennessee finished 4-3 at home (2-2 SEC) and 2-3 on the road (1-3 SEC).
- Head coach Derek Dooley is just the fifth Tennessee coach to lead a team to a bowl game in his first season...dating to 1939 and UT's first bowl game, the Vols have had 11 head coaches...in 1939, General Robert R. Neyland led the Vols to a 17-0 win over Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl...Tennessee head coaches are 5-4 all-time in their first bowl game with the Vols.

Franklin American Mortgage Music City Bowl

- The Vols are making their first trip to the Franklin American Mortgage Music City Bowl and will face the North Carolina Tar Heels...the game is played at LP Field, home of the Tennessee Titans, at 5:30 PM CST on Thursday, December 30...UT is 2-0 all-time at LP Field, including a 28-26 win over Vanderbilt in 2000 and a 47-7 victory over Wyoming in the season opener in 2002.
- Tennessee has won 15 consecutive games it has played in the city of Nashville since 1984.
- The Vols are making their inaugural appearance in a particular bowl for the first time since 1993, when Tennessee made its first trip to the Outback/Hall of Fame Bowl...all bowl appearances since then have represented repeat trips.
- Tennessee is 25-23 all-time in bowl games...this year's trip is the 49th for the Vols, moving UT into a tie with the University of Texas for the second-most bowl appearances.
- The Vols have split their last four bowl trips, winning the Cotton Bowl in 2005 (d. Texas A&M, 38-3) and the Outback Bowl in 2008 (d. Wisconsin, 21-17) and losing last year's Chick-fil-A Bowl (L. Virginia Tech, 14-37) and the 2007 Outback Bowl (L. Penn State, 10-20).
- UT has played on Dec. 30 twice and is 2-0 on that date...the Vols recorded a 24-17 win over LSU in the 1972 Bluebonnet Bowl and also defeated Virginia Tech 45-23 in the 1994 Gator Bowl.

Forcing Turnovers

■ The Vols forced at least four turnovers in three different games for the first time since 1999...UT forced four turnovers at LSU and five both at Memphis and vs. Ole Miss.

■ Tennessee's 26 turnovers (17 INTs, 9 FRs) are its most in a single season since forcing 28 (16 INTs, 12 FRs) in 2004...the Vols notched multiple turnovers in four consecutive games (its last four) for the first time since 2005 (Alabama-Memphis)...the 17 INTs were the most since 2008 and the Vols' five games with multiple picks were also the most since the 2008 season.

■ The Vols sacked the quarterback multiple times in seven different games for the first time since doing so on eight occasions in 2005...Tennessee also totaled multiple sacks in five consecutive games for the first time since the last five games of 2005.

Pick 6

■ Tennessee intercepted 10 passes in November and finished tied with Florida for second in the SEC with 17 interceptions in 2010, the most for the Vols since also recording 17 picks in 2008.

■ The 17 interceptions rank Tennessee tied for 11th nationally in 2010..an interception in the bowl game would give Tennessee its most interceptions in a season since recording 21 in 1999.

300-Yard Passer

■ One of only three quarterbacks in the SEC (Ryan Mallett, Arkansas; Mike Hartline, Kentucky) to record as many as three 300-yard passing games, Tyler Bray threw for a career-high 354 yards in the regular season finale vs. Kentucky...he also crossed the 300-yard barrier in his first career start, at Memphis (325 yards) and the following week vs. Ole Miss (323 yards).

■ Most 300-Yard Passing Games, SEC, 2010

Player	300-Yard Passing Games
Ryan Mallett, Arkansas	8
TYLER BRAY, TENNESSEE	3
Mike Hartline, Kentucky	3

■ Bray is the first Tennessee quarterback to throw for 300+ yards in his first two career starts and the first Vols QB overall to throw for 300+ yards in consecutive starts since Casey Clausen did so in 2001.

■ At Memphis, Bray threw for 308 yards and five touchdowns in the first half, both Tennessee records for a single half.

■ Following an interception returned for a touchdown at South Carolina, Bray threw a UT freshman-record 96 consecutive passes without an interception until throwing a 2nd-quarter pick at Vanderbilt.

■ In those 96 consecutive passes between INT's between the South Carolina and Vanderbilt games, Bray was 58-of-96 for 980 yards and 12 touchdowns (10.8 yards per att., pass efficiency rating: 187.42).

■ The Vols averaged 199.6 yards passing in the first seven games, a figure that increased to 320 yds./gm. in the last five.

Inside The Tennessee-North Carolina Series

Playing the Tar Heels

■ This will be the 32nd meeting between Tennessee and North Carolina on the football field and the first since 1961...Tennessee owns a 20-10-1 advantage in the all-time series, including wins in 11 of the last 13 games played (between 1949-61)...the two teams met in 17 consecutive seasons from 1945-61, but they have never met in a bowl game.

■ The Vols are playing an ACC opponent for the 10th time since New Year's Day in 1992... Tennessee is 5-4 in the last nine games vs. ACC schools, including a 2-2 record in bowls...the Vols have lost consecutive games to ACC teams (both in Chick-fil-A/Peach Bowl games in Atlanta) but won five of seven prior, including a victory over Florida State in the national championship game on 1/4/99, played in the Fiesta Bowl in Tempe, Arizona.

■ Tennessee is 7-6 all-time in bowl games against schools that currently comprise the ACC...the Vols are 100-61-7 (.616) all-time vs. ACC opponents.

Connections

A look at roster and staff connections between UT and UNC

■ Tennessee head coach Derek Dooley and North Carolina defensive backs coach Troy Douglas worked together at SMU from 1997-99. Dooley oversaw the wide receivers and added Co-Recruiting Coordinator to his title in 1998 while Douglas mentored the defensive backs during that span.

■ Three members of the North Carolina coaching staff have a history in the Southeastern Conference. UNC head coach Butch Davis played football at Arkansas and graduated in 1974. Offensive coordinator John Shoop received his master's degree at Vanderbilt and served as a graduate assistant coach for the Commodores from 1992-94. Linebackers coach Art Kaufman coached two stints at Mississippi. He served as an assistant coach for the defensive ends and linebackers from 1988-1991 and returned as Ole Miss' defensive coordinator from 1995-2000.

■ Tennessee linebackers coach Lance Thompson is the lone individual on the Vols' coaching staff to boast coaching experience in the ACC. Thompson worked as a graduate assistant on Georgia Tech's staff in 1988-89 followed by two more years as a volunteer assistant. From 1992-94, Thompson was the Director of Football Operations for the Yellow Jackets. Thompson served in several different roles with Georgia Tech from 1995-98 and again in 2001.

■ Three of UNC's coaches have held positions within the state of Tennessee. Defensive coordinator Everett Withers began his coaching career at Austin Peay (Clarksville, Tenn.) in 1988 and worked there through the 1990 season. From 2001-06, Withers served as the Tennessee Titans' defensive backs coach. Art Kaufman coached at Middle Tennessee from 2005-07 as the Blue Raiders' linebackers coach, where he worked alongside UT quarterbacks coach Darin Hinshaw in '05. Troy Douglas led the defensive backs at East Tennessee State from 1992-94.

■ Vols' assistant head coach in charge of wide receivers Charlie Baggett was born and raised in Fayetteville, N.C. Baggett graduated from E.E. Smith Sr. H.S.

■ Tennessee offensive coordinator Jim Chaney coached against UNC defensive backs coach Troy Douglas several times earlier in the decade while each individual held roles in the Big Ten. Chaney, the offensive coordinator at Purdue from 1997-2005, coached against Douglas twice while he was the DB's coach at Michigan State in 2001-02 and two more times when he was at Indiana (2004-05). Chaney's Boilermakers won all four contests.

■ Tennessee's roster features a pair of North Carolina products. Junior linebackers Daryl Vereen (Charlotte, N.C./North Mecklenburg H.S.) and Austin Johnson (Hickory, N.C./Hickory H.S.) each went to high school in North Carolina. Vereen played prep football with UNC junior offensive lineman Peyton Jenest at North Mecklenburg H.S.).

Malik Jackson

Action Jackson/Defensive Line

■ Second-team AP All-SEC DT Malik Jackson leads the Vols with 5.0 sacks in 2010, including sacks in four of the last five games...Jackson also has a team-high 11 tackles for loss, including 9.5 in his last four games and at least a half-TFL in each of the last five games... he ranked 11th in the SEC in sacks this season and 10th in tackles for loss.

■ Jackson, a transfer from USC, played his first five games at defensive end before switching to defensive tackle at Georgia for the final seven...in those seven games at tackle, he recorded 34 of his 46 tackles, 10 of 11 tackles for loss, all five sacks, three of his five QB hurries, three of his four passes defensed, and his lone interception of 2010.

■ The Tennessee defensive line recorded 19.5 sacks, eclipsing the 2009 defensive-line total of 15.5... UT was fourth in SEC in sacks by defensive linemen this season.

Gerald Jones

On the Career Charts

■ WR Gerald Jones caught at least four passes in his last six consecutive games, including five or more in five of those games...Jones has tied his career high with 46 receptions this season, totaling 507 receiving yards and three touchdowns...he also caught 46 passes in 2009.

■ The senior receiver has 34 catches in his last six games and moved into 5th place on the Tennessee career list with 133.

■ Most Career Receptions, Tennessee History

A.J. Green, Georgia	158	2008-10
Randall Cobb, Kentucky	139	2008-10
GERALD JONES, TENNESSEE	133	2007-10

■ If Jones remains the team leader in receptions after the bowl game, he would become only the fifth wide receiver in UT history to lead the Vols in receptions in three consecutive seasons and the first since Joey Kent from 1994-96...Jones led Tennessee with 30 catches in 2008 and 46 receptions in 2009...the other three Vols to lead the team in catches three years in a row are Thomas Woods (1987-89), Anthony Hancock (1979-81) and Larry Seivers (1974-76).

Daniel Lincoln

Long Drive Lincoln

■ Senior Daniel Lincoln broke his own school record by making nine consecutive field goals to being the 2010 season...he previously made eight consecutive field goals to begin his All-America year of 2007...Lincoln missed his first attempt of the Kentucky game, his only miss of the season to date...he finished 10-of-11 in field goal attempts this season, including 5-of-5 from 40 yards and beyond...Lincoln remains one field goal shyshy of tying John Becksvoort (1991-94) for fifth on the Vols' career field goal list.

Denarius Moore

Dominant Denarius

■ Denarius Moore led the team with 912 yards receiving in 2010, the 10th-highest total in school history... Moore caught 25 passes for 655 yards and five TD's in his last six games and finished with 43 receptions during the regular season.

■ Moore's consecutive 100-yard receiving games (228 at South Carolina, 103 at Memphis) were the first for a Tennessee receiver since Lucas Taylor in 2007 (103 vs. Cal; 118 vs. Southern Miss).

228 Yards: In Perspective

■ The 228-yard effort from Moore against South Carolina was the fifth-highest, single-game total in NCAA Division I FBS this season

■ His school-record 38.0 yards per catch in that game is also a Tennessee record and tied for 6th in SEC history (most in the league since 2004, Troy Williamson, South Carolina, 42.0 ypc)...additionally, his 205-yard day against Kentucky was the 16th-highest total in Division I FBS in 2010.

■ Moore's 228 receiving yards were also the most in an SEC game in 2010 and the 9th-most all-time by an SEC player (4th-most since 2001)

■ It is also the most by a conference player in eight years: Florida's Taylor Jacobs posted 246 yards receiving vs. UAB in 2002.

■ Most Receiving Yards, Game, SEC, 2001-10

Reaching the Century Mark

▪ Junior tailback Tauren Poole rushed for 994 yards and 11 touchdowns on 193 attempts...he ranked fifth in the SEC at 82.8 rushing yards per game, and his 11 rushing TD's were tied for seventh in the league...Poole is just six yards away from posting the 16th 1,000-yard season by a running back in UT history and the first since Montario Hardesty last season (1,345 yards in 2009).

▪ Poole rushed for 99 yards at Vanderbilt, one yard shy of his 7th 100-yard game of 2010...his six 100-yard efforts tied him with Auburn's Cam Newton for the most in the SEC this season...Poole's 100-yard games were against UT Martin (110), Oregon (162), LSU (109), Alabama (117), Memphis (101) and Ole Miss (107)...the 100-yard game vs. Alabama snapped a streak of 41 consecutive games in which the Tide defense did not allow a 100-yard rusher.

▪ Poole's six 100-yard rushing games are the second-most by a Tennessee running back in the last 10 seasons since 2001, trailing only the seven recorded by Travis Stephens in 2001.

Nick Reveiz

Reveiz Enjoys Outstanding Final Season

▪ LB Nick Reveiz led the team in tackles with a career-best 94 while starting all 12 games at middle linebacker...the senior ranked eighth in the SEC with 7.8 tackles per game.

▪ Reveiz is one of five finalists for the Burlsworth Trophy, to be awarded annually to the outstanding player who began his career as a walk-on...Reveiz originally joined the Vols as a walk-on and was added to the scholarship roster in 2009, when he started four games at middle linebacker before suffering a season-ending knee injury...the trophy is presented by the Rotary Club of Springdale, Arkansas, and the winner will be announced on Dec. 15

▪ The other five finalists for the Burlsworth Trophy are Georgia Tech OL Sam Bedford, Army DE Josh McNary, Oklahoma State FB Bryant Ward, and Boise State DE Ryan Winterswyk.

▪ The preseason All-SEC linebacker was one of 10 Vols to start every game in 2010...he recorded 10+ tackles in four consecutive games and in five out of six (10 vs. Oregon, 14 vs. Florida, 14 vs. UAB, 11 at LSU, 11 vs. Alabama).

▪ Reveiz also intercepted two passes in 2010, along with six tackles for loss, two fumble recoveries, two passes defensed, and four quarterback hurries.

Vol for Life

"Andre represents everything it means to be a 'Vol for Life." He excelled at the highest level on the playing field in the SEC and the NFL and did so as a man of high character and principles."

-Head Coach Derek Dooley

▪ Since coming to Knoxville, Vols head coach Derek Dooley created the Vol For Life program, a comprehensive player enhancement program to develop to person outside of football.

▪ Former Vols defensive back Andre Lott is the Vol for Life Coordinator and works with UT's football student-athletes to further their personal growth through the newly created program that centers on four areas: character education, life skills, character development and spiritual growth.

Luke Stocker

Blue-Chip Stock(er)

■ Senior tight end Luke Stocker (Berea, Ky.) was one of the eight national semifinalists for the John Mackey Award, awarded annually to the top tight end

■ He is the lone Vols receiver with a catch in every game and also has multiple receptions in all but the Oregon and Vandy games...he scored first TD of the season on a 12-yard pass play at South Carolina and ranks third on team with 34 receptions and fourth with 359 yards...he recorded a season-high five catches against both Florida and Kentucky and highs of 56 yards against both UAB and Memphis.

■ Stocker's 34 receptions also represent his career-high total.

Prentiss Waggner

Record Setter

■ DB Prentiss Waggner has intercepted passes in his last three games and has a team-high five this season...his five picks this season rank fourth in the SEC and tied for 15th in the nation this season.

■ Waggner also recovered three fumbles this season, giving him eight takeaways in 2010, the most for any Vol defender since Deon Grant recorded nine (9 INTs) in 1999...Waggner's five interceptions are also the most for a Tennessee player since Eric Berry's seven in 2008.

■ A sophomore from Clinton, LA, Waggner set a Tennessee season record with his third interception returned for a touchdown in the Ole Miss game (10 yards)...the previous record was two, accomplished six times (most recent: Eric Berry, 2008)...he previously returned interceptions for touchdowns vs. both UT Martin and UAB.

■ His three INT returned for touchdowns led both the nation and the SEC.

■ Waggner's three fumble recoveries led the SEC and his 0.25 fumble recoveries per game ranked tied for 11th in Division I FBS.

■ Second-team Coaches All-SEC Janzen Jackson finished tied for 5th in the SEC with four interceptions in 2010.

The Graduates

11 Vols With Diplomas Suited Up for Music City Bowl

■ A total of 11 Tennessee Vols who have earned college degrees will participate in the Music City Bowl...nine Vols suited up this season as graduates of Tennessee. Chad Cunningham, Daniel Lincoln, Cody Pope, Nick Reveiz, Jarrod Shaw, Luke Stocker, Victor Thomas, LaMarcus Thompson and Tyler Wolf all earned their college degrees before the 2010 football season.

■ Ben Martin and Chris Walker (pictured above with coach Derek Dooley and LaMarcus Thompson) graduated this December, increasing the number of graduates on the Tennessee active roster to 11. A total of 30 UT men's and women's athletes walked the stage.

■ During the season, the nine active graduates ranked Tennessee third in the nation behind Boston College (14) and Auburn (11).

Playing the Best

■ The Vols played five teams ranked in the Top 20 at the time of the matchup: Oregon (7 and 8), Florida (10 and 7), LSU (12 and 10) Alabama (7th in both) and South Carolina (17th in both).

■ The Vols have lost six consecutive games vs. ranked teams since a 31-13 win over then 21st-ranked South Carolina on Oct. 31, 2009...however, the Vols are 10-3 in their last 13 games vs. unranked opponents.

Injury Update

■ C Cody Pope (stinger) has missed 10 consecutive games since Florida...DE Ben Martin, CB Naz Oliver and DT Marlon Walls have missed all 12 games this season because of injury.

Free Football

■ Tennessee's 32-29 double-overtime win over UAB back on Sept. 25 was the program's ninth in 11 tries since overtime play began in 1996. The Vols are tied with Arkansas for the SEC's most overtime victories and best overtime winning percentage.

The Big Orange in the NFL

M-V-P! M-V-P!

- Former Vol and current Indianapolis Colts quarterback Peyton Manning was awarded his NFL-record fourth regular-season Most Valuable Player award following the 2009 campaign.

NFL Vols Go Bowling Too

- Tennessee has had at least one representative in 18 of the last 19 Super Bowls. A total of 51 former Vols have played in the big game and 21 have done so since 2000. Pittsburgh and Arizona's Super Bowl XLIII matchup snapped a string of 17 straight games with at least one Vol appearing.
- Former Vols Jabari Greer, Robert Meachem and Marvin Mitchell helped lead the New Orleans Saints to victory in Super Bowl XLIV earlier this year.
- Former Vols Shaun Ellis, Peyton Manning and Jason Witten earned 2010 Pro Bowl invitations. Thirty-four former UT athletes have received 105 all-time invitations.

NFL All-Decade Team

- Former Vols, quarterback Peyton Manning and running back Jamal Lewis, were named to the 2000s NFL All-Decade Team, which was announced at the 2010 Pro Bowl in February. Manning was one of two signal-callers selected, while Lewis was one of the four running backs honored.

From Rocky Top to The Top

- Tennessee's 327 all-time NFL draft picks ranks first in the SEC and seventh among all NCAA FBS schools.
- 12 former Vols have been selected in the first round of the NFL Draft since 2000, while 59 UT players overall have been selected in that time frame.
- Tennessee is second in the SEC with 43 all-time first-round draft picks.
- Tennessee has had multiple first-round draft picks eight times in the history of the NFL Draft, including 2010.
- 14 of Tennessee's 43 first-round selections came in the top 10, including two number one overall picks: George Cafego (1940-Chicago Cardinals) and Peyton Manning (1998-Indianapolis Colts).

2010 NFL Draft Notes

- Six former Vols were taken in the 2010 NFL Draft, including two first-round selections: Eric Berry (1st), Dan Williams (1st), Montario Hardesty (2nd), Jacques McClendon (4th), Chris Scott (5th) and Jonathan Crompton (5th). It marked the 25th time that Tennessee has had at least six players chosen.
- UT's two first-round selections give the Vols seven first-round picks in the last five drafts, which is tied for the SEC lead.
- Tennessee's six NFL draftees were its most since 2007, when six Vols were also selected.

Neyland Stadium

The Home of the Vols got a makeover, transforming one of college football's meccas into an aesthetic masterpiece.

The Best Just Got Better

The concrete walls that used to hold up the west side were replaced with brick. Below the press box, six new panels display some of the finest to ever don the Orange and White-- Al Wilson, Gen. Robert R. Neyland, Reggie White, Peyton Manning, Johnny Majors and Doug Atkins.

Most noticeable from the outside are the approximately 700,000 bricks that totally transformed the look of the stadium's north and west sides. Standing in the middle of that transformation is the majestic Gate 21 plaza area.

Six lofty archways dominate the entrance, which doubles during the work week as a key campus transportation hub. No doubt the traffic on game days is just as hectic.

Adjacent to the Gate 21 plaza is another change, the new amphitheater at the corner of Phillip Fulmer Way and Andy Holt Avenue. The Vol Network's Kickoff Call-In Show takes place there, sporting spiffy new digs after spending years on a make-shift platform in front of a worn down hillside.

Just inside Gate 21, the Tennessee Official Team Shop is open for business six days a week under management of the UT Bookstore. Four other souvenir locations are located throughout the stadium, including one in an exclusive new seating area.

Huge Neyland Crowds Continue

▪ A total of 698,465 fans attended the Vols' seven home games at Neyland Stadium, the 6th-highest total nationally...the Vols averaged 99,781 fans per game this season, also sixth-best in the nation and also second in the SEC.

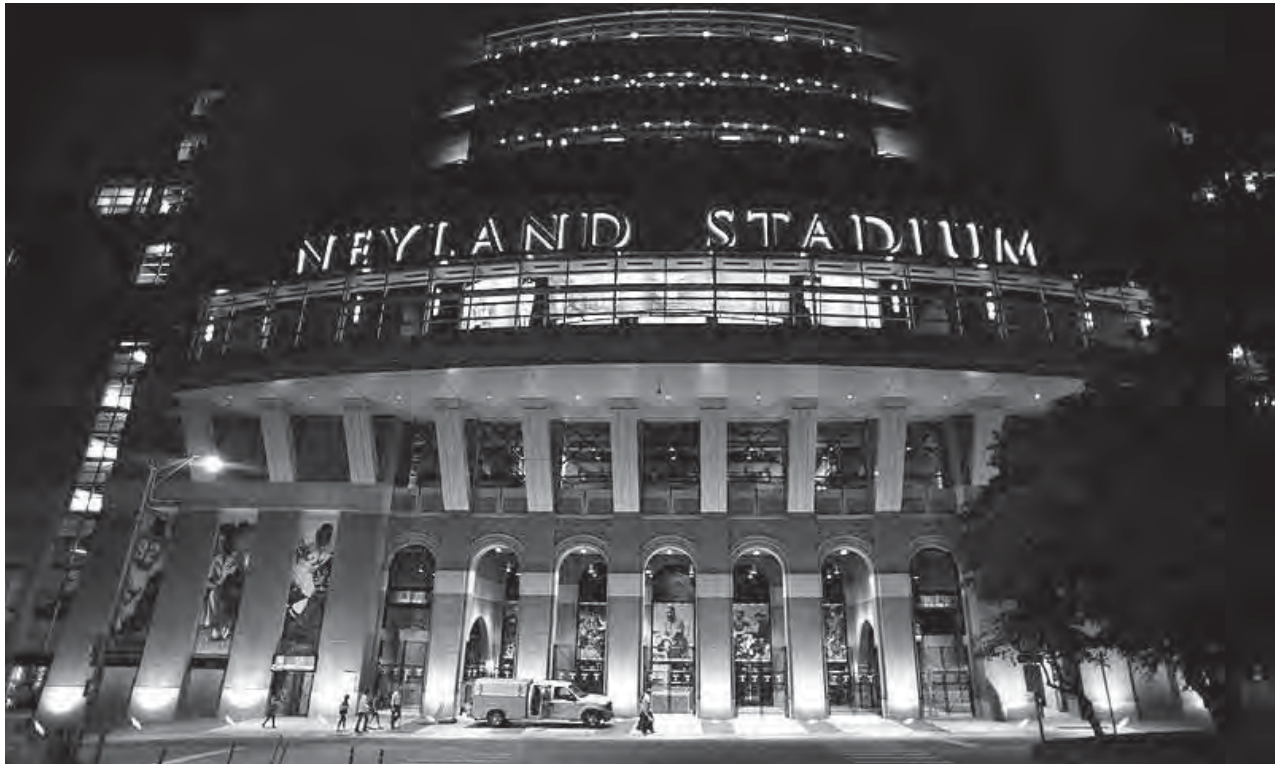
Tennessee Terrace

The Tennessee Terrace now occupies the west upper deck, with 1,800 individual chair-back seats and a climate-controlled concourse. All of the stadium's high-end concessions are available to Terrace patrons, and those individuals also have the added bonus of sitting on the home side after the Vols switched back to the west for the first time since 1992.

Plans call for stadium renovations to take a break and resume in December 2012. That should allow for a more normal maintenance schedule, including structural painting projects on the stadium's exterior that are first in line for 2011.



Design work throughout the entire Master Plan renovations has been by McCarty Holsaple McCarty Architects/Ross Bryan Associates. Contractor for this portion of the project was Blaine Construction.

Unveiling of the Neyland Statue

Honoring the man most responsible for the growth and development of the proud Volunteer football tradition, UT on Nov. 12 dedicated a statue of Gen. Robert R. Neyland (pictured at right) outside the stadium that bears his name. The dedication ceremony was held at the permanent location of the statue, between gates 15A and 17 on the west side of Neyland Stadium.

The statue, which was commissioned by artist Blair Buswell, is twice life-size. Since Neyland is portrayed in the kneeling position rather than standing, the statue is nine feet tall (a standing statue would have stood 12 feet tall).

The statue weighs approximately 1,500 pounds, and the base is 57 inches by 87 inches and features the seven Game Maxims engraved into the precast. Buswell is based in Salt Lake City and also is responsible for sculpting the busts for the Pro Football Hall of Fame incoming class each year.

Derek Dooley may own a rival's pedigree, but to Tennessee fans he felt just like one of their own when the Vols introduced him as the school's 22nd head coach in January.

Dooley, 42, came to UT after three seasons as head coach at Louisiana Tech, where he also served as athletics director since March 2008. He was the only athletics director serving as head football coach on the major college level.

But it is his family lineage where Tennessee and Southeastern Conference football fans make the connection. Dooley is the youngest son of Georgia legend Vince Dooley, who coached the Bulldogs for 25 seasons and claimed six league titles and the 1980 national championship.

And yet Tennessee's Dooley sounds right at home on Rocky Top.

"As most of you know, I grew up in this conference," he said. "I grew up in the SEC. It didn't take me long as a youngster to realize that Tennessee was the essence of college football. Even as a young kid, watching the team run through the 'T,' when you see checkerboard end zones and, of course, hear 'Rocky Top' – those were vivid memories as a youngster."

In Dooley's first season at the helm of the Tennessee football program, the Vols finished 6-6, winning all four games in November to become bowl eligible and earn a berth in the Franklin American Mortgage Music City Bowl. This year's Tennessee team was led by a small but committed group of upperclass leaders, such as team captains Nick Reveiz and Luke Stocker, junior running back and captain Tauren Poole, and standout wide receivers Denarius Moore and Gerald Jones.

However, the bright future on the horizon for Tennessee football is best exemplified by the performances from a talented Volunteer freshman class. Tennessee played 26 freshmen in 2010, including 16 true freshmen, both the third-highest totals in major college football. Against Memphis, the Vols started a school-record seven true freshmen.

Many of the freshmen who played for the Vols this season assumed significant roles and produced record-setting seasons. Quarterback Tyler Bray was undefeated as a starter and set a Tennessee record for passing yards by a freshman with 1,537. Bray also set overall school records for passing touchdowns (5) and passing yards (308) in a single half, both accomplished at Memphis.

Freshman wide receiver Justin Hunter, one of many freshmen recruited and signed by Dooley and his staff in the short weeks between his acceptance of the head coaching job at Tennessee and national signing day, set a Tennessee freshman record with six receiving touchdowns and averaged a remarkable 27 yards per catch this season. Additionally, the Vols received 28 starts by freshmen on the offensive line, including right tackle Ja'Wuan James, who started all 12 games at right tackle. James Stone (7 starts), JerQuari Schofield (5 starts) and Zach Fulton (4 starts) also started multiple games in 2010, allowing each to gain experience that could pay huge dividends for Tennessee football down the road.

And while the future certainly seems promising, the present featured a big-play offense that produced 71 plays of 20-plus yards, 19 of which were touchdowns. This total marked a significant increase from the 2009 total of 61 plays of 20-or-more-yards, only 10 of which went for touchdowns.

The 2010 team's growth and development as the season progressed was also featured defensively as well. The Vols allowed only 13.0 points per game in November, ranking eighth in the nation during the month. Tennessee also was a plus-9 in turnover margin in November, the third-best total nationally. And despite having such a young roster, the disciplined nature of the 2010 Vols allowed them to rank third in the conference in fewest penalty yards per game for the entire season (41.5 yards per game).

Dooley never accepted the predetermined path to success. He played his college football at Virginia, turning down scholarship offers elsewhere to walk on and later earn his own scholarship from Cavaliers head coach George Welsh.

As a wide receiver, Dooley earned that scholarship after his second season and went on to help the Cavaliers to three bowl appearances and the 1989 Atlantic Coast Conference championship.

In 1990, he was named first team Academic All-ACC and helped Virginia to a Sugar Bowl bid against Tennessee.

During his UVa career, Dooley caught 41 passes for 604 yards and three touchdowns. His level of play was such in the 1990 season that he was invited to and participated in the Senior Bowl.

He graduated that year with a bachelor's degree in government and foreign affairs, and then went on to earn his law degree from the University of Georgia in 1994.

After a successful start to the legal profession, Dooley switched gears and returned to his love of football. Four short years later, he latched onto the staff of Nick Saban at LSU and moved into the fast lane of the SEC. After five successful seasons that included two SEC titles, the 2003 national championship, Dooley moved with Saban to the NFL's Miami Dolphins.

"I really thrived in his way of doing things," Dooley said of Saban. "I'm very grateful for the opportunity he gave me in wearing so many hats, coaching different positions, coordinating recruiting and coordinating special teams, assistant head coach -- he really allowed me to blossom as a young coach."

But rather than remain in that comfort zone, Dooley again chose his own path toward success – a path that returned him to the state of Louisiana.

"There was a part of me that said stay in your comfort zone, sit tight, and, hopefully, one day it (head coaching job) would come," Dooley said. "That really isn't who I am, and I felt I needed to develop more to be ready when I got this opportunity."

Dooley was named to his first head coaching position by Louisiana Tech in December 2006, and immediately began laying the foundation for future success. Included in his 23-26 overall record was an 8-5 mark in 2008 highlighted by the school's first postseason victory in 30 years at the Independence Bowl. Tech finished second in the WAC that season and played in a bowl game for only the third time since joining the major college ranks in 1989.

For his efforts, the Louisiana Sports Writers' Association named him 2008 Coach of the Year.

"I am certain that I'm a better and more qualified candidate by doing what I did the last three years," Dooley said. "I did take a little bit of a risk. I took the head coaching job at Louisiana Tech. It was a program that had been struggling, it was a program that hadn't made a lot of investment in football, and I'm very proud of the improvements we made in all phases."

Tennessee Director of Athletics Mike Hamilton, always a visionary, saw in Dooley a rising star on the sidelines that could fit right away into his rugged

SEC surroundings.

"Derek is one of the bright young coaches in America," Hamilton said. "He understands our league and the competitive environment in which we compete. He took a very difficult first head coaching job and made significant strides there in a short period of time.

"He is incredibly bright, a tireless recruiter and excellent on-the-field coach."

Dooley began his coaching career in 1996 as a graduate assistant at Georgia under defensive coordinator Joe Kines. He then served from 1997-99 as wide receivers coach and co-recruiting coordinator at SMU, where Dooley helped the Mustangs to the school's only winning season over a 20-year stretch.

Dooley joined the staff at LSU under Saban in 2000, serving as recruiting coordinator and tight ends coach from 2000-02 and then running backs coach and special teams coordinator from 2003-04. While LSU's recruiting coordinator, Dooley helped the Tigers land No. 1 classes in 2001 and 2003.

The Tigers won SEC championships both of those seasons, claimed the BCS national championship in 2003, and Saban promoted Dooley to assistant head coach for the 2004 campaign.

Under Dooley's tutelage, running back Justin Vincent set an LSU freshman record by rushing for 1,001 yards in 2003. He went on to be named MVP of both the SEC Championship Game as well as the Sugar Bowl, during which LSU claimed the BCS national title.

In 2004, the Tigers finished first in the SEC in rushing (193.8 yards per game), led by Aley Broussard (867 yards, 6.1 avg.) and Joseph Addai (680 yards, 6.7 avg.), a first-round draft choice of Indianapolis in 2006.

Dooley left with Saban to serve as tight ends coach for the Dolphins from 2005-06. During his two years in Miami, Dooley oversaw the continued development of tight end Randy McMichael, who ended his Dolphins career as the all-time leader in receptions by a tight end.

Before embarking on his coaching career, Dooley practiced law at a private law firm in Atlanta for two years.

Dooley is married to Dr. Allison Jeffers Dooley, an OB/GYN and Fort Worth, Texas, native. They have two sons, John Taylor (12) and Peyton (9), and a daughter, Julianna (6).

Allison is active in fundraising and leadership for the Susan G. Komen Foundation for breast cancer research.

What They're Saying About Derek Dooley

"(Derek) Dooley is not only the right kind of coach, he is the right kind of MAN that Tennessee needs to lead its football program at this point in history."
Tony Barnhart, National college football journalist and longtime sportswriter for the Atlanta Journal-Constitution

"Coach Dooley is such a bright person. He made me a better person on and off the field. He made me focus every day on every aspect of the game. As a coach, he makes you the best player you can possibly be. He'll coach you like you've never been coached, and he'll push you to your maximum potential. He is a phenomenal teacher."
Randy McMichael
St. Louis Rams tight end

"He's the kind of coach that's got a lot of energy, and he's somebody that you can relate to on a personal level. He's great at giving advice while being upbeat at the same time. There aren't many coaches that will let you have fun while getting the job done at the same time. He has the ability to get that out of you."
Joseph Addai
Indianapolis Colts tailback

"I really admire and look up to him. Not only is he a great coach, but he is a great man. He comes from a background of tradition of winning, and he represents what you expect from in a coach. You can believe and fully trust him. He is a high-character man and a player's coach."

The start to Jim Chaney's second season at Tennessee certainly offered a monumental assignment. UT's offensive coordinator faced the task of replacing his quarterback, finding a starting tailback and overhauling nearly the entire offensive line.

But Chaney once again pushed all the right buttons to produce what turned into a terrific rushing and passing combination that vaulted Tennessee into another bowl game. Chaney saw junior Tauren Poole approach the 1,000-yard rushing plateau during his first season as the starter, and then watched as true freshman Tyler Bray threw for a UT freshman-record 1,537 yards while leading the Vols to a 4-0 November.

All this behind an offensive line that jelled down the stretch and offers a solid anchor for Tennessee's surging fortunes.

Chaney, 48, arrived in Knoxville from the NFL ranks, having spent the three previous seasons as assistant coach for the St. Louis Rams.

The majority of Chaney's coaching experience, however, comes from the collegiate ranks. His coaching and recruiting turns at Purdue, Wyoming and Cal State Fullerton made him the perfect fit for Tennessee.

Chaney spent all three years in St. Louis coaching the offensive line before adding tight ends to his assignment sheet in 2008. During the 2007 campaign, Chaney helped coach an offensive line that led running back Steven Jackson to his third consecutive 1,000-yard season.

Possessing one of college football's best offensive minds, Chaney helped the Boilermakers lead the Big Ten in passing offense five times and total offense three. Purdue was ranked in the top 10 in the nation in total offense in six seasons, including 2000, when the Boilermakers ranked fourth.

Chaney served as the offensive coordinator at Purdue from 1997-2005.

Quarterback Drew Brees, a second-round draft pick by the San Diego Chargers in 2001, was the NCAA total offense champion in 2000, averaging 349.1 yards per game, and received the Maxwell Award as the nation's outstanding player. Tim Stratton received the inaugural John Mackey Award as the nation's best tight end in 2000.

More importantly, the 2000 combination of Chaney and Brees under head coach Joe Tiller led Purdue to its first Big Ten championship and Rose Bowl berth in 33 years.

From 1997-2001, Chaney served as recruiting coordinator and helped the Boilermakers sign some of the country's top high school talent. The 1998 class was ranked second in the Big Ten and 11th nationally. Each of Chaney's last five classes was in the top 30 nationally.

Before his Purdue tenure, Chaney was offensive line coach and recruiting coordinator at Wyoming in 1995 and 1996. He joined the Cowboys in 1993 as a graduate assistant, working with the tight ends and recruiting.

Chaney broke into coaching at Cal State Fullerton in 1985. He served in many areas, including offensive coordinator and recruiting coordinator as well as coaching all offensive positions. Chaney had a stint as the offensive line coach at Western Michigan during the spring of 1988 before returning to Cal State Fullerton.

A native of Holden, Mo., Chaney earned his bachelor's degree in physical education from Central Missouri State University in 1985 after a career at nose guard. He earned All-Conference honors as a senior.

Chaney and his wife, Lisa, who hails from Rock Springs, Wyo., and they are the parents of daughters Elizabeth and Sara.

Justin Wilcox

Justin Wilcox saved his best defensive showings for last during his debut season in the Southeastern Conference.

Wilcox blended a unit of defenders that hit its stride during Tennessee's unbeaten November streak to a bowl game. The Vols defense registered more sacks, forced turnovers and took advantage with big-play scoring opportunities while limiting four straight foes to no more than 14 points.

Wilcox came to Knoxville from Boise State, where for the previous four seasons he served as defensive coordinator and helped the Broncos blast their way into the elite of college football. In 2009, Boise State completed a perfect 14-0 season with a Fiesta Bowl victory over TCU.

That victory lifted Boise State's record to 49-4 in four seasons with Wilcox at the defensive helm under head coach Chris Petersen.

Wilcox, 34, made his mark on the national defensive rankings in 2009, guiding the Broncos to a No. 14 statistical finish in both total defense and scoring defense and a No. 3 showing in turnover margin. Boise State bookended the season with two of its most impressive victories, clamping down on Pac-10 Conference champion Oregon 19-8 to start the year and then closing with the 17-10 triumph over previously undefeated TCU at the Fiesta Bowl.

The Broncos of 2008 were nearly as tough, finishing 12-1 and winning their second Western Athletic Conference title in three seasons. Wilcox's defense ranked third nationally in scoring, allowing just 12.6 points per game and holding eight of its 13 opponents to 10 points or fewer.

Boise State led the WAC in total defense and scoring defense all four seasons under Wilcox.

Wilcox coached six seasons overall in Boise, also working as a graduate assistant for the Broncos from 2001-02. Among his prized stalwarts were defensive end Ryan Winterswyk and defensive back Kyle Wilson, both of whom twice earned All-WAC first team nods.

In both 2007 and 2006, the Broncos also led the WAC in rushing defense. Boise State was eighth nationally against the run during Wilcox's debut season as defensive coordinator, and his overall defensive scheme was instrumental in helping that 2006 squad to a 13-0 record and the now-famous 43-42 overtime win over Oklahoma in the Fiesta Bowl.

Before returning to Boise State as defensive coordinator, Wilcox spent three seasons (2003-05) at California as linebackers coach. Wilcox was credited with turning his linebackers into a unit that epitomized the Cal defense's swarm-to-the-ball philosophy, and the Bears went to three straight bowls and combined for a 26-12 record.

In his two seasons as a graduate assistant at Boise State, Wilcox worked with the outside linebackers. He helped Boise State to an upset victory over No. 8 Fresno State in 2001 and a 12-1 record and No. 15 national ranking in 2002.

The Junction City, Ore., native played collegiately at Oregon from 1995-99 and was a part of four teams that advanced to bowl games. He played in the 1997 Las Vegas, 1998 Aloha, and 1999 Sun bowls. He redshirted in 1995 when Oregon participated in the Cotton Bowl.

His first three years were spent at safety before he moved to cornerback as a senior in 1999 and claimed All-Pac-10 second-team honors. Wilcox earned his bachelor's degree in anthropology from Oregon in 1999.

Wilcox is the son of Dave Wilcox, All-Pro linebacker for the San Francisco 49ers who was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 2000.

Charlie Baggett

Assistant Head Coach/ Wide Receivers

Charlie Baggett blended a talented mixture of upperclassmen and newcomers to give the Vols an excellent receiving corps during his first year at UT.

The NFL veteran, who has coached nine 1,000-yard receivers in the pro ranks, saw seniors Gerald Jones and Denarius Moore lead Tennessee in 2010. Jones was tops in catches with 46 for 507 yards and three touchdowns, while Moore led the way with 912 receiving yards and nine TDs on 43 receptions.

Freshmen also thrived under Baggett's leadership. Justin Hunter made his presence felt with a team-leading 27.1-yard receiving average, finishing with 15 catches for 407 yards. His six receiving scores were second only to Moore. Da'Rick Rogers caught 10 passes for 122 yards to go with 124 rushing yards and a 25.9-yard kickoff return average.

Baggett, 57, who serves as Tennessee's assistant head coach and wide receivers coach. brought 33 years of coaching experience to the Vols, including 11 seasons as an NFL assistant.

Baggett spent 2009 with the St. Louis Rams and before that was at Washington, where he coached the Huskies' wide receivers from 2007-08. Baggett was associate head coach/offense and wide receivers coach for the Miami Dolphins from 2005-06, coaching under Nick Saban and alongside Dooley.

Under Baggett, Dolphins wide receiver Chris Chambers had a Pro Bowl season in 2005, catching 82 passes for 1,118 yards and 11 touchdowns.

Baggett was wide receivers coach for the Vikings from 2000-04, coaching Cris Carter and Randy Moss. In the first four seasons of Baggett's tenure, Moss had 376 receptions for 5,649 yards and 49 touchdowns, all of which ranked in the top three in the NFL. Carter caught 169 passes before retiring after the 2001 season.

A native of Fayetteville, N.C., Baggett and his wife, Lisa, have a daughter, Camille.

Harry Hiestand

Offensive Line

Harry Hiestand (pronounced HE-stand) faced the daunting task of putting together his first offensive line at Tennessee from an inexperienced group. The Vols returned only one player with any starting experience at all, and that amounted to a total of three starts.

Yet the former Super Bowl coach with the Chicago Bears molded Tennessee's young but talented group up front and formed a unit that should be a foundation for growth over the next few seasons.

Hiestand saw his two tackles, sophomore Dallas Thomas and true freshman Ja'Wuan James, start every game. There was plenty of movement inside, but Jarrod Shaw – the lone starting veteran of the bunch – proved his versatility by playing in all three interior positions as needed. Two more true freshmen, James Stone at center and Zach Fulton at guard, worked their way into the starting lineup under Hiestand's guidance.

The Malvern, Pa., native came to UT after five seasons as offensive line coach with the Chicago Bears, where he helped the NFL franchise to its first Super Bowl appearance in 21 years.

Before that, Hiestand coached 17 seasons at four different major college schools, the longest tenure being eight seasons as offensive line coach and assistant head coach at Illinois.

The 51-year-old has been coaching offensive linemen and tight ends since 1982. In Chicago, Hiestand molded units that were known for their physical play in the run game and ability to protect the quarterback. The NFC-champion Bears of 2006 attempted 539 passes while permitting just 25 sacks, and the 2008 squad attempted 557 passes and absorbed just 29 sacks.

During his Illinois days, Hiestand coached 12 All-Big Ten Conference selections on the offensive line. Every starting offensive lineman in Hiestand's first seven years with the Illini made it to an NFL training camp.

Hiestand and his wife, Terri, have three sons, Michael, Matthew and Mark, and one daughter, Sarah.

Darin Hinshaw

Quarterbacks

Darin Hinshaw's impact was immediate as Tennessee's first-year quarterbacks coach. The former signal-caller helped two UT quarterbacks – both making their debuts in Knoxville – lead the Vols offense to a bowl game and a third-place finish in the SEC's Eastern Division.

Hinshaw's quarterback duo of Matt Simms and Tyler Bray combined for 2,997 yards passing and 22 touchdowns in 2010. The true freshman Bray assumed the starter's role in November and guided the team to a 4-0 finish to claim bowl eligibility. During those four starts, Bray threw for 1,234 yards and 12 TDs against just four interceptions, earning SEC Freshman of the Week three times.

A Punta Gorda, Fla., native, Hinshaw was a record-setting quarterback himself during his collegiate playing days and spent the last three seasons as wide receivers coach at Memphis on the staff of former Vols footballer Tommy West.

Hinshaw, 38, joined the Memphis staff after serving one season as offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach at Georgia Southern.

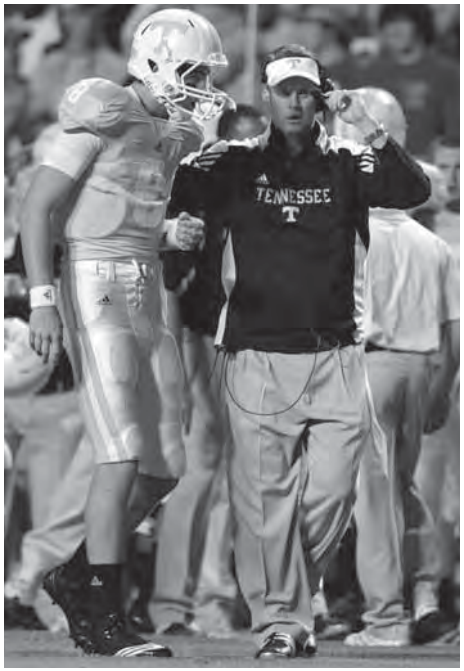
Prior to that, Hinshaw worked at Middle Tennessee for five seasons. He was the running backs coach his first two seasons before being elevated to co-offensive coordinator in February 2003.

Hinshaw made his way to Middle Tennessee from Central Florida, his alma mater. Hinshaw spent 1999 as a graduate assistant before taking over the quarterback coaching duties in 2000.

He set numerous school records for the Knights, finishing as career leader in every major passing category, including yards (9,000) and TDs (82). During his time under center, UCF had a combined 28-16 record, including a 9-3 mark in 1993 that resulted in a berth in the Division I-AA playoffs. Hinshaw was named in 2004 to UCF's 25th Anniversary Team.

Following his playing days at UCF, Hinshaw began a career in pro football. After a brief stint with the Cleveland Browns, he spent two years with the Orlando Predators of the Arena Football League.

Hinshaw and his wife, Pam, have four children: daughters Sydney, Hayley and Carley; and son Darin.



Terry Joseph

Defensive Backs/ Recruiting Coordinator

Terry Joseph's defensive secondary unit helped the Vols finish among the nation's top 10 with 17 interceptions in 2010.

UT's 17 picks also tied for second in the SEC while ranking ninth overall in major college football, and 10 of those 17 interceptions helped spark Tennessee's 4-0 November run to a bowl game.

Only safety Janzen Jackson started every game, while Joseph matched five other consistently improving defenders among the three remaining secondary positions. Prentiss Waggner joined Jackson to earn All-SEC second team honors, and Marsalis Teague, Eric Gordon and Brent Brewer were among the key figures in Tennessee's defensive turnaround.

Joseph also serves recruiting coordinator under Derek Dooley, and the New Orleans native held those same duties the previous three seasons on Dooley's staff at Louisiana Tech. Joseph helped turn around a Bulldogs secondary unit that sliced its scoring defense average nearly in half by 2008.

That's the year Tech won its first bowl game in 30 years at the Independence Bowl. The Bulldogs finished second in the WAC and played in a bowl game for only the third time since 1989.

Joseph also coordinated Tech's recruiting, and the 2009 class ranked second in the league. Rivals.com tabbed Joseph as the No. 4 non-BCS recruiter.

Joseph, 37, came to Tech after one graduate assistant season at LSU, where he worked under head coach Les Miles and defensive coordinator Bo Pelini.

Before that, Joseph gathered knowledge of the Louisiana high school football circuit -- especially south Louisiana -- thanks to his three seasons each as an assistant coach at both Archbishop Shaw and Destrehan high schools in the New Orleans area.

Joseph earned his bachelor's degree from Northwestern State in 1996. He was the 1995 Southland Conference Baseball Player of the Year and went on to four minor league playing seasons in the Chicago Cubs and San Diego Padres systems.

He is married to the former Amanda Gauthe of Destrehan, La., and they are the parents of daughters Taylor and Lynleigh.

Eric Russell

Special Teams Coordinator/ Tight Ends

Tennessee head coach Derek Dooley welcomed a familiar face when he named Eric Russell to his assistant coaching staff. Russell coached two seasons under Dooley at Louisiana Tech before moving to the Texas Tech staff.

During his first season in Knoxville, Russell sparked improvement in UT's special teams units. The combination of Daniel Lincoln and true freshman Michael Palardy made 15 of 18 field goals. Additionally, the kickoff return teams averaged 21.6 yards while allowing only 18.8 yards per return. The Vols also successfully pulled off two fake punts for first downs and a kickoff reverse that sent true freshman Da'Rick Rogers on a 78-yard runback.

In addition, his work with tight ends helped senior Luke Stocker finish third on UT with 34 catches.

Russell, who turns 43 the day of the bowl game, was special teams coordinator at Texas Tech in 2009. The Idaho native arrived in Lubbock after two successful seasons at Louisiana Tech under Dooley.

Before that, Russell spent 13 seasons at North Texas, including five as the special teams coordinator. During his tenure at North Texas, Russell helped lead the program to four consecutive Sun Belt Conference titles and four consecutive appearances in the New Orleans Bowl from 2001-04.

During his time as special teams coordinator, North Texas blocked 14 punts, including seven during the 2003 season.

Prior to joining the North Texas staff in 1994, Russell served as a graduate assistant at New Mexico in 1993 and at Idaho in 1991.

An all-state quarterback at St. Marie's High School, Russell was named the Idaho Offensive Player of the Year as a senior before earning all-conference honors at Spokane (Wash.) Falls Community College in 1986-87. He earned his bachelor's degree in public relations from Idaho in 1991.

Russell is married to the former Shannon Cook of Tyler, Texas, and the couple has a son, Hayden, and a daughter, Hadleigh.

Chuck Smith

Defensive Line

Tennessee's Derek Dooley completed his staff by naming Chuck Smith, former UT and pro football defensive star, to guide the defensive front.

Originally from Athens, Ga., where he was a high school teammate of Dooley's, Smith molded UT's defensive line unit into a key factor in the Vols allowing no more than 14 points in any of their four November games en route to a 4-0 sweep.

Veteran Chris Walker teamed with Malik Jackson, Gerald Williams and Victor Thomas to compose a solid front four that sparked the defense to 13 of the team's 23 sacks over those last four games. Overall, the UT defensive line recorded 19½ sacks during the 2010 season.

Smith, who turns 41 this month, spent the last two seasons in the NFL, with the New York Jets' No. 1-ranked defense as pass rush specialist and assistant defensive line coach, and in Baltimore as the Ravens' defensive coordinator and pass rush coach.

Smith built his coaching reputation as a defensive line specialist throughout the previous decade. There are nearly 60 NFL players over the last five seasons whom Smith has personally taught.

Among his star pupils are three former Vols -- Albert Haynesworth, of the Washington Redskins; Robert Ayers of the Denver Broncos; and Shaun Ellis with the New York Jets.

Smith also taught and instructed coaches from the pro to high school levels as part of Defensive Line Inc., a firm he started in 2001. Since then, Smith has concentrated his efforts on teaching and coaching what it takes to be a successful lineman.

Smith compiled 58½ career sacks in nine NFL seasons and captained the Falcons' first and only Super Bowl appearance following the 1998 season. He later was voted "Best Defensive Lineman in Team History" by the Atlanta Falcons fans.

At Tennessee, Smith started at right defensive end in both of his UT playing seasons. He helped the Vols to 1990 SEC and Sugar Bowl championships and earned All-SEC honors for the 1991 Vols that advanced to the Fiesta Bowl. During his senior campaign, Smith made 13 of his 64 tackles behind the line of scrimmage. Nine of those stops were quarterbacks sacks for a combined minus-74 yards.

Smith and his wife, Mynique, have a daughter, Giavani, and sons Chuckie and Maddox.

Lance Thompson

Linebackers

Lance Thompson arrived in Knoxville two years ago the owner of a championship pedigree. That mentality is building a foundation in the Tennessee linebacker corps and already paying dividends.

Thompson's three starting linebackers are among the team's four leading tacklers in 2010. Stalwart Nick Reviez sets the pace with 94, followed by Herman Lathers at 68 and LaMarcus Thompson with 55. Reveiz and Thompson are finishing their UT careers in style, with Reveiz a finalist for the Burlsworth Trophy, presented for the first time this year to a former walk-on is having the biggest impact on his team.

Thompson, a Riverdale, Ga., native, helped mold national title-winners at Georgia Tech and LSU, and spent his two seasons before UT rejuvenating Alabama's fortunes toward the SEC elite as outside linebackers coach and recruiting specialist.

Thompson owns two separate coaching stints alongside Nick Saban, having originally worked for Saban and alongside Derek Dooley at LSU for the 2002-03 seasons before rejoining Saban at Alabama in 2007. Thompson served LSU as the assistant head coach in charge of recruiting and tight ends during their national championship season in 2003.

After his LSU tenure, Thompson spent three years as defensive coordinator at Central Florida. He previously served as Alabama's defensive line coach in 1999-2000. Prior to his first two-year stint at Alabama, Thompson was a part of the Georgia Tech staff for 11 years. During that time, Thompson held the position of Director of Football Operations from 1992-94.

Thompson got his start in coaching in 1988, serving as a graduate assistant for two years at Georgia Tech, followed by two more years as a volunteer assistant in 1990 and 1991.

Thompson was a four-year letterman at The Citadel, where he earned his bachelor's degree in education and mathematics in 1987.

He is the father of three daughters: Allie, Christina and Lane.

Bennie Wylie

Strength and Conditioning

Bennie Wylie was one of the key early appointments by Tennessee head coach Derek Dooley.

The 34-year-old Wylie accepted the crucial role of leading UT's program not only as football head strength coach, but also off-season workouts coordinator and daily mentor and role model to the lives of Tennessee's student-athletes.

Wylie came to Knoxville after five seasons at Texas Tech, where for his last three years he was the athletics department's head strength and conditioning coach. In 2009, he was on the Red Raider staff alongside current Vols assistant coach Eric Russell.

"It's just a great opportunity to be here with Coach Dooley and be on the front end of this movement," Wylie said of his UT post. "I'm helping get this program back on top of the SEC and I'm just really excited about the kids we have here. We have great talent, and I'm just really excited to work with those guys every day."

The Mexia, Texas, native established himself as one of the top strength coaches in the country during his Lubbock tenure. Wylie's five seasons helped the Red Raiders produce a 46-18 overall record in football that was third-best in the Big 12 Conference.

Included was perhaps the most memorable season in Tech history, the 11-2 campaign of 2008. His training methods and dedication to the student-athlete garnered national attention not only for the school and the program, but for himself.

Prior to his appointment at Texas Tech, Wylie was an assistant strength and conditioning coach with the Dallas Cowboys for four seasons, helping implement rehabilitation for injured players. In addition to working with the Cowboys, Wylie also spent the 2002 spring season heading the strength and conditioning program for the Dallas Desperados arena football team, a property of the Dallas Cowboys.

Wylie and his wife, Jennifer, are the proud parents of twin boys, Braden and Caden.

David Blackburn

Senior Associate AD Administration/Football

The Facts

- Born: Sept. 19, 1965 (Loudon)
- Wife: Andrea Blackburn
- Children: Emma and Charlee

- Education

Loudon High School
University of Tennessee 1989

David Blackburn continues to display his value and versatility to the University of Tennessee, serving in his second year as Senior Associate Athletics Director for Administration-Football.

Blackburn, 45, is involved with the overall administrative duties of the football program, as assigned by athletics director Mike Hamilton.

He has personnel oversight as well as responsibility for the coordination of preseason camp, in-season practice sessions, travel, bowl arrangements and the football budget.

A Loudon native, Blackburn graduated from UT in 1989 after serving two years as head football student manager under head coach Johnny Majors. He joined UT Athletics in a full-time capacity in 1991 and has served in a number of roles, including five years as assistant athletics director for football administration under head coach Phillip Fulmer.

His other positions include serving as assistant recruiting coordinator, administrative assistant for football, director of recruiting compliance for all men's teams, assistant athletics director for development, and associate athletics director for administration.

Blackburn lives in Maryville with his wife, the former Andrea Radel of Albion, Mich. They have two daughters: Emma and Charlee.

Brad Pendergrass

Director of Football Operations

The Facts

- Born: June 25, 1976 (Oak Ridge)

- Education

Huntingdon High School
University of Tennessee 1998
Master's, University of Tennessee 2001

Brad Pendergrass returned to Knoxville this year as UT's director of football operations on head coach Derek Dooley's staff.

Pendergrass held the same position last year at Wisconsin after a five-year stint at Mississippi State. His first full-time position, however, was at Tennessee with his alma mater.

Pendergrass, 34, made the move to Wisconsin one year ago as the Badgers' director of football operations and handled the team's administrative operations.

At Mississippi State, he spent his first three years as assistant to the head coach. Pendergrass was named coordinator of football operations in 2007, and then was promoted prior to the 2008 season to assistant AD for football operations.

Pendergrass spent 10 seasons with the Vols under former head coach Phillip Fulmer -- rising from student manager, to graduate assistant for the coaching staff, to graduate assistant in football operations and later to full-time recruiting assistant.

A native of Huntingdon, Pendergrass received his bachelor's degree in business/marketing from UT in 1998. He earned a master's in human performance and sports studies in 2001.

Chino Fontenette

Graduate Assistant/Offense

Chino Fontenette joined the UT coaching staff as offensive graduate assistant after two seasons as running backs coach at Louisiana Tech.

Fontenette helped mold the 2008 Bulldogs ground game into the second-best unit in the WAC en route to the program's signature win at the Independence Bowl. And Tech tailback Daniel Porter finished his Bulldogs career with a school-record 3,352 yards.

Fontetette earned a double major from Tulane University in media arts and marketing in 2003 and was named to the Conference USA Commissioner's Honor Roll. As a player, from 1999-2003, Fontenette saw action at running back, wide receiver and quarterback for an 8-5 squad that won the Hawaii Bowl in 2002.

He also spent 2004-05 working as an ESPN production assistant, including assignments on the NFL Draft, Sunday Night Football, the Pro Bowl and the NBA Draft. He returned to coaching as a graduate assistant for Tulane under head coach Chris Scelfo in 2005.

Peter Sirmon

Graduate Assistant/Defense

In his first year at Tennessee, Peter Sirmon brought a wealth of experience and knowledge to the Vols. The seven-year NFL veteran spent 2009 as a graduate assistant at Oregon, his alma mater.

Prior to a stint with the Ducks, Sirmon served as the linebackers coach, as well as coaching kick-off coverage teams, at Central Washington, his first coaching position since retiring from the NFL.

He was selected by the Tennessee Titans in the fourth round of the 2000 NFL Draft and spent his entire career playing in Nashville. For five of his seven years in the NFL, Sirmon started at linebacker for the Titans.

An All-Pac 10 linebacker, Sirmon was a four-year starter and letter winner at Oregon from 1996-1999. During his time in Eugene, Sirmon was a part of 30 Ducks' wins.

Sirmon and his wife, Lindsay, have four children: Jackson, 9; Austyn, 8; Savanna, 6; and Sienna, 3.

Heather Ervin is in her second year as assistant director for football operations.

Ervin's duties include assisting with all non-coaching aspects associated with football operations. This includes working with game management, coordinating player campus and off-campus housing needs and their summer employment, and working closely with the Thornton Center in managing academic demands.

In addition, Ervin serves as chief liaison to all of parent event functions as well as being routinely involved with official and unofficial recruiting visits. She also managed the Wolf-Kaplan Room pre-game and the Lauricella Center Lettermen's Room for post-game functions.

The Sweetwater native joined UT Athletics in September 2001 in an administrative support role with the football office.

Ervin holds both a bachelor's and master's degree in sports management from Troy University, where she played basketball and later served as a graduate assistant coach for two years.

Ervin and her husband, Harry, who also hails from Sweetwater, reside in Maryville with their daughters Jasmine and Jada.

- College Football
Quarterback, Tennessee, 1971-74

Condredge Holloway is in his 13th year on the Tennessee staff and continues to serve as a vital link between the current Vols football staff and its storied history.

UT's Assistant Athletics Director for Student-Athlete Relations and Letterman also is one of the most celebrated players in school history. Holloway's most recent honor was induction to the Alabama Sports Hall of Fame, the eighth hall of fame to include the former Big Orange quarterback and All-America shortstop.

Holloway, 56, is maintaining a number of his football staff duties but primarily now serves as the department's liaison with the Lettermen's Club, assisting with reunions and other projects.

Holloway also is the point person for numerous issues surrounding the conduct of a major college football program. Holloway has taken great pride in helping former Vols find their niche in the business world by assisting them with contacts and employment opportunities following graduation.

Holloway left Knoxville and played 13 seasons in the Canadian Football League. He was league MVP in 1982.

After his professional playing days ended, Holloway returned to UT and earned his degree.

Holloway is married to the former Courtney Haralson of Meigs County and is the father of Jasmine and Condredge III.

Kris Ann Hawkins

Director of On Campus Recruiting

The Facts
- Husband: John Hawkins
- Children: Reagan and Haynes

- Education
Morristown West High School
University of Tennessee 2001

Kris Ann Hawkins signed on to head coach Derek Dooley's football reorganization when she was named Director of On Campus Recruiting in April.

The Morristown native initiates the plans for all on-campus activities for both official and unofficial visits and helps with mailing campaigns and general recruiting office activities.

After graduating with an English degree from UT in 2001, Hawkins began her career working for her alma mater in the university's Upward Bound programs. In 2003, she moved to the admissions office at Middle Tennessee State, assisting with student tours on the Murfreesboro campus, before returning to UT's admission's office two years later.

That's when Hawkins, as Assistant Director of Admissions, began the Orange Pride program and maintained oversight as part of her campus recruitment activities. She also helped with general student recruiting at local high schools and assisted with event planning.

Hawkins and her husband, John, who is from Knoxville, are the parents of a daughter, Reagan, and a son, Haynes.

- Wife: Jackie Lott
- Children: Ella Grace and Ana Lou

- Education
Melrose High School
University of Tennessee 2000
Master's, Trevecca Nazarene University 2010

- College Football
Defensive Back, Tennessee, 1998-2001

Head coach Derek Dooley took a giant step toward his reorganization of the Tennessee brand when he named former Vols defensive back Andre Lott to the position of Vol for Life (VFL) Coordinator.

The newly-created VFL is a comprehensive program for UT's football student-athletes that centers on four areas of personal growth: character education, life skills, career development and spiritual growth.

A former captain and four-year letterman from 1997-2001, Lott returns to Knoxville from West Tennessee where he was an assistant football coach, head track and field coach and Success Coordinator in the Hardin County school system. As Success Coordinator, Lott taught kids of all age groups real life skills, dealing in the Savannah community with such issues as broken families, drug use, bullying and teen pregnancy.

Lott was team captain in 2001 and served as a two-year member of the squad's Unity Council -- a liaison group between the football team and coaching staff under Lott's head coach, Phillip Fulmer. The All-SEC defensive back was drafted in the fifth round by the Washington Redskins and played five seasons in the NFL.

Lott, 31, hails from Memphis and is married to a Savannah native, the former Jackie Givens, who will be working in Knoxville as a nurse practitioner at East Tennessee Children's Hospital.

The couple has two daughters, Ella Grace and Ana Lou.

Jason McVeigh

Director of Sports Medicine

Jason McVeigh enters his fifth season as Director of Sports Medicine at Tennessee, and his 12th overall with the UT athletics department.

McVeigh has been a member of the UT Sports Medicine staff since 1999, when he joined the Vols as the Director of Rehabilitation. He gained his Athletic Trainer Certification in 2000, and was named Head Athletic Trainer after Keith Clements' departure in 2006.

Under McVeigh's supervision, the UT Sports Medicine department has added several key features to assist in the mission of providing world-class health care to all UT student-athletes.

McVeigh graduated Summa Cum Laude from UT in 1996 with a B.S. degree in Biology. He then went on to receive his master's degree in Physical Therapy from Duke University in 1999.

A native of Buffalo, N.Y., McVeigh is married to the former Jennifer Bruorton of Marietta, Ga., and they are the parents of twins, Caitlin and Carson, and newborn daughter, Kennedy.

Dr. Chris Klenck

Team Physician

Dr. Chris Klenck, 39, came to Knoxville in November 2006 following a primary care sports medicine fellowship at Indiana University Medical Center. He had served the Indianapolis hospital since June 2001 in the positions of Internal Medicine/Pediatrics intern, resident and chief resident.

During fellowship training, Klenck was an assistant team physician for the Indianapolis Colts preseason training camps and assisted at Purdue University, his alma mater. He worked the NFL Scouting Combines in Indianapolis, has NCAA championships experience and served as a team physician in the Indiana high school ranks.

An Evansville, Ind., native, Klenck earned his doctor of pharmacy degree from Purdue before completing his doctor of medicine degree at Indiana University School of Medicine.

Klenck is married to the former Laura Botto of Dayton, Ohio. They are the parents of three children: Jacob, Ben and Ella.

Allison Maurer

Sports Nutritionist

Allison Maurer is one of only 17 full-time sports nutritionists at the NCAA Division I level and is responsible for all nutrition education with UT athletics. She conducts grocery-shopping tours for student-athletes, weight-gain and weight-loss programs and performance nutrition. She handles meal planning for football and assists with meal planning for other sports, works closely with Team ENHANCE and Team EXCEL and conducts body composition testing for men's athletics.

Maurer also teaches an undergraduate nutrition class, "Sports Nutrition for Athletes," while handling the orders and distribution of NCAA-compliant nutritional supplements for all UT sports.

The Holland, Mich., native began work at UT in October 2007 after three years at Colorado. Maurer earned her undergraduate degree in nutrition and dietetics from Olivet Nazarene University in 2002, and completed her master's from Georgia State University in 2003.

She and her husband, Dan, of Addison, Ill., are the parents of Manny and Emilio.

Roger Frazier

Equipment Manager

Equipment Manager Roger Frazier is responsible for all football equipment issue and maintenance, in addition to handling the purchasing and inventory control of all football game and practice gear.

He also serves as president of the SEC Equipment Managers Association and assists in new product development with Adidas.

Currently in his 28th year as a full-time staffer with the Volunteers football program, the UT graduate began his career in 1978 as student manager before being named equipment manager in spring 1983.

The equipment room was renamed the Roger Frazier and Max Parrott Football Equipment Room, given in their honor by Gordon, Melissa and Hannah Summerfield, in January 2003.

Frazier graduated from Bradley Central High School in Cleveland and played football. He and his wife, Donna, have two children, Brandon and Barrett.

His primary responsibilities include compiling and editing game and practice tapes for coaching analysis, cataloging game tapes and producing "cut-ups."

A Camillus, N.Y., native, Harrington graduated from UT in 1990 with a communications degree.

Harrington and his wife, the former Tammy Mulling of Alva, Fla., have three children, Connor, Abigail and Hayden Jane.

Steven Rubio

Director of Player Personnel

Steven Rubio was named in February to the position of Director of Player Personnel.

Rubio, 24, came to the Vols just before the 2009 season as a recruiting intern. Since his promotion, he now oversees all recruiting board material. Rubio handles the initial evaluation of high school and junior college prospects.

The Fort Lauderdale, Fla., native came to UT from his alma mater, the University of Central Florida, where he graduated with a sports administration degree in 2007. Rubio worked in various roles on the Knights football staff for six years.

Scott Altizer

Director of Football Relations

Scott Altizer returned to football this fall after one season with UT's event management staff.

Altizer serves as liaison to the univesity's admissions and Thornton Center offices. He oversees the walk-on program and organizes and directs special events like the coaching clinic and summer camps.

The Morristown native graduated from Furman University, where he played baseball and had a brief professional career. He his wife, the former Sandy Apple of Nashville, are the parents of daughters Samantha and Sarah.

Adam Dicus

Assistant to the Head Coach

Adam Dicus arrived in Knoxville from Louisiana Tech having served as the assistant to head coach Derek Dooley.

His day-to-day duties at UT include research and special projects for the head coach and works with NFL scouts during their visits to Knoxville. Dicus got his start as an assistant to the director of football operations at SMU under head coach Phil Bennett. After majoring in economics at SMU, Dicus spent four years working in Dallas for a hedge fund before returning to football operations at Louisiana Tech.

Children Madison, Matthew, Natnael Edward, Kiya Isaiah and McKinley Kalu.

During his tenure at the helm of the Volunteers athletic program, Mike Hamilton's visionary leadership has exemplified the "ideal of service" captured by the university's revered Torchbearer Statue.

Appointed to the position of director of athletics on 2003, Hamilton's stewardship of the Tennessee brand continues to ascend to unprecedented new heights. While Tennessee athletics continues to shine brightly as a national standard of intercollegiate achievement, Hamilton has assured that the athletic department's impact reaches far beyond the fields of competition.

In 2010-11, the benefits of Hamilton's fiscal oversight took the form of $10.3 million in direct cash support to the general UT Knoxville campus—the largest such contribution by athletics in university history. The UT athletics department remains one only a handful of nationwide that receives no funds from state subsidies or taxes.

Success on a national level has been a staple of Tennessee athletics, and under Hamilton's watch, this trend has continued. The Vols have placed in the top 16 in the NACDA Director's Cup six times in the last seven years, including two top-10 finishes.

The men's basketball program has reached new heights in recent years and reached the NCAA Elite Eight in 2010—the program's most successful season in 101 years. The basketball program also won the 2008 SEC Championship and achieved the program's first-ever No. 1 national ranking that same year. Additionally, men's tennis played for the national championship and finished second in the nation in 2010. The leaders of those two programs, tennis coach Sam Winterbotham and basketball coach Bruce Pearl, were both hired by Hamilton and have each earned multiple coaching accolades at Tennessee.

The competitive excellence exhibited by the Vols between the lines also has translated to the classroom, where in the spring of 2009, more than 51 percent of Tennessee's student-athletes earned a GPA of 3.0 or better.

The following academic accolades have been accomplished during Hamilton's tenure: 12 first-team Academic All-Americans, two SEC Scholar-Athletes of the Year, 404 student-athletes earning degrees, and a total of 1,052 student-athletes earning Academic All-SEC honors. In addition, 29 former Vols who left school to pursue professional athletic careers have returned to finish their degree requirements through the Renewing Academic Commitment (RAC) program administered by the Thornton Athletics Student Life Center.

Operating as the CEO of an organization with a $100-million-plus annual budget, Volunteer success during Hamilton's watch has not been limited to the athletic and academic arenas, as fundraising success has also been remarkable. Donations to UT athletics totaled $4 million when he arrived on Rocky Top in 1992. By the time he assumed the director of athletics position in 2003, that total had increased nearly 500 percent ($19.5 million). And by 2010, athletics development fundraising efforts had risen to $43.4 million, which is more than double the total when Hamilton assumed his current post.

In total, athletics has raised a total of $413 million since he joined the department in 1992. Moreover, the negative cash balance of $750,000 he inherited as an incoming AD has been remedied—using a zero-based budgeting model—to now reflect a reserve in excess of $9 million.

Additional financial highlights of Hamilton's tenure thus far include athletics endowments of $32 million, a multimedia rights partnership with IMG College worth a minimum of $133 million through 2022, two adidas sponsorship deals totaling more than $40 million and $230 million in new or renovated facilities since 2003.

Perhaps one of Hamilton's most ambitious undertakings—the Neyland Stadium Master Plan—is now 60 percent complete. The multi-phase renovation project has brought the addition of revenue-generating Tennessee Terrace and East and West Club seating areas, a field-level Lettermen's Room, facelifts to the exterior façade, west skyboxes and press box and a breathtaking majestic new stadium entrance via Gate 21. These upgrades have ensured that Neyland Stadium will remain the premier venue in college football for several decades to come.

Paying homage to the storied tradition of UT athletics has been a focus of Hamilton's, as in addition to jersey retirements of legendary performers in several Volunteer sports, there was a statue dedicated to Gen. Robert R. Neyland this fall outside the stadium that bears his name.

This record of financial and development success has paid dividends for all sports in the Tennessee athletics program, as in addition to the Neyland Stadium upgrades, there was a total renovation of Thompson-Boling Arena that transformed it into one of the premier venues in the nation. State-of-the-art facilities such as Lee Softball Stadium, Pratt Pavilion and Regal Soccer Stadium have been constructed, and there remains another $178 million worth of athletic construction projects still in the planning phases.

Dating to administrative posts in private business as well stops at Clemson and Wake Forest, Hamilton has been respected as an industry leader among his peers. He has served on the NCAA Academics, Eligibility and Compliance Cabinet, the NCAA Athletics Personnel Issues and Recruiting Cabinet, various NCAA Football Academic Working Groups, the SEC Advisory Board for Bowl Negotiations, the SEC Television and Media Rights Advisory Team and the SEC Digital Network Advisory Team.

Hamilton was also recently selected as the SEC's representative on the Division I-A Athletic Directors' Association Board of Directors, and he is frequently called on to speak on national issues in intercollegiate athletics.

Also a beacon in local and regional charity efforts, along with his wife, Beth, Hamilton recently served as the chairman of the Knoxville Chamber Partnership and currently chairs the United Way Campaign. The Hamiltons have worked diligently to raise more than $550,000 for local adoption agencies as well as $300,000 to support charitable work in Africa through their Kalu Grace Foundation. The couple also hosts the successful Mike and Beth Hamilton Celebrity Golf Classic each year, benefiting Bethany Christian Services.

Hamilton serves as a board member of the Blood:Water Mission and the Both Ends Burning campaign and is also involved with the Crohn's/Colitis Foundation of America, Fellowship Church, Smoky Mountain Area Rescue Ministries, Tennessee Sports Hall of Fame and Adoption Advocates initiatives.

The Hamiltons reside in Knoxville and have three sons—Matthew, Nate and Kiya—and two daughters—Madison and Kalu.

Senior linebacker and team captain Nick Reveiz eximplified the heart and soul of the 2010 Volunteer season.

Vols never 'flinched' in November run to bowl game

Derek Dooley heard the mumblings. His players did, too.

Halfway through the 2010 football season and his University of Tennessee Volunteers sitting with a 2-6 record, the men wearing orange heard their critics talk of how this could be the worst Tennessee football team in years … perhaps ever. There were the difficult times against highly touted opponents Oregon and Florida, and a nailbiting, two-overtime victory to beat UAB. Then there was the winless October, which began with a heartbreaking loss at LSU and ended in three conference thumpings. Dooley and his players heard the doubters. And they answered.

"Sitting there at 2-6 and people talking about us being the worst football team in Tennessee history, and nobody in this organization flinched," Tennessee's first-year head coach said. "I'm real proud of them for that."

Dooley has a reason to be proud. After a September and October in which the Vols faced five opponents ranked inside the top 20, UT turned things around and won four consecutive games to close out the campaign with a 6-6 (3-5 Southeastern Conference) record to become bowl eligible for the second season in a row and 49th time in school history. It was an improbable turnaround considering the early difficulties, a rough schedule, and breaking in a freshman quarterback halfway through it all. But the Vols persevered.

"We never got affected by the results," Dooley said. "Everybody in the organization improved over the course of the season, and that's all you can ask for."

Perhaps nobody improved more than freshman quarterback Tyler Bray. He came off the bench against South Carolina and, despite throwing an interception on his first pass, provided a spark in the Tennessee offense with a pair of touchdowns. He had some help as senior wide receiver Denarius Moore exploded for a career-high 228 yards receiving and brought the Vols to a fourth quarter tie with the Gamecocks. But things fell apart when South Carolina superstar Alshon Jeffrey caught a 70-yard touchdown pass to break the tie and help the Gamecocks pull away for the 38-24 victory over the Vols. It was Tennessee's sixth loss of the season.

■ Sophomore safety Janzen Jackson helped anchor the Vols' secondary in 2010. He finished the regular season with 65 tackles and four interceptions, earning second-team All-SEC honors from the league coaches. He had a career-best 11 tackles in the finale against Kentucky.

At that moment, it was gut-check time. Nobody outside the locker room was talking about a bowl game; they were talking about long-term stability. Inside the locker room, however, the talk was about fixing what was broken – and fixing it immediately.

"Any other team, period, could just hang their heads and quit after going 2-6 and losing for 40 days straight," said senior receiver Gerald Jones. "This young team didn't, which is very exciting to see and great for the future. We kept fighting and turned this season around and got ourselves a bowl game to go to."

That's thanks to an explosive November.

A week after the South Carolina loss, Bray earned his first start at Memphis and responded with 325 yards and five touchdowns in a 50-14 romp over the Tigers. Then the Vols dominated Ole Miss for a surprising 52-14 Homecoming victory at Neyland Stadium, UT's first conference win of the season. A hard-fought 24-10 win at Vanderbilt left it all hanging on a streak that predates anybody on the roster.

Tennessee's chances of going to a bowl game and getting its record to .500 sat on extending a 25-game winning streak over Kentucky. Again, Bray stepped up with a 354-yard, two touchdown performance. But the seniors shined most.

Nick Reveiz recovered a critical Kentucky fumble that shifted the momentum in Tennessee's favor. The Wildcats were leading 7-0 and ready to claw once again from the 1-yard line. UK's Derrick Locke fumbled the football into the checkerboard, and Reveiz pounced on it, making up for a painful personal foul penalty that had put Kentucky in position to score. Thwarting a potential 14-0 deficit, the Vols rallied back and did so quickly. Bray used just four passes to hit Jones for the game-tying touchdown. On the next drive, Bray hit Moore on a 49-yard pass and then connected with him again for a 12-yard touchdown and the lead. Moore finished with 205 yards receiving – mostly on deep passes from Bray – to record his second 200-yard game of the year and become the only UT player to boast that accomplishment. When the horn blew, the Vols won 24-14, kept the streak alive at 26 games, and did the improbable considering the start to the season by securing a bowl bid.

For this group to lead the rebound the way it did and head to Tennessee's second consecutive bowl game is evidence of the group's character. However, by no means was the path as simple as it seems.

The Vols dominated undermatched Tennessee-Martin 50-0 in the season opener. It was the first shutout victory for UT since 2003, and the Vols scored on the ground with 110 yards by Tauren Poole, through the air, via safety and from two Daniel Lincoln field goals. The only loss that day was when Jones broke his hand, which would keep him out for four weeks.

The following two weeks weren't pleasant.

Tennessee took an early 13-3 lead on Oregon when lightning struck the area, halting the game for an hour while a heavy downpour drenched the field. Afterward, things were different. Poole got in a terrific performance with 162 yards, but his stats were nowhere near enough. The Ducks reeled off 45 unanswered points and LaMichael James ran for 134 yards to give Oregon the 48-13 victory.

The Florida game was eerily similar as Tennessee tied the game 10-10 with 8:59 left in the third quarter when quarterback Matt Simms connected with Moore for 49 yards and a score. Florida struggled to move the football and was ready to punt, but a fake on fourth-and-6 resulted in a 36-yard gain and ultimately a 7-yard touchdown pass from John Brantley to Frankie Hammond. Shortly thereafter, Simms was intercepted and Florida converted it into another touchdown. Justin Hunter scored for the Vols to cut the deficit to 24-17 early in the fourth quarter, but the Gators responded with a touchdown run with 6:15 remaining to seal it at 31-17.

Sitting at 1-2, UAB came to town in what was supposed to be a breather for Tennessee. It wasn't. Again, the second half was not kind to the Vols. They built a 23-7 halftime lead before UAB bounced back with a pair of touchdowns and 2-point conversions to send the game into overtime. The teams traded field goals in the first extra period. UAB struck first with a field goal in the second overtime, so Tennessee went for gold on the first play of its possession. Simms hit Moore for the 25-yard winning touchdown that put the orange-clad men in the winning column 32-29.

The positive was Tennessee evened its record at 2-2. The negative was October awaited.

Perhaps none was more painful than the afternoon in Baton Rouge. Tennessee began celebrating what appeared to be an upset victory over No. 12 LSU as the Tigers saw a bad snap end with zeroes showing on the game clock and the Vols leading 14-10.

Players ran onto the field, coaches headed toward each other to shake hands, and television began showing the final score. But officials ruled that Tennessee had too many players on the field, and LSU was awarded another play from the 1-yard line. That's when Stevan Ridley pushed into the end zone with no time left to win the game for LSU 16-14.

If that wasn't enough, Tennessee then suffered back-to-back losses to chief rivals Georgia (41-14) and Alabama (41-10), both heralded for matching Dooley with his past through family and mentors. The South Carolina loss capped the winless October and left the Vols at 2-6.

Yet there was no white flag. In fact, it was just the opposite. The locker room mentality strengthened. Players understood the challenge they faced, and they answered the bell.

The challenge has left the Vols here, with one game remaining and another chance for the squad to prove its character and determination. Considering what this team has gone through – this year and in the recent past – those chances are nothing new.

"It's hard to describe how proud I am of this football team," Dooley said. "All the stuff that's happened to these guys, these were the few that stuck with it and loved Tennessee. They didn't care what happened. They believed in Tennessee. They got rewarded for sticking to it."

Vols pitch first shutout since 2003, blank cross-state Skyhawks in opener

Tauren Poole had touchdown runs of 24 yards and 14 yards as Tennessee beat UT Martin 50-0 for Derek Dooley's first victory as the Volunteers' coach.

It was Tennessee's first shutout since a 48-0 win over Vanderbilt in 2003 and first time facing an FCS opponent since a win over The Citadel in 1983.

Tauren Poole had been waiting for his chance to shine and he delivered, darting through holes, running around coverage and picking up 110 yards on 17 carries before sitting out the fourth quarter.

"The backs ran well; the line blocked well," Dooley said. "They were packing them in and trying to stop the run, but we did a nice job up front. The runners ran hard and I think we just wore them down a bit."

David Oku had his share of carries too and found some large holes for a 44-yard touchdown run with 5:00 left in the first quarter to give the Vols a 10-0 lead in the season opener for both teams.

Denarius Moore ran 58 yards for a touchdown and caught a 42-yard scoring pass from Matt Simms. Moore finished with 66 yards on four catches, and Gerald Jones had 86 yards on six catches before injuring his left hand.

Tennessee scored nearly every way it could. Austin Johnson and Greg King tackled D.J. McNeil in the end zone for a safety. Prentiss Wagner intercepted Derek Carr and ran 54 yards for a touchdown. Daniel Lincoln kicked field goals of 21 and 35 yards.

"I was real proud of how we came out in the third quarter too," Dooley said. "We weren't relaxed or complacent. Overall, it was a good, solid win."

UT Martin's young, inexperienced offense couldn't find any rhythm. The Skyhawks neither completed a pass nor picked up a first down in the first quarter but were flagged for delay of game four times.

By the end of the game, they had 142 yards on offense compared to Tennessee's 537. The Vols shut out an opponent for the first time since Nov. 22, 2003, then they blanked Vanderbilt at home, 48-0.

"The defense was aggressive," Dooley said. "We tackled well, and those are the basics you worry about in the first game."

Carr finished 9-for-22 for 66 yards and threw two interceptions. The Skyhawks were penalized 11 times for 83 yards.

In addition to his shared tackle for the safety, linebacker Johnson also intercepted a pass in his return to the defensive side of the ball.

"The last time I played linebacker in a real game would be my senior year in high school," Johnson said. "It felt good to be back out there and playing linebacker. Before the game I was really going over my playbook trying to get all the stuff down I needed. Once I got out there it just kind of came to be and I was able to play fast."

Matt Simms completed 14 of 24 passes for 181 yards and the touchdown to Moore in his first Vols start.

UT Martin didn't fare quite as well as it did the last time it faced a Southeastern Conference team. The Skyhawks lost 37-20 at Auburn in 2008 after tying the Tigers at 20 in the third quarter.

The Wrapup

- Derek Dooley became the 18th of 22 UT head coaches to win his inaugural game.
- Ten Vols started for the first time -- six on offense and four on defense.
- Tennessee's defense limited UT Martin to just three first downs, including one in the first half.
- Ja'Wuan James, who started at right tackle, was one of 12 true freshmen to see action for the Vols.
- UT finished the game with 332 yards rushing and 205 passing.
- Redshirt freshman Joseph Ayres saw action at defensive tackle. Ayres is the great-great-grandson of Brown Ayres, who served as UT's 12th president from 1904-19 and for whom Ayres Hall is named.

Vols' fast start, rain delay can't keep Ducks from flying to easy triumph

Tennessee's early success and a first-quarter weather delay couldn't keep No. 7 Oregon from a big victory over the Vols.

LaMichael James ran for 134 yards, including a 72-yard touchdown to open the second half, and the Ducks scored 45 consecutive points to beat Tennessee 48-13.

The Vols were on the board first with a pair of Daniel Lincoln field goals before a thunderstorm roared through Knoxville, halting the game for 70 minutes. The delay didn't seem to affect UT as the Big Orange defense held Oregon to a field goal and then scored the game's first touchdown, a 1-yard plunge by Tauren Poole that made it 13-3.

"I was proud of how we came out and competed early in the game," UT head coach Derek Dooley said. "We screwed up the last three minutes of the half in all phases.

"So we go in halftime tied, which was fine. But we didn't have a good look in our eye at halftime."

James had only 27 yards at the break after being targeted by the Volunteers' defense for the entire first half. But he broke several tackles on the 72-yard touchdown run that vaulted Oregon into the lead for good. The Vols then seemed to fall apart.

"You would have thought we were down 40," Dooley said. "We hit some bad adversity in the third quarter and we didn't handle it well."

The Vols were penalized for having an ineligible receiver on one play and a false start on another. A pass by Matt Simms intended for Zach Rogers was cleanly picked off by Cliff Harris, who returned it 76-yards for another score to give Oregon a 27-13 lead with 6:27 left in the third quarter.

Simms, who completed 15 of 29 for 151 yards, struggled to connect with his receivers. Poole and backup David Oku couldn't get their footing.

Kenjon Barner, who scored five TDs filling in for James as the Ducks' No. 1 tailback in a 72-0 win against New Mexico in Week 1, took a punt back 80 yards for a touchdown that made it 41-13 with 11:39 left, and the Vols managed only four first downs.

The Ducks struggled to find a first-half answer for Poole, who had 111 yards rushing in the first quarter. He finished with 162 yards on 23 carries.

"He was great and we needed him to be," Dooley said. "He ran hard. We caught them in some pretty good looks and they made adjustments."

Oregon quarterback Darron Thomas completed 17 of 32 for 202 yards and two touchdowns. The Ducks picked up 447 yards of offense compared to the Vols' 333 yards, despite holding the ball three fewer minutes than Tennessee.

The officials halted play with 8:53 remaining in the first quarter after Lincoln's second field goal when lightning was spotted in the area. The teams spent an hour in their locker rooms as heavy rain and lightning hovered over Neyland Stadium, and many of the capacity crowd of 102,035 fans huddled under overhangs and crowded the concourses.

The Vols' top four tacklers in the game all recorded career highs, led by Nick Reveiz with 10 to lead all defenders.

The Wrapup

- Tennessee's top four tacklers in the game all recorded career highs: Nick Reveiz (10), Chris Walker (8), Gerald Williams (7) and Prentiss Waggner (7).
- Sophomore Marsalis Teague made his first defensive start at cornerback. Teague started five games at wide receiver in 2009.
- The last time Tennessee was involved in a weather delay was at Arkansas in 2001, a game the Vols won 13-3.
- The 35-point margin was Tennessee's worst loss in Neyland Stadium history, topping the 33-0 defeat to VMI on Nov. 17, 1923.

Turnovers stifle second-half rally, Vols can't reverse Gators' streak

Tennessee had its chance against a second straight top-10 foe, down seven points midway through the fourth quarter.

But Florida used a nine-play drive capped by a 2-yard touchdown run from Trey Burton to seal a 31-17 victory at Neyland Stadium.

Tennessee tied the game at 10 with a 49-yard touchdown pass from Matt Simms to Denarius Moore with 8:59 in the third quarter. Simms completed 19 of 31 for two touchdowns.

Florida stalled on the next drive until Gators coach Urban Meyer called for a fake punt on fourth-and-6. Omarius Hines ran 36 yards to keep the drive alive, and John Brantley eventually connected with Frankie Hammond on a 7-yard touchdown pass.

"It was a big play; it was a good call by them," UT head coach Derek Dooley said. "Looking back, we should have been in safe punt. We were trying to make something happen a little bit. They made a good play and got us on that."

Jeremy Brown picked off a pass by Simms on third-and-6 at the Tennessee 40, which set up Gillislee's second touchdown that gave the Gators a 24-10 lead just before the end of the third quarter.

The Vols, who were hosting a second AP top 10 team in as many weeks, had found themselves in a similar situation a week earlier against Oregon and unraveled. They seemed on the verge of a meltdown again when Simms appeared to be sacked in the end zone for a safety, but an official review ruled him down on the 1. Tennessee punted but got the ball back when Dooley challenged a run by Jeff Demps, insisting the Florida track star had fumbled. The officials agreed, and the Vols answered with a 35-yard touchdown pass from Simms to true freshman Justin Hunter on fourth-and-6 to cut Florida's lead to 24-17 with a 11:24 left.

Dooley, who was facing the Gators for the first time as head coach, said that's the kind of reaction he expects from a team that hasn't done much to prove it can fight back from adversity.

"We should do that. I'm proud of them for that, but we should do that every game," Dooley said. "All that does is give you a chance, and it proved out." It also didn't last very long.

Florida responded with Trey Burton's 2-yard touchdown run that iced the Vols, who allowed two more big sacks on Simms and turned the ball over with a fumble by Tauren Poole. Poole, who entered the game leading the SEC in rushing, was held to 27 yards.

The Wrapup

- Linebacker Nick Reveiz (14) and safety Janzen Jackson (9) both turned in career highs in tackles. Reveiz also recovered a fumbled punt by the Gators.
- True freshman James Stone replaced the injured JerQuari Schofield on the offensive line during the second half. Stone joined Ja'Wuan James as the Vols' second true freshman on the offensive front.
- Tight end Luke Stocker matched his career high with five catches, finishing with 41 receiving yards.
- Florida's six consecutive wins are the most in this series since Tennessee won the first 10 contests from 1916-53.
- Justin Hunter, another Vols true freshman, led UT with 60 receiving yards on three catches. Included was his first career touchdown, a 35-yard pass from Matt Simms that closed Tennessee to within 24-17 early in the fourth.

UT scored first for the first time against Florida since 2001 when Daniel Lincoln kicked a first-quarter 49-yard field goal, tying his career high. But the Vols had their own struggles. After recovering a fumbled punt return by Janoris Jenkins at the Florida 21, the Vols drove 18 yards but missed a chance to score when Jonathan Bostic picked off a pass by Simms in the end zone.

Tennessee was flagged nine times for 54 yards -- almost twice as much as Florida. But the Gators held possession for 36:46 of the game's 60 minutes and ran 72 plays to UT's 54.

Simms-to-Moore toss lifts Vols past Blazers in double-overtime thriller

Tennessee made its last chance at victory count, and the Vols escaped with a 32-29 win over UAB in double overtime at Neyland Stadium.

Matt Simms threw the game-winner, a 25-yard touchdown to Denarius Moore on UT's first play of the second overtime. The score was a sudden end to a seesaw affair that saw the Blazers rally from a 16-point halftime deficit.

"He (Moore) was my first read on the play, came off the play action, the safety flat-footed there for a split second and that was all the time I needed to make my decision," Simms said. "I just tried to put it in a place where he could go up and get it and jump over the corner, and that is exactly what he did."

The Volunteers held a 23-7 lead at halftime thanks mainly to Moore's first touchdown, a 13-yard reception, and Zach Rogers' 72-yard catch and run. Both of those plays came in the first quarter and were followed by a Daniel Lincoln 47-yard field goal and Prentiss Waggner's second interception return for touchdown, this one from 9 yards just before the break.

"We got one, which was a huge play before the half," Dooley said of his team's 1-0 advantage in turnovers in the game.

But the Blazers staged their comeback as David Isabelle found Frantrell Forrest on a 27-yard touchdown strike in the third quarter, and ran for 6 yards for another score in the fourth. After each touchdown, Bryan Ellis hit Jeffery Anderson on a pair of two-point conversions.

Daniel Lincoln kicked a 40-yard field goal for Tennessee to open the first overtime, and UAB's Josh Zahn, who missed field goals from 41, 35, 49, 30 and 54 in regulation, connected on a 35-yard field goal to answer.

Ellis hit Pat Shed on a 14-yard pass to pick up a first down in the second overtime but his 7-yard pass to Patrick Hearn came up 4 yards short of the end zone, and Zahn scored on a 21-yard field goal to put UAB up 29-26 before the Vols' final touchdown.

The Blazers dominated the game in nearly every category. They picked up 544 yards compared to the Vols' 287 yards, had eight more first downs and converted seven more third down attempts.

Tennessee's defense couldn't stop UAB, who used Isabelle, the backup quarterback, to chip away yards with his runs and Ellis, the starter, to convert third-and-long situations.

Ellis completed 29 of 55 for 373 yards, a touchdown and an interception. Isabelle ran 16 times for 73 yards and completed 4 of 5 for 56 yards and a touchdown.

Still, the Vols seemed to be in control in the first half. The Vols went for it on fourth-and-1 at the UAB 15 on its first drive and got two yards on a quarterback sneak by Simms, who threw a 13-yard touchdown pass to Moore on the next play.

UAB had just tied the game at 7 when Simms answered with the 72-yarder to Rogers on the next play. It was Tennessee's longest play since an 87-yard touchdown run by LaMarcus Coker against Vanderbilt in 2006.

The Wrapup

- Tennessee improved to 9-2 in overtime, including a 5-0 mark at Neyland Stadium.
- Matt Simms' 72-yard touchdown pass to Zach Rogers was Tennessee's longest scoring pass play since Erik Ainge connected with Robert Meachem for an 84-yard TD at Memphis in 2006.
- Tennessee started the game 0-for-10 on third down conversions until David Oku's 1-yard run midway through the fourth quarter. The Vols finished the contest 2-of-15 on third down.
- The Vols finished 2-2 at home in September.

Vols win, then lose, after late penalty nullifies all-out effort against Tigers

BATON ROUGE, La. -- LSU scored on the game's very first play and again on the very last play -- after Tennessee was penalized for too many men on the field. Those scores were enough to allow the Tigers to escape with a 16-14 decision that was beyond heartbreaking to the UT faithful.

The Tigers remained unbeaten after a Volunteers penalty for too many players on the field rescued LSU from what appeared to be a botched final play. LSU was confused on third-and-goal from the 1 and allowed the clock to run nearly to zero before a mishandled shotgun snap seemingly ended the game and sent Tennessee players streaming onto the field in jubilation.

The celebration was cut short when officials ruled the Vols had 13 defensive players on the field when the ball was snapped. Stevan Ridley then bulled into the end zone from less than a yard out for the wild finish.

"I don't know if I have ever had a loss like that," UT head coach Derek Dooley said. "They changed personnel and ran a bunch of guys on the field. It was a lot of chaos.

"Things happened fast and guys didn't run off the field. The ball was snapped pretty quickly, and so we lose the game. I have never hurt like this before."

Jordan Jefferson had an 83-yard TD run on LSU's first offensive play, but UT's defense limited the Tigers after that, forcing four turnovers including three interceptions. Tennessee played without a turnover for the second game in a row.

"Our guys fought and fought," Dooley said. "We played great on special teams, we got turnovers and every time things went bad we kept sticking with it. It was a great football game."

Tennessee was in the game the whole way despite playing in its first road contest of the season. Tauren Poole's 1-yard dive over the pile helped the Vols to a 7-7 tie at halftime. Matt Simms' 3-yard touchdown run put the Vols in the lead with 11:34 left in the fourth quarter.

The first interception of LaMarcus Thompson's career in the Vols' end zone put Tennessee in position to bury the Tigers in a hole with another score, but the Tigers' defense got a critical stop on fourth-and-1 at the LSU 31.

Poole topped 100 yards for the third time in 2010 with a 109-yard performance. Gerald Jones returned from a three-game absence after nursing a hand injury to lead the Vols with five receptions for 46 yards while helping UT convert a season-high seven third downs.

"The game was very physical," Jones said. "I wasn't worried about my hand. They were blitzing us and hitting us from eveery angle. We couldn't get the ball out, and we couldn't protect Matt."

The Wrapup

- Tennessee was 3-of-5 on third-down conversion attempts in the first quarter after converting just two third-downs in each of the last two games. The Vols finished 7-of-15 for the afternoon.
- Luke Stocker started his 30th consecutive game.
- Matt Simms scored his first major college touchdown, a 3-yard run that gave Tennessee the lead 14-10 early in the fourth quarter.
- UT allowed two opposing ball-carriers to rush for 100 yards for the first time since UT's 1990 Cotton Bowl win over Arkansas.
- The Vols defense compiled 25 tackles by players from Louisiana -- Herman Lathers (10), Prentiss Waggner (8) and Janzen Jackson (7). Bayou State natives Dallas Thomas and Jarrod Shaw started on the offensive line.
- The Vols did not score first for the first time in 2010.
- For the first time all season (including overtime against UAB), Tennessee won the coin toss.

LSU sacked Simms five times for 41 yards in losses that added to the Tigers' total offensive margin of 434 to 217.

Lake Charles, La., native Janzen Jackson was outstanding in his return to the Bayou State. The sophomore snagged his second career interception, returning it 14 yards, to go with seven tackles. Two of those stops were on special teams, and Jackson added a pass breakup and a quarterback hurry.

Baton Rouge native Herman Lathers had 10 tackles for the Vols, while Nick Reveiz (interception) and Malik Jackson (fumble recovery) added turnovers.

Bulldogs bite Vols early & often in 41-14 decision at Athens

ATHENS, Ga. -- Aaron Murray ran for two touchdowns and threw for two more scores as Georgia snapped a four-game losing streak and defeated Tennessee 41-14 in a tough homecoming for Volunteers coach Derek Dooley.

UT made this one easy on the Bulldogs, turning it over three times, giving up four sacks and falling behind 17-0 in the first quarter.

"We ran into a motivated team today," Dooley said of Georgia, which entered the game with a 1-4 record. "We got affected on the road and couldn't keep our composure. We are not going to win with those types of turnovers."

Murray was 17 of 25 for 266 yards passing and ran seven times for 41 yards. A.J. Green had six catches for 96 yards and a touchdown.

Georgia scored first when Murray raced nearly untouched for a 35-yard touchdown.

Then it was time for Tennessee to start making mistakes. Matt Simms lofted a pass that was deflected and picked off by Bacarri Rambo, who managed to get one foot down just before he flew through the bench area and actually leaped over the famous hedge that surrounds the field.

The first of the turnovers led to Blair Walsh's 42-yard field goal.

On the ensuing kickoff, Eric Gordon had the ball knocked loose and Derek Owens recovered at the Tennessee 41. Murray struck right away, hooking up with Green on a 33-yard pass.

After King was thrown for a loss, Murray hooked up with Rantavious Wooten on a 9-yard touchdown to give the Bulldogs a 17-point cushion.

"That's what we expected Georgia to be like at the beginning of the season," Dooley said. "But I was disappointed in how we competed."

Tennessee's only bright spot in the first half came after Simms appeared to headed for yet another sack, but managed to slip away from two defenders and loft a 38-yard touchdown pass to Justin Hunter.

But any hope of the Vols rallying was snuffed out when Green hauled in a 22-yard touchdown pass down the middle that made it 24-7. Walsh added a 20-yard field goal for a 27-7 halftime lead.

Just about everything went Georgia's way. On the opening possession of the second half, Murray spun away from a would-be tackler in the backfield, took off running again to his left and managed to stick the ball over the goal line just before stepping out of bounds.

Hunter finished with four catches for 110 yards and the touchdown to highlight Tennessee offensive effort. He had receptions of 28 and 25 yards in addition to the touchdown play.

Herman Lathers was UT's defensive tackle leader with seven, while Janzen Jackson and Willie Bohannon added sacks. Limited by four Georgia sacks, Tennessee finished the game with just 9 rushing yards on 26 attempts.

Dooley, the son of former Georgia coach and athletics director Vince Dooley, downplayed his return to the city where he grew up and graduated from law school.

The Wrapup

- Justin Hunter became the first Vols receiver with 100 yards in a game since Robert Meachem had 145 against Kentucky in 2004.
- Matt Simms' streak of pass attempts without an interception was snapped at 72.
- Rajion Neal's first career catch was a 58-yarder from Simms that led to Tauren Poole's third-quarter TD. Neal finished with two catches for 70 yards.
- True freshman quarterback Tyler Bray saw his first meaningful action, entering the game in the fourth quarter and completing 8 of 12 passes for 81 yards.
- Georgia controlled the clock for 34:33 to UT's 25:27.
- Chad Cunningham contributed a season-long punt of 55 yards in the second quarter.

Vols close at intermission, then undone by Tide's second-half surge

Trent Richardson's 65-yard touchdown run and 5-yard touchdown reception were part of 28 unanswered second-half points as No. 7 Alabama beat Tennessee 41-10 at Neyland Stadium.

The Vols seemed ready for another close game against the Crimson Tide, this time under first-year coach Derek Dooley, who was facing former boss Nick Saban. Dooley was part of Saban's coaching staff for seven seasons at LSU and the Miami Dolphins.

Alabama, which had won 21 straight over unranked opponents, came out of halftime with only a 13-10 lead after a sluggish first half. But the Tide wasted no time in the third quarter, getting three straight first downs on its opening drive before Mark Ingram pushed the ball 1 yard for the touchdown for a 20-10 lead.

The Vols attempted to pressure the Crimson Tide's running game by blitzing and pressuring quarterback Greg McElroy, but the effort wore down a team plagued by a lack of depth. McElroy completed 21 of 32 for 264 yards, mostly to receiver Julio Jones.

"We watched the film and the film says they throw it," Dooley said. "They threw for 326. We struggled to stop it."

Richardson and Ingram had just 91 yards rushing at halftime, but added 96 yards on the ground in the third quarter, including Richardson's touchdown and a pair of 1-yard scoring runs by Ingram. Richardson finished with 119 yards on 12 carries, and Ingram had 88 yards on 14 runs.

"We fought them pretty hard for 30 minutes and were scrapping and fighting," Dooley said. "The third quarter, obviously, was the difference."

For their part, the Volunteers had a few shots to keep the game competitive in the second half. Matt Simms led a long drive that eventually stalled at the Alabama 35 after three straight run plays, and Michael Palardy missed a 52-yard field goal attempt that could have cut the Crimson Tide's lead to a touchdown.

Simms drove the Vols the length of the field when they got the ball back after Richardson's touchdown, but Robert Lester stepped in front of a would-be touchdown pass to Gerald Jones and took the ball to the Vols 20. Simms finished 12 for 22 for 117 yards and an interception, but no touchdowns.

"I think Matt did some really good things," Dooley said. "He just had a couple of bad decisions."

Tennessee got the first score for the first time since the Vols' 17-13 win in 2004. Tauren Poole found a gaping hole in the line and ran 59 yards to the end zone with 8:44 left in the first quarter.

Poole finished with 117 yards on the ground, becoming the first player to rush for more than 100 yards against Alabama since Mississippi's BenJarvus Green-Ellis ran for 131 on Oct. 13, 2007.

"I just hit a crease that was wide open and you could have driven a truck trough it," Poole said of his TD. "We were really just going to take what they gave us and the cutback was what they gave me. It is all about using your vision and reading the line."

Jones set an Alabama game record with 221 yards on 12 catches for the Crimson Tide, which got its fourth straight win over Tennessee for the first time since 1992.

The Wrapup

- Justin Hunter made his first career start at wide receiver, becoming the fifth true freshman and fourth position player to start for the Vols this season.
- Tauren Poole broke loose for a 59-yard touchdown in the first quarter that was the longest rush of his career.
- Freshman placekicker Michael Palardy scored his first career field goal on a 33-yarder to end the first half.
- Chad Cunningham averaged a season-best 48.2 yards per punt on six kicks.
- Nick Reveiz finished with 11 tackles to lead the Vols for the fifth time in seven games.
- The Vols were shut out in the second half for the third time this season.

Vols rally from 14-point deficit before Gamecocks strike twice in 4th

COLUMBIA, S.C. -- Alshon Jeffery hauled in a 70-yard touchdown catch to help South Carolina escape a Tennessee comeback and remain in control of the SEC East.

Jeffery caught a routine pass over the middle with the game tied at 24-all, moved toward the right sideline and outran several Vols defenders to for a critical TD in the Gamecocks 38-24 victory.

"The worst that should have come from that play was a first down for 12 yards, but that's what great players do," UT head coach Derek Dooley said. "That's what impact, game-changing players do. If you look at the fourth quarter, who took over? Nos. 1 and 21, and that's what great players do."

Jeffery, who wears the No. 1 jersey, was joined by freshman tailback Marcus Lattimore, who wears 21, as the offensive stars for the Gamecocks. Jeffery finished with 3 catches for 87 yards and his winning TD reception, while Lattimore rushed 29 times for a career-high 184 yards and another score.

The Vols had rallied from a 14-point deficit on a pair of touchdown passes from backup quarterback Tyler Bray to tie the game at 24-24.

To spark the comeback, Tennessee pulled off its first successful fake punt since 2004 when Chad Cunningham ran for 25 yards on fourth-and-10. On the next play, Bray connected with Denarius Moore on a 30-yard scoring pass to pull within a touchdown.

Bray and Moore were at it again on Tennessee's next series. The two combined for a 64-yard reception to the Gamecocks 2 and, after a personal foul penalty pushed the Vols back, Bray hit Gerald Jones for a 17-yard touchdown to tie it up at 24-all.

Bray, playing in his first meaningful action, told his teammates not to hang their heads.

"I came back in the second half and said, 'Hey guys, lets go' and started throwing it to the playmakers," said Bray, who also threw an interception that defensive end Devin Taylor returned 24 yards for a touchdown.

Moore was Tennessee's offensive star, finishing the game with 228 receiving yards on just six receptions. The senior's previous game high was 86 at the 2008 Outback Bowl against Wisconsin.

Moore's total was the second-best receiving yardage mark in Tennessee history.

The teams were tied 10-10 at halftime when UT turned the ball over twice early in the third quarter. South Carolina capitalized both times with easy touchdowns to take its 24-10 advantage.

The Wrapup

- Herman Lathers and LaMarcus Thompson tied for UT's tackle honors with seven apiece. Lathers added a sack, another tackle for loss and a QB hurry.
- Nick Reveiz intercepted the first pass of his career to thwart a South Carolina scoring chance on the game's opening drive.
- Four of Gerald Jones' six receptions converted third downs and kept Tennessee drives alive.
- Quarterback Matt Simms opened the game 6-of-6 for 119 yards.
- Denarius Moore's 228 receiving yards were second in the UT history books to Kelley Washington's 256 against LSU in 2001.

"It is impossible to have a worse start in the third quarter," Dooley said. "But to the team's credit, they showed a little resolve and tied the score.

"At the end of the day, mistakes were the difference. You're not going to beat a team that is going to the Georgia Dome when you spit it up four times and give up six sacks."

Wide receiver Da'Rick Rogers led the Tennessee rushing attack with 49 yards on five carries around end. Bray finished 9-of-15 for 159 yards and the two scores in relief of Matt Simms, who was 10-of-13 for 153 yards and a touchdown but lost two fumbles.

Vols turn calendar, turn to Bray in offensive showcase against Tigers

MEMPHIS -- Freshman quarterback Tyler Bray, starting his first game for Tennessee, threw for 325 yards and five touchdowns to lead the Volunteers to a 50-14 victory over Memphis.

The victory snapped a four-game October losing streak for Tennessee, which was never threatened after the first quarter. Bray, who took over the helm one week earlier in relief of junior Matt Simms, picked apart the young Memphis secondary from the start.

"It was obviously a great first half by the team," UT head coach Derek Dooley said. "We outmatched them, and we did what we should do. It's been awhile since we got a win, so it was a nicer scene in the locker room."

Tauren Poole rushed for 101 yards, and scored twice -- once on a 21-yard run and another on a 9-yard pass from Bray.

The Vols would end the night with 510 yards of offense, including 379 through the air. Memphis actually scored first, but Tennessee's 50 consecutive points matched UT's largest scoring output of the season.

"Yeah, they punched us in the mouth that first quarter," Dooley said. "And then we settled in and did a good job. We got turnovers, which is what we've been needed all season."

Ryan Williams connected on 18 of 27 passes for 221 yards for the Tigers.

The bulk of Bray's statistics came in the first half as he completed 17 of 28 passes for 308 yards and all five of his touchdown passes.

That helped the Vols carry a 40-7 lead into halftime.

"He played well, obviously," Dooley said. "But we outmatched them on the perimeter. Let's not get too excited is what I'm saying. He did what he should have done -- throw and catch."

Tennessee already had 398 yards of offense at the break. Bray was spreading out the scoring passes, hitting Poole and Justin Hunter (42 yards) for touchdowns in the first quarter.

The second quarter scoring passes were to Denarius More (14 yards), Da'Rick Rogers (22 yards) and Gerald Jones (9 yards). Michael Palardy added field goals of 24 and 32 yards for Tennessee, which scored on every possession. except its first, in the half.

For his efforts, Bray was named the SEC's Freshman of the Week.

The Vols held the Tigers to 117 yards of offense, including only 8 yards rushing in the opening 30 minutes. Memphis finished the game with 308 yards of total offense.

Midway through the third quarter, Simms replaced Bray and was 3 of 5 for 54 yards.

The Wrapup

- Tennessee forced five turnovers for the first time in a game since a 63-20 win over Arkansas in 2000.
- UT didn't allow a sack for the first time all season.
- Bray's five first-half touchdowns are believed to be a UT record for scoring tosses in the opening 30 minutes.
- Denarius Moore (103) and Tauren Poole (101) became the 43rd WR/TB duo in UT history to top 100 yards in the same game.
- Governor-elect Bill Haslam tossed the coin prior to kickoff.

In addition to Poole's 21-yard scoring run, Palardy added his third field goal of the night from 33 yards out in the second half.

Defensive tackle Malik Jackson led Tennessee's defensive effort with a team-high and career best eight tackles, including two sacks and another for lost yardage. The junior also intercepted his first career pass and returned it 44 yards to set up Poole's rushing TD.

Memphis native Chris Walker added two sacks, while Janzen Jackson and Eric Gordon contributed interceptions and Prentiss Waggner recovered a pair of fumbles.

Resurgent Vols overwhelm Rebels with pair of pick-sixes, scoring onslaught

Tyler Bray threw three touchdown passes, two of them to Justin Hunter, and Tennessee returned two pass interceptions for touchdowns to capture its first Southeastern Conference win of the season with a 52-14 victory over Mississippi.

It also was Derek Dooley's first SEC win as Tennessee's coach and first streak of two wins. The Vols have never gone a season without an SEC victory and have won at least three conference games every season since 1977.

Tauren Poole added a pair of late touchdown runs as UT snapped a six-game losing streak against SEC West opponents.

"It was just a phenomenal effort by our players," Dooley said. "We were focused. We had our best week of practice and it just showed."

On Tennessee's first play from scrimmage, Bray attempted a pass to Gerald Jones that was tipped by Mississippi's Jonathan Cornell right into the hands of Justin Hunter. Hunter had 80 yards of green space and took it all the way to the end zone.

""It wasn't intended for me, but I saw all the defenders coming my way for the ball and I am just thankful that it came to me," Hunter said.

The Vols were in control the whole game, thanks to Bray's passing. Tennessee had only seven yards on the ground in the first half but countered it with 265 yards by air.

By the end of the game, Tennessee had outgained Ole Miss 441 yards to 295 on offense.

Bray finished 18-of-34 with 323 yards. In two games as the starter, Bray has completed 37-of-67 for 648 yards and eight touchdowns without turning the ball over.

Hunter had 114 yards on three catches and Poole had 107 yards on 12 carries.

Ole Miss couldn't get its offense going with Masoli being pressured by the Vols' defensive line all day. The Rebels entered having given up only seven sacks in eight games, but UT took Masoli down twice and sacked backup Nathan Stanley once.

Tennessee took a 21-0 lead with 2:33 left in the first quarter when Eric Gordon picked off a pass by Masoli at the Rebels 46 and ran it back for a touchdown. Prentiss Waggner returned another Masoli interception for a score, his third touchdown on an interception return this season, setting a UT record.

"It's a big honor," Waggner said. "I really didn't know about the record until you guys told me. I think it's all because of the grace of God that I got that interception and got it into the end zone."

The Wrapup

- Tennessee 52 points were the most scored by the Vols in a regulation SEC game since 2003.
- The Bray-to-Hunter TD was Tennessee's first touchdown on the opening play from scrimmage since Erik Ainge connected with Arian Foster to begin the 2007 contest at Kentucky.
- The interception returns for touchdowns by Eric Gordon and Prentiss Waggner were the third and fourth for UT this season.
- Returning from a five-game injury absence, Daniel Lincoln kicked a 43-yard field goal that was his eighth consecutive made field goal to begin the season, tying his own school record.

Masoli finished 7-of-18 for 80 yards, with three interceptions and no touchdowns. And the quarterback known for his scrambling abilities had even less success on the ground, with 22 yards rushing.

Mississippi entered the game with a ground game that ranked second in the SEC and 13th in the nation, and the Rebels tailbacks did their best to make up for Masoli's struggles. Brandon Bolden ran for 113 yards and scored on touchdown runs of 17 yards and 2 yards for the Rebels' only scores.

Denarius Moore added a touchdown catch for Tennessee to highlight his 88-yard afternoon.

Vols struggle but clip Commondores behind defensive effort, late TD run

NASHVILLE -- Tauren Poole rushed for 99 yards and the game-clinching touchdown and Tennessee kept its bowl hopes alive with a 24-10 win over Vanderbilt.

The Commodores threatened with a late touchdown, but Tennessee sent Vanderbilt to its sixth straight loss when Poole took advantage of a failed onside kick to rip off a 28-yard touchdown run with 1:11 remaining.

"I knew it'd be tough," UT head coach Derek Dooley said. "We had opportunities to put the game away and didn't capitalize. Tyler [Bray] struggled with decision-making and you have to give Vanderbilt a lot of credit for that."

Tennessee won its third straight game for the first time since 2007 and must beat Kentucky in the final game to clinch bowl eligibility.

Bray threw for 232 yards but struggled with two interceptions, his first real adversity since taking over as starter three weeks ago. That didn't stop the Volunteers from beating the Commodores for the fifth straight time and 27th of 28 in the series.

"With all of the mistakes, we still held them to 10 points and found a way to win," Dooley said. "That's all that matters."

As expected in a game featuring the SEC East's two one-win teams, neither squad was particularly sharp.

Bray got off to a fast start, completing nine of his first 10 passes to give the Vols a 14-0 lead midway through the second quarter. He threw a 15-yard touchdown pass to Justin Hunter in the first quarter and a 20-yard scoring pass to Denarius Moore midway in the second.

But Bray killed Tennessee's next two drives with interceptions, and then had trouble connecting with his receivers the rest of the way, finishing 16-of-27.

"Second half, they made a great adjustment and had a lot of movement with their defensive line and linebackers," said Gerald Jones, who caught six passes for 80 yards. "It made it hard for our offensive linemen, but our defense stepped up for us."

While the offense struggled to find consistency, the defense took advantage of several Vanderbilt miscues.

UT defensive tackle Gerald Williams was in on several big plays. The senior had eight tackles, including a sack, and also blocked a Commodores field goal try.

For his efforts, the SEC named Williams its Defensive Lineman of the Week.

Vanderbilt quarterbacks threw two interceptions and were 20-of-41, continuing a season-long trend of completing less than 50 percent of their passes. Starter Larry Smith was pulled late in the game for Funk after completing just 11-of-27 passes for 76 yards.

Herman Lathers was Tennessee's tackle leader for the third time this season, finishing with 10, while Nick Reveiz added nine. Prentiss Waggner and Janzen Jackson each notched their fourth inteceptions of the year, with Jackson's halting a Vanderbilt drive at the goal line.

"It was big for us," Jackson said. "We need a turnover there in the red zone, because we knew they would have another chance to get the ball if they scored.

"That time he ran an in-route and I just jumped it. The ball was a tad bit in front of the receiver so I just broke in front."

Malik Jackson added 2.5 tackles for loss among his four overall stops, including one sack.

The Wrapup

- Tennessee held the lead after the first quarter for the ninth time in 11 games this season. The only other results were a 7-7 tie at LSU and a 17-0 deficit at Georgia.
- The Vols recorded multiple interceptions in a third consecutive game for the first time since 2007.
- Daniel Lincoln connected on his ninth consecutive field goal to start the season, breaking his own record of eight set in 2007.
- Tyler Bray's streak of 96 consecutive passes without an interception was snapped in the second quarter.
- Freshman Da'Rick Rogers registered career bests with three receptions for 59 yards, including a career-long catch of 27 yards.
- Gerald Williams' blocked field goal was Tennessee's first since Dan Williams turned the trick in the second overtime of the Vols' memorable 2007 win at Kentucky.
- Tauren Poole missed by one his seventh 100-yard game.

Vols extend streak to 26 over Wildcats, earn bowl trip after flawless November

Tyler Bray threw for 354 yards and two touchdowns as Tennessee extended its winning streak over Kentucky to 26 straight games to become bowl eligible with a 24-14 victory at Neyland Stadium.

After losing four games in October, the Vols were perfect in their four November games. They also upheld the longest active streak in a series between two major college teams, one that's survived 10 coaches on the two squads and is older than any player on either side's roster.

"It's hard to describe how proud I am of this football team," UT head coach Derek Dooley said. "Sitting there at 2-6 and people are talking about us being the worst football team in Tennessee history, and nobody in this organization flinched.

"I'm real proud of that."

Denarius Moore caught one of Bray's touchdown passes and had 205 yards receiving to become the only Vols receiver in history to have more than 200 yards receiving in two games in either a season or career. Moore had 228 yards in an Oct. 30 loss to South Carolina.

"It's a blessing," Moore said. "It's an honor to have this feeling right now."

Kentucky tied the game at 14 with 10:10 left in the third quarter when Mike Hartline hit Tyler Robinson on a 2-yard touchdown pass on fourth-and-1. The Wildcats got the ball back on the next drive when Bray threw one of his two interceptions in the game to Mychal Bailey in the Kentucky end zone.

They couldn't capitalize, and Tennessee drove 73 yards and got a 2-yard touchdown run by Tauren Poole on its ensuing drive to take the lead. Daniel Lincoln kicked a 36-yard field goal with 9:19 in the fourth quarter to pad the margin.

"We played one heck of a football team out there today and played one heck of a football game," Dooley said.

Hartline struggled to connect with his receivers late but finished 31-of-44 for 272 yards, the touchdown and an interception. Randall Cobb had 13 catches for 116 yards but did not score a touchdown for the first game all season. Derrick Locke ran 24 times for 97 yards, but only eight of those yards came after halftime.

Kentucky appeared poised to take a 14-point lead late in the first quarter after putting together a 16-play, 78-yard drive. But Locke fumbled at the Vols 1 and Tennessee's Nick Reveiz recovered in the end zone.

"That ball just squirted out right in front of me," Reveiz said. "All I know is that when I saw that ball, I was getting it. No one else was getting it."

After Reveiz' recovery, Bray completed four passes, including a 44-yard pass to Moore and an 11-yard touchdown toss to Gerald Jones to tie the game at 7 with 13:53 in the second quarter.

Kentucky only picked up one first down on the next drive before it was forced to punt. Tennessee had only two plays on the next drive, a 49-yard pass from Bray to Moore and a 12-yard touchdown toss between the pair to give the Vols a 14-7 lead with 10:50 in the second quarter.

The Wrapup

- Kentucky native Luke Stocker kept his streak alive as the only Vol with a reception in every game this season. Stocker finished with five catches for 55 yards.
- Michael Palardy rushed 16 yards with Tennessee's second successful fake punt this year.
- Marsalis Teague and Janzen Jackson both set career bests for tackles to lead the Vols with 11 apiece.
- Tyler Bray completed 20 of 38 passes for 354 yards -- all career highs -- and was named SEC Freshman of the Week for the third time in November.
- Denarius Moore made all seven of his catches for 205 yards and a TD in the second and third quarters.
- The Vols finished the regular season with 17 interceptions, tied for second best in the SEC and tied for ninth nationally.
- Tennessee averaged 99,781 fans for seven home games at Neyland Stadium.

Tennessee Bowl History Paved with Opportunity, Big Plays and National Championship Scenarios

When bowl matchmakers begin the mental calculations leading toward their annual holiday events, Tennessee is one of a select group of universities that always receives thoughtful consideration.

Traditionally, the Vols consistently provide an exciting bowl-game spectacle with high-powered offense and grudging defense. But that's just one of many reasons Tennessee is a bowl promoter's dream.

UT's other irresistible lure is its legions of fans, a collection of devoted supporters who bathe a neutral bowl site in a sea of orange worthy of a game at Neyland Stadium. The Vol faithful are good travelers who arrive at the game site early and make themselves seen and heard until they leave town.

Tennessee has appeared in 47 bowl games, of which a couple stand out as particularly memorable because of the bearing they had on producing two of the school's national championships.

In the early years of wire service polls, the national champion was selected at the end of the regular season. Bowl results were not part of the evaluation process. But Tennessee's Cotton Bowl victory over Texas after the 1950 season was invaluable in paving the way for the crown UT claimed in 1951.

The 20-14 upset of the Longhorns in Dallas on New Year's Day made the Vols the team to beat going into the next season. When the curtain fell on the 1951 campaign, Tennessee had ridden the momentum of its Cotton Bowl triumph to the national title as awarded by both wire service polls.

Forty-seven years later, a bowl game was crucial to another UT national championship claim. In the first officially sanctioned Bowl Championship Series title game, the Vols met Florida State in a matchup of the two top-ranked teams at the close of the season.

Led by the passing of quarterback Tee Martin, the Vols capped an undefeated season by turning back the Seminoles, 23-16, before a capacity crowd at the Tostitos Fiesta Bowl in Tempe, Ariz. National championship pandemonium reigned throughout the night at any place Vol fans were gathered.

The significance of bowl games is in the eye of the individual, however, so you can pick among more than two dozen UT victories for your favorites. Certainly some of the other leaders would include: 1939 Orange Bowl (Vols 17, Oklahoma 0), 1965 Bluebonnet Bowl (Vols 27, Tulsa 6), 1971 Liberty Bowl (Vols 14, Arkansas 13), 1986 Sugar Bowl (Vols 35, Miami 7), 1990 Cotton Bowl (Vols 31, Arkansas 27), 1996 Citrus Bowl (Vols 20, Ohio State 14), 2002 Citrus Bowl (Vols 45, Michigan 17) and 2005 Cotton Bowl (Vols 38, Texas A&M 7).

New York Charity Game

■ Dec. 5, 1931

NEW YORK — It didn't count, at least according to NCAA statisticians, but Tennessee's first post-season bowl appearance came in the 1931 Charity Bowl game at Yankee Stadium.

The game was set up by New York City Mayor Jimmy Walker and was an intersectional clash between the Vols and the Violets of New York University. The Vols were 8-0-1 in 1931, with a 6-6 deadlock against Kentucky marring an otherwise perfect season.

It was Capt. Neyland's sixth year at the Vol helm and the Vols had compiled a 52-2-4 overall through the end of the 1931 season.

Herman Hickman's sensational defensive play earned him a spot on Grantland Rice's 1931 All-America team. Rice was so impressed with Hickman's performance that he named him to his All-America team on the basis of the Charity Bowl game alone.

Three future Vol College Football Hall of Fame members, Gene McEver, Beattie Feathers and Hickman, played in the contest. In addition, Capt. Neyland would also be inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame in 1956.

The Vols' second trip to New York was much better than their first. Seven years earlier, the Vols had lost to Army 41-0 at West Point.

Feathers and Deke Brackett had long touchdown runs and Hickman anchored the Vol defense as Tennessee defeated the Violets by a 13-0 count.

The game was one of a number of contests played during the Great Depression (mainly in 1931) to raise money for relief of the unemployed in response to the President's Committee on Mobilization of Relief Resources. In addition to the Charity Bowl, the Army-Navy games of 1930 and 1931 were played at Yankee Stadium. The NCAA does not recognize these games in the all-time bowl game records.

1939 Orange Bowl

■ Jan, 2, 1939

MIAMI — Tennessee and Oklahoma squared off in the 1939 Orange Bowl in a classic battle of speed against size. And, when it was over, Tennessee's speed and stamina had won out by a 17-0 count. Tennessee had come into the game undefeated and No. 2 in the country and Oklahoma was riding a 14-game winning streak.

Tennessee scored first when a 15-yard penalty backed the Sooners to their 3-yard line. Vol tailback George Cafego returned the ensuing punt to the Sooner 27 and followed up the punt return with a key gain to the 12. Two plays later, Bob Foxx scored from the 8. The Vols scored a field goal after a Sooner fumble, a 22-yarder by Bowden Wyatt, and led 10-0 at the half.

Tennessee scored its final touchdown in the fourth quarter on a 19-yard run by Babe Wood on a reverse. The Vols polished off their eighth shutout of the season by stopping the Sooners the rest of the way and finished undefeated in 11 games.

It was a penalty-plagued game as tempers flared throughout the contest and more than 200 yards were assessed against the teams.

■ Jan, 1, 1940

PASADENA, Calif. — The Vols were 10-0 in the 1939 season and did not give up a point, heading by train to Pasadena for the 1940 Rose Bowl undefeated in 23 games and unscored upon in 15, but both streaks came to a halt against Southern California.

It marked the first of two Vol appearances in the Rose Bowl in the decade of the 1940s, both against Southern Cal.

Playing without star tailback George Cafego, the victim of a knee injury against The Citadel earlier in the year, the Vols fumbled away a golden opportunity in the fourth period and fell 14-0.

Southern Cal racked up 229 yards rushing, scored in the second and fourth quarter and ran nearly double the plays from scrimmage to take the 14-0 triumph.

The 1939 Tennessee team was the last to hold a full season of opponents scoreless, with future College Football Hall of Famers George Cafego, Bob Suffridge and Ed Molinski leading the way. Major Bob Neyland was also named to the College Hall.

1941 Sugar Bowl

Boston Coll.	0	0	13	6	-	19
Tennessee	7	0	6	0	-	13

■ Jan, 1, 1941

NEW ORLEANS — Boston College and Tennessee met in the 1941 Sugar Bowl in a game that had all the earmarks of a David and Goliath story. Before a record crowd at Tulane Stadium, the underdog Boston College team had pulled off the upset and did it with a play taken directly from the Vols' playbook.

Tennessee scored first on a 4-yard run by Van Thompson and the conversion by Bob Foxx, but lost the ball on downs at the BC 11 and lost an interception at the BC 15. The half ended 7-0.

Boston College tied the score in the third period, blocking a Tennessee punt and scoring quickly. It had been seven years since a Vol punt was blocked. The Vols went back ahead as Buist Warren scored from the 2 and Tennessee led 13-7.

Boston College answered immediately as Mike Holovak scored from the 1 after a 70-yard drive. The point failed and it was 13-13 entering the final canto. With six minutes left, the Eagles moved the ball to the Vol 24. Eagle tailback Charlie O'Rourke then ran left, raised his arm as if to pass and sprinted 24 yards for the touchdown.

■ Jan. 1, 1943

NEW ORLEANS — Tennessee made its second trip to the Sugar Bowl in three years to play Henry Frank's pass-minded Tulsa Hurricane.

Despite a passing show by the Hurricanes' Glenn Dobbs, the Vols escaped with a 14-7 win. Tulsa scored first, but the Vols dominated the game from that point on to take the victory, racking up 208 yards rushing and holding Tulsa to minus-39 yards rushing. Bill Gold and Clyde "Ig" Fuson scored touchdowns and Denver Crawford blocked a punt for a safety as the Vols squared their bowl record at 2-2.

■ Jan, 1, 1945

PASADENA, Calif. — Tennessee finished 7-0-1 in 1944, but met its match against Southern California in the 1945 Rose Bowl, the second contest between the cross-country rivals in Pasadena in five seasons.

Tennessee had not fielded a team in 1943 and, given the green light by the conference to do so in 1944, put together an eight-game schedule that assembled talent available.

The Vols got good efforts from the 1944 team, but a lack of depth at key positions cost the Vols against the powerful USC team. Despite the loss, Tennessee coach John Barnhill was named SEC Coach of the Year.

MIAMI — Rice scored a touchdown and a safety in the first quarter and played defense and the kicking game in the best Tennessee tradition to defeat Bob Neyland's Volunteers 8-0 in the 1947 Orange Bowl.

Rice blocked two Vol punts in the first quarter, the second of which led to a safety and, combined with a touchdown drive of 83 yards, it was enough to win. The touchdown came on a lateral from Buddy Russ to Huey Kenney after Russ had run 25 yards to the Vol 25. Kenney took it in and Rice led.

Rice coach Jess Neely was then content to put the game in the hands of his defense, which held the Vols to five first downs and 137 yards.

The Vols had one big shot early in the second half, recovering a fumble at the Rice 18. But Rice intercepted a fourth-down pass and was in control from that point.

■ Jan, 1, 1951

DALLAS — Tennessee's once-defeated Volunteers dominated the second half and defeated Texas 20-14 in the 1951 Cotton Bowl.

The Vols scored first, on a 5-yard pass from Herky Payne to John Gruble, a play set up by a now-historic 75-yard run by Hank Lauricella, on which he reversed his field three times and slowed only to allow his blockers to catch up.

The Longhorns rallied to take a 14-7 halftime lead, parlaying a blocked kick into one score and a pass into another. The Vols closed to one point early in the fourth quarter, when fullback Andy Kozar bulled in from the 5. Later in the quarter, Jim Hill intercepted a Longhorn pass and the Vols were goalward again.

The teams exchanged fumbles on two consecutive plays and the Vols took the Texas turnover in for the winning score. Kozar got 6, Lauricella hit Rechichar for 23 and ran for 11. Finally, Kozar scored his second touchdown and the Vols held off a late Texas charge to win 20-14.

■ Jan, 1, 1952

NEW ORLEANS — Tennessee went to New Orleans undefeated and the 1951 national champions. But the Vols fell victim to an undefeated Maryland team that scored 21 points in 16 minutes and never looked back. The final was 28-13.

Maryland uncorked a strong running game to lead 21-6 at the half and used a timely interception return for a touchdown to keep the Vols at bay.

Tennessee showed only flashes of the power that had been its trademark during the regular season. Vol tailback Herky Payne led two touchdown drives, but otherwise, the Maryland defense stopped the Vol attack, using an eight-man line.

■ Jan, 1, 1953

DALLAS — Tennessee's appearance in the 1953 Cotton Bowl is memorable for only one reason: it brought the Neyland era to an unhappy end.

Robert R. Neyland, the West Point-trained army officer who had turned a mediocre program into one of the giants of college football, wasn't well enough to coach his Vol team in its final game. He sat on the bench while offensive coordinator Harvey Robinson called the shots in a 16-0 loss to Texas.

The Vols could never manage even the first hint of a scoring threat. They made only six first downs and would up with minus 14 yards rushing. The Longhorns, with 20 first downs and 269 yards rushing, ran 86 offensive plays to Tennessee's 35.

Neyland visited his players in the dressing room following the game. He managed a smile, said he was proud of them and told them to go out and have some fun.

He was a gracious loser, even if he didn't have a lot of experience at it.

■ Jan, 1, 1957

NEW ORLEANS — No. 11-rated Baylor beat Tennessee at its own game in the 1957 Sugar Bowl, turning four interceptions and a key fumble recovery into a 13-7 win over the previously undefeated and No. 2-ranked Volunteers.

Baylor scored first on a pass from Bobby Jones to Jerry Marcontell covering 12 yards. The touchdown drive had been keyed by Shofner's 54-yard run after a Johnny Majors quick-kick. Tennessee had two drives snuffed by interceptions in the first half and trailed 6-0 at intermission.

The Vols scored early in the third quarter as Majors and fullback Tommy Bronson led the charge downfield and Baylor contributed a key piling-on penalty. Majors scored from the 1 and Sammy Burklow's conversion gave the Vols a 7-6 lead. The Vols held that lead into the fourth quarter when Majors was hit on a punt return and fumbled at the Vol 15. Baylor recovered and moved in for the winning score.

The Vols had two last chances to score, but two Baylor interceptions and a sack of Vol tailback Bobby Gordon erased the Vols' last scoring opportunities.

■ Dec. 28, 1957

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — In Paul "Bear" Bryant's last game as Aggie head coach, Tennessee used a fourth quarter field goal by placekicker Sammy Burklow and a stubborn defense to hand the Aggies a 3-0 defeat on a wet and muddy Gator Bowl field.

It was the lowest-scoring game in the history of the Gator Bowl and was played before a Gator Bowl-record crowd of 43,709.

The field goal was the first of Burklow's career and came from 17 yards out with 5:30 left to play in the game. It was a day for the defenses to shine as action was confined between the 35-yard lines.

The game was marked by the now-famous collision between Vol tailback Bobby Gordon and Aggie Heisman Trophy winner John David Crow on the Vols' march to the winning score. Both players recovered to continue play, with Gordon holding for Burklow's game-winning field goal.

■ Dec. 18, 1965

HOUSTON — Tennessee made its first bowl appearance since the Gator Bowl victory over Texas A & M in 1957 and made it a successful return by taking the measure of the Tulsa Hurricanes 27-6 in a swampy Rice Stadium.

The game was played in the wettest weather that ever confronted a Tennessee team, a steady downpour that that did not cease until long after the game was over.

The Vols took care of business quickly, moving to a 20-6 halftime lead by taking advantage of Tulsa turnovers and some brilliant work on the kicking game. Tulsa fumbles led to the Vol touchdowns by Hal Wantland and Dewey Warren and Jerry Smith's 45-yard punt return led to the third, another score by Warren. Glenn Gray's pass interception led to the final Vol score, an 11-yard burst by fullback Stan Mitchell.

Tulsa gained 250 yards through the air despite the wet conditions, but three fumbles and four Vol interceptions turned the game Tennessee's way.

■ Dec. 31, 1966

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Tennessee won its second consecutive bowl game under the tutelage of Doug Dickey, defeating Syracuse 18-12 in a game in which each team dominated one half.

Despite an early fumble that gave Syracuse favorable field position, the Vols got field goals from Gary Wright in the first and second quarters to lead 6-0. Another field goal appeared to be in the offing in the second period at the Syracuse 24, but the Vols caught Syracuse by surprise and quarterback Dewey Warren hit tight end Austin Denney instead for the touchdown and a 12-0 lead. Bill Young's interception led to the third Vol score, which came on a 2-yard strike from Warren to flanker Richmond Flowers.

Syracuse, led by the running of future pro stars Floyd Little and Larry Csonka, scored on their first possession of the second half. They lost the ball on downs at the Vol 3 later in the period and scored their final touchdown with 46 seconds left.

■ Jan, 1, 1968

MIAMI — A night football game, this time at Miami's Orange Bowl, became the Vols' undoing for the second time in the 1967 season. The Vols closed the 1967 season the way they opened it, with a loss under the lights. While UCLA was the culprit in the opener, Oklahoma edged the Vols in the season finale.

The Vols fell behind 19-0 in the first half and saw their first series of the second half stopped at the Oklahoma 14. But, on the ensuing series, Jimmy Glover returned a pass interception 36 yards for a touchdown and the Vols were back in the game. With 5:07 left in the third quarter, Charley Fulton scored and it was 19-14.

The Vols closed to 19-17, before giving up an interception that the Sooners returned for a touchdown. Warren brought the Vols back once again, capping a 77-yard drive with a 1-yard sneak and it was 26-24.

The Vols took possession at the Oklahoma 43 when Steve Owens was stopped short on fourth-and-1 and worked the ball to the 27 with time running out. But Karl Kremser's field goal faded wide right and Oklahoma had the game.

DALLAS — The other "Big Orange," the Texas Longhorns, rolled up 513 yards in total offense and held the white-shirted Vols to just 83 yards rushing in taking a convincing 36-13 triumph in the 1969 Cotton Bowl.

The Texans jumped to a 28-0 halftime lead, parlaying a crunching ground attack spiced by the passing combination of Jim Street and Cotton Speyrer. The Vols had an early shot at the Longhorns, but a 57-yard field goal missed and the Longhorns assumed command. The Longhorns intercepted three Vol passes.

Sub quarterback Bobby Scott gave the Vols a spark, throwing second half touchdown passes to Gary Kreis and Mike Price.

■ Dec. 27, 1969

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Before a Gator Bowl-record crowd of 72,248, SEC champion Tennessee went down in defeat to a Florida team which, like the Vols, had far exceeded expectations during the regular season.

Damage from the heralded passing duo of John Reaves and Carlos Alvarez was held to manageable proportions, but Tennessee's inability to score inside the 10 sealed the Vols' fate.

Workhorse running back Curt Watson gained 121 yards on 25 carries and tight end Ken DeLong caught five passes for 50 yards. But a blocked punt that Florida turned into a touchdown was the ultimate difference.

Air Force	7	0	6	0	-	13

■ Jan, 1, 1971

NEW ORLEANS — Tennessee broke a three-game bowl losing streak at the expense of a highly-touted Air Force team. Scoring a record 24 points in the first quarter, the Vols rolled to a convincing 34-13 triumph, finishing the 1970 season with a then school-record 11-1 worksheet.

The first 12 minutes were nothing but fun for Vol partisans. The Vols scored the first four times they had the ball and mounted a 24-0 lead with 3:21 left in the opening quarter. Don McLeary scored twice, George Hunt booted a field goal and Gary Theiler caught a touchdown pass from game-MVP Bobby Scott.

A rugged Tennessee defense thwarted the Air Force offense time after time. Led by Ray Nettles, Tim Priest and Jamie Rotella, the Vols held Air Force to minus 12 yards rushing. The Vols secondary continued its assault, grabbing four interceptions. The Vols also covered four Air Force fumbles.

1971 Liberty Bowl

Tennessee	7	0	0	7	-	14
Arkansas	0	7	0	6	-	13

■ Dec. 20, 1971

MEMPHIS — Late in the fourth quarter, Arkansas looked to be a sure winner of the 1971 Liberty Bowl game only to see that Tennessee had enough left in the tank to grab an improbable victory.

A packed house at the Liberty Bowl that was nearly evenly divided in its loyalties saw the two schools battle for the first time since 1907 on a cold December evening.

Leading 13-7 and apparently dominating the game, the Razorbacks had a potential game-winning field goal nullified by a penalty. A series later, the Hogs lost a fumble after a completed pass at their 36.

The Vols struck quickly for the winning score, just as Gen. Neyland's game maxims had said. Quarterback Jim Maxwell, pressed into service in the Tulsa game earlier in the season and undefeated as a starter. hit tight end Gary Theiler to the Arkansas 19.

Fullback Curt Watson, "The Crossville Comet," who was closing out a brilliant career in Orange and White, finished the drive with a 17-yard touchdown run. George Hunt's extra point was the margin of victory. Eddie Brown had an interception on the ensuing series to seal the deal.

The narrow victory enabled the Vols to finish No. 9 in both national polls and finish 10-2 for the second year in a row.

■ Dec. 30, 1972

HOUSTON — Condredge Holloway turned in his most electrifying performance of the season, completing 11 of 19 passes for 94 yards and rushing for 74 yards in 19 carries, to lead the Vols past SEC rival Louisiana State 24-17 in the 1972 Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl.

Holloway, who was named the game's outstanding player, led the Vols to a 24-3 halftime lead, scoring twice and throwing a touchdown pass to tight end Jimmy Young. Known as the "Artful Dodger," Holloway kept the Tigers off balance the first 30 minutes and left Vol fans wondering what might be ahead for the diminutive signal-caller.

Things got tense for the Vols in the second half as Louisiana State All-America Bert Jones led the Tigers to two second half scores and was threatening a third when All-America and senior defensive back Conrad Graham cleanly broke up a fourth down pass at the Vol 10 to preserve the victory.

Tennessee's Carl Johnson was named the defensive player of the game. The game ended a 31-5 worksheet for the Vol senior class.

■ Dec. 29, 1973

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Tennessee and Texas Tech gave the 62,000-plus fans on hand an exciting offensive show that was another in a series of 1973 games that went down to the wire before a winner was determined. This time, however, it was Texas Tech jumping to an early lead and hanging on for a 28-19 victory.

Texas Tech jumped to a 14-0 lead on the running and passing of quarterback Joe Barnes and led 14-3 at the half as Ricky Townsend got the Vols on the board with a 30-yard field goal.

Haskel Stanback led the Vols' second-half rally, running for one touchdown and catching a pass from Condredge Holloway for another. The Vols closed to 21-19, but misfired on a two-point conversion and a field goal before a long run and subsequent touchdown put the game away for the Texans.

Stanback gained 95 yards in 19 carries and was named Tennessee's outstanding player.

■ Dec. 16, 1974

MEMPHIS — Two Vol sophomores teamed up for the winning score in the 1974 Liberty Bowl. Randy Wallace, subbing for the injured Condredge Holloway, threw an 11-yard touchdown pass to Larry Seivers, who outleaped two defenders with 2:44 left in the game to subdue the Terps 7-3.

Led by All-America tackle Randy White, Maryland had kept the Vols bottled up throughout the cold December night in Memphis. The Terps got a second quarter field goal and almost made it stand up.

Mike Gayles, who gained 106 yards in 17 carries, was named the Vols' outstanding offensive player. Defensive end Ron McCartney was the Vols' defensive standout.

Tennessee	0	0	6	16	- 22

■ Dec. 31, 1979

HOUSTON — Tennessee, making its first bowl appearance in five years, saw a gutty second half comeback fall short in the waning moments of the fourth quarter. Trailing 21-0 in the third quarter, the Vols rallied to take the lead 22-21 late in the fourth quarter. But Purdue quarterback Mark Herrmann threw the game-winner, a 17-yard toss to Charley Young, with just 1:30 remaining.

The Vols' comeback was triggered by an 8-yard Jimmy Streater pass to halfback Glenn Ford. The second Vol touchdown came on a pass from wingback Phil Ingram to tailback James Berry. When Hubert Simpson scored the two-pointer, the Vols were back in the game. The Vols took the lead as Simpson scored and caught the two-point conversion.

All-America defensive back Roland James was the Defensive Player of the Game, with eight unassisted tackles and a 19-yard punt return to his credit. Streater finished with 270 yards rushing and passing.

■ Dec. 13, 1981

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Steve Alatorre completed 24 of 42 passes for 315 yards and one touchdown as the Vols defeated Wisconsin 28-21.

After Wisconsin went ahead 7-3 in the first quarter, Willie Gault returned the ensuing kickoff 87 yards for a touchdown and the Vols were never headed. Alatorre hit wide receiver Anthony Hancock, who made 11 catches on the day, with a 43-yard scoring strike and the Vols led 21-7 at the half. The Vol defense did its part with two first-half interceptions.

Wisconsin's Randy Wright kept the Badgers in the game in the second half, throwing two touchdown passes, but Alatorre's 6-yard run in the fourth quarter proved to be the difference.

Both Alatorre and Hancock made their final Vol game their best. Alatorre was named the game's outstanding player. Defensively, tackle Reggie White led the Vols.

■ Dec. 31, 1982

ATLANTA — Iowa built a 21-7 first half lead, keyed by three Chuck Long touchdown passes, and weathered a second half Vol rally to win the 1982 Peach Bowl 28-22.

Tennessee's second-half comeback was led by quarterback Alan Cockrell and running backs Chuck Coleman and Doug Furnas. The Vols came off the mat to register two touchdowns and a field goal to close to 28-22 late in the fourth quarter.

With the clock winding down, the outcome hinged on two short yardage plays the Hawkeyes stopped at their 7. On third-and-2, Cockrell's pass was deflected. On fourth down, the Vol signal-caller was stopped short on a counter-option.

Cockrell completed 22 of 41 passes for 221 yards and one touchdown and was named Tennessee's Outstanding Player by CBS broadcasters.

■ Dec. 17, 1983

ORLANDO, Fla. — The Vols closed out their finest season since 1972, scoring two fourth quarter TDs to defeat Maryland 30-23, before a sell-out crowd of 50,500 and millions more on ESPN.

Johnnie Jones and Alan Cockrell were the Vols' offensive standouts. Jones gained 154 yards on 29 carries and tallied twice, part of the Vols 201-yard ground attack. Cockrell completed 16 of 23 passes for 185 yards and one touchdown. Clyde Duncan caught six passes for 59 yards and Lenny Taylor caught four for 68 yards and one touchdown.

The Vols were led on defense by linebacker Alvin Toles, who recovered a fumble and intercepted a pass, both efforts leading to Vol scores. The Vols also held the Terrapins to 95 yards on the ground.

The Vols finished the year No. 15 by The New York Times, No. 17 by USA Today and No. 14 by Sports Illustrated.

■ Dec. 22, 1984

EL PASO, Texas — Maryland, trailing 21-0 after the first half, scored 22 points in the third quarter and grimly held on for a 28-27 victory in the 1984 Sun Bowl. The issue was in doubt until Maryland defensive back Keeta Covington jarred the ball loose from the Vols' Tony Robinson, just when the Vols looked to be in position to win on a last-second field goal attempt.

Tennessee jumped to the early lead on the running of tailback Johnnie Jones and the passing combo of Robinson to Tim McGee. Fuad Reveiz added two field goals and the Vols appeared in control.

Maryland reeled off 22 consecutive points in the third quarter, before Pete Panuska gave the Vols their last lead of the game, returning a Maryland kickoff 100 yards for the go-ahead score. Maryland's Rick Badjanek scored the game-winner with 2:28 left. But it remained for Covington to make his big play to secure the Maryland victory.

1986 Sugar Bowl

Tennessee	0	14	14	7	-	35

■ Jan. 1, 1986

NEW ORLEANS — Tennessee rang in 1986 in grand fashion, taking a 35-7 decision over the Miami Hurricanes in the 52nd Sugar Bowl. A crowd of 77,432 saw the Vols spot the Hurricanes an early 7-0 lead, but, after Daryl Dickey and Jeff Smith hooked up for a 6-yard touchdown pass early in the second quarter, the Vols were completely in control.

The Vols took the lead late in the first half when wide receiver Tim McGee corralled a Vol fumble in the end zone. They extended their lead in the third quarter as fullback Sam Henderson scored from 1-yard out after Darrin Miller's fumble recovery gave the Vols the ball at the Miami 32. After a Miami punt, Tennessee's Jeff Powell brought Vol fans to their feet, sprinting 60 yards for another Vol touchdown. All-America defensive back Chris White intercepted Miami quarterback Vinny Testaverde in the fourth quarter to set up a 6-yard scoring run by Charles Wilson.

The win evened the Vols' Sugar Bowl mark at 3-3. Dickey, who completed 15 of 25 passes for 131 yards and one touchdown, was named the game's outstanding player.

■ Dec. 29, 1986

MEMPHIS — Jeff Francis threw three touchdown passes and the Vol defense shut down Minnesota when it had to, leading Tennessee to a 21-14 victory over Minnesota in the 28th Liberty Bowl.

The Vols jumped to a 14-3 halftime lead as Francis threw touchdown passes to wide receiver Joey Clinkscales and fullback William Howard. Minnesota got a late field goal from Chip Lohmiller and trailed 14-3 at the half.

The Gophers dominated the third period, getting a touchdown from quarterback Rickey Foggie on a fourth-down option play. Freshman Darrell Thompson's two-point conversion run put Minnesota back in the game. Another field goal from Lohmiller in the fourth quarter knotted the count.

The Vols roared back for the clinching score, as Francis hit Nate Middlebrooks and Anthony Miller to move deep into Minnesota territory. On third-and-3, he hit Clinkscales for the game-winner in the left corner of the end zone. The Vol defense shut down Foggie and Minnesota the rest of the way and rang up UT's third Liberty Bowl victory in as many tries.

1988 Peach Bowl

Tennessee	14	7	0	6	- 27
Indiana	3	7	6	6	- 22

■ Jan. 2, 1988

ATLANTA — Tennessee closed the 1987 season the way it began it way back in August, posting a come-from-behind win over a Big Ten rival. This time the Indiana Hoosiers were the victim, as the Vols rallied once again in the fourth quarter for a 27-22 victory.

A record Peach Bowl crowd of 58,737 saw the Vols explode to a 21-3 lead early in the second quarter as quarterback Jeff Francis led three scoring drives and threw TD passes to Anthony Miller and Terence Cleveland. Indiana rallied in the second half and led 22-21 late in the fourth quarter. But the Vol defense stiffened and Francis and his offensive mates got the ball at the Hoosier 40.

The Vols took it for the winning score as Francis scrambled for a crucial first down and Cobb got the game-winner from 9 yards out. Charles Kimbrough's interception sealed the Vols' first win in two Peach Bowl tries.

■ Jan. 1, 1990

DALLAS — Tennessee finished with its finest season record since 1970 by taking a hard-fought 31-27 decision over the Southwest Conference champion Razorbacks.

The Vols, paced by the running of Offensive MVP Chuck Webb and an opportunistic defense, raced to a 31-13 lead after three periods, but the Hogs stormed back to close the margin before Alvin Harper recovered an onside kick attempt with 1:23 left on the clock and the Vols were able to run out the clock.

UT had parlayed a field goal by Greg Burke, two TDs by Webb, one on a 78-yard run down the near sideline, an 84-yard pass from Andy Kelly to Anthony Morgan and a 1-yard toss from Kelly to Greg Amsler to take the lead.

Martin Williams and Tracy Hayworth recovered fumbles to blunt two Arkansas drives and Defensive MVP Carl Pickens intercepted an Arkansas pass to stop another drive. Kacy Rodgers made a big play in the fourth quarter, stopping Arkansas tailback Barry Foster on fourth-and-1 at the Vol 9.

■ Jan. 1, 1991

NEW ORLEANS — Tennessee concluded its 100-year anniversary season and longest in Vol history with a come-from-behind victory in the 57th Sugar Bowl Classic at the Louisiana Superdome. The Vols concluded a 9-2-2 season.

The Vols trailed for the first 59:29, but won the game when Tony Thompson, who rushed for 151 yards, hurdled the line for a score from 1 yard out. Thompson's score climaxed a Sugar Bowl record-setting 20-point fourth quarter.

Leading 16-3, Virginia looked poised to put the game away late in the third quarter. But Floyd Miley intercepted a Shawn Moore pass at the Vol 6 and the rally was on. Andy Kelly, voted the game's most outstanding player, led three drives for scores and Dale Carter intercepted a last-gasp Virginia pass to gain the victory.

Thompson scored twice in the fourth quarter rally and Kelly found Carl Pickens wide open for the other score.

Carter had two interceptions for his night's work and linebacker Darryl Hardy had eight tackles and four broken-up passes.

1992 Fiesta Bowl

Penn State	7	0	14	21	-	42

■ Jan. 1, 1992

TEMPE, Ariz. — Tennessee appeared to be in the driver's seat of the 21st Fiesta Bowl, leading 17-7 midway in the third quarter, but Penn State ran off 35 unanswered points in just 7:49 to take the decision. Turnovers proved to be the Vols' undoing as four of the six Penn State scores came off Vol mistakes.

The Vols, who trailed 7-0 just 1:19 into the game, ran off 17 unanswered points of their own between the first and third quarters, but failed to take full advantage of the 441-226 yard statistical advantage. The Nittany Lions then reeled off 35 unanswered points of their own to seal the win.

James Stewart and Cory Fleming scored Vol touchdowns while John Becksvoort added two conversions and a 24-yard field goal. Stewart's score came after a 10-play, 62-yard drive in the first quarter. Fleming's came in the third quarter on a pass from Andy Kelly on which the Vol sophomore wideout made some nifty moves in the open field to score.

■ Jan. 1, 1993

TAMPA, Fla. — Tennessee scored 14 points despite having the ball only 3:32 of the first quarter and added 24 more in the third and early fourth quarters to take a 38-23 decision over Boston College in the Hall of Fame Bowl at Tampa Stadium.

Game MVP Heath Shuler led the way, completing 18 of 23 passes for 245 yards and two touchdowns while scoring two himself. His TD passes went to Cory Fleming (27 yards) and Mose Phillips (69 yards). Shuler scored twice on runs of 1 and 14 yards. Jerry Colquitt threw a 48-yard scoring pass to Fleming and John Becksvoort added a field goal and five extra points. The Vols outgained the Eagles 450-371.

After a bad snap on BC's first punt of the game led to good field position at the BC 43, Shuler found Ron Davis down the left side for 42 yards and scored a play later on a keeper left. Fleming's first TD came on the Vols' next possession. The Vols' third quarter surge featured Shuler's second TD of the day and a Phillips' determined run for a score.

■ Jan. 1, 1994

ORLANDO, Fla. — Tennessee jumped to a 10-0 lead on its first two offensive series, but Penn State rallied from a 13-10 deficit late in the first half with 21 unanswered points to take a 31-13 decision in the 48th annual Florida Citrus Bowl.

Tennessee moved to a field goal on its first possession, one of two made by John Becksvoort on the day. The Vols scored a touchdown on their second foray into Penn State territory on a 19-yard pass from Heath Shuler to Cory Fleming, but could add only a Citrus Bowl record 50-yard field goal by Becksvoort the rest of the afternoon.

Penn State scored to take the lead for good just before halftime and added another score off a sustained drive after the opening kickoff of the second half to assume control of the game.

Charlie Garner rushed 16 times for 89 yards and Fleming caught seven passes for 101 yards. The Vols finished with a 9-2-1 overall record.

■ Dec. 30, 1994

GAINESVILLE, Fla. — Tennessee bolted to a 35-10 halftime lead and coasted from there to take a 45-23 triumph over Virginia Tech in the 1994 Gator Bowl at Florida Field. A 21-point second quarter was the key as the Vols scored on five of seven first half possessions.

James Stewart scored three TDs and threw a 19-yard TD pass to Kendrick Jones. Peyton Manning threw a 36-yard TD pass to Marcus Nash and Jay Graham scored on a 1-yard run.

Tyrone Hines had an interception which led to the Vols' first score, and Shawn Summers had a 49-yard punt return that led to a Vol score in the fourth period.

Stewart, who was named the most outstanding player for the game, carried 22 times for 85 yards. Manning completed 12 of 19 passes for 189 yards. Joey Kent led the Vols with six receptions for 116 yards, 42 coming on a spectacular catch down the far boundary a play before Nash's TD grab.

1996 Florida Citrus Bowl

Tennessee	0	7	7	6	- 20
Ohio State	7	0	0	7	- 14

■ Jan. 1, 1996

ORLANDO, Fla. — Jeff Hall kicked two fourth quarter field goals and the Vols defense held Ohio State in check as UT defeated the Buckeyes 20-14 on a rainy day in the Florida Citrus Bowl.

Jay Graham, the game's MVP, rushed for 154 yards, including a 69-yard scoring dash late in the first half that pulled the Vols even, 7-7, at halftime. Peyton Manning completed 20 of 35 passes for 182 yards and one touchdown. Joey Kent led the Vol receiving corps with seven catches for 109 yards, including a 47-yard scoring toss from Manning that gave UT a 14-7 advantage in the third quarter.

Hall's two field goals in the fourth quarter came after the Buckeyes had tied the game, 14-14. Tennessee's defense, which had stopped the Buckeyes on a second quarter fourth-and-inches at the 3-yard line, forced three turnovers in OSU's final four possessions.

UT held Ohio State, with Heisman winner Eddie George, to a season-low 89 yards on the ground.

The victory upped Tennessee's record to 11-1, its best since 1989 and propelled the Vols to a No. 2 finish in the final CNN-USA Today poll, UT's highest since 1967. The Vols were tabbed No. 3 in final Associated Press voting.

■ Jan. 1, 1997

ORLANDO, Fla. — Tied 21-21 late in the second quarter, Tennessee scored the game's next 20 points and took a 48-28 victory over Big 10 co-champion Northwestern. Peyton Manning completed 27 of 39 passes for 408 yards to lead the Vol attack.

After the Wildcats had battled back from a 21-0 first quarter deficit to tie the game, Manning threw a 67-yard TD pass to Joey Kent and beat the clock for a Jeff Hall field goal on the final play of the half to give the Vols a 31-21 halftime lead. The Vols led 38-21 after Tyrone Hines' 30-yard interception return.

The Vols had jumped to a 21-0 lead in the first quarter on a 43-yard TD pass from Manning to Peerless Price, a 10-yard run for a score by Manning and another TD toss, this one from Manning to Kent from 11 yards out. Price caught six passes for 110 yards and Kent caught five for 122 yards. The Vols finished No. 9 overall in both polls.

1998 Orange Bowl

Nebraska	7	7	21	7	- 42
Tennessee	0	3	6	8	- 17

■ Jan. 2, 1998

MIAMI — A 21-point third quarter proved pivotal as No. 2 Nebraska took a 42-17 win over No. 3 Tennessee in the Orange Bowl. The win vaulted the Cornhuskers to the No. 1 spot in the Coaches' Poll with a 13-0 record. Tennessee finished 11-2, the sixth 11-win season in school history, and earned seventh (AP) and eighth (ESPN/USA Today) place finishes. A crowd of 72,835 saw the first ever meeting between the two teams.

Peyton Manning and Tee Martin each threw TD passes: Manning's a 5-yarder to Peerless Price and Martin's a 3-yarder to Andy McCullough. Jeff Hall added a 44-yard field goal and Travis Stephens caught a two-point conversion pass from Martin.

Tennessee fell behind 14-0 before Hall's fielder in the second quarter and saw the game get away when Nebraska cranked up the ground game in the third quarter en route to scores on drives of 80, 73 and 80 yards. Tailback Jamal Lewis concluded a stellar freshman season, carrying 14 times for 90 yards and being named his team's MVP.

■ Jan. 4, 1999

TEMPE, Ariz. — Tennessee won the 1998 national championship, the first for the Vols since 1951, and completed the school's first-ever 13-0 season with a 23-16 win over the No. 2 Seminoles. Tee Martin completed 11 of 18 passes for 278 yards and threw TD passes to Shawn Bryson and Peerless Price.

Price caught four passes for 199 yards, setting a Tennessee bowl receiving record in the process. A Fiesta Bowl record crowd of 84,470 saw the game, only the second meeting between the schools.

Bryson's TD reception came in the second quarter and was followed by Dwayne Goodrich pilfering an FSU pass and returning 54 yards for a score which gave the Vols a 14-0 lead. Goodrich's TD run was the third of his career.

Florida State narrowed the margin to 14-9 at the half and the score remained that way until midway in the fourth quarter when Martin and Price hooked up for the pivotal 79-yard score, followed by a Seminole turnover and a Jeff Hall field goal.

Price was named the Offensive Player of the Game and Goodrich the Defensive Player of the Game.

■ Jan. 2, 2000

TEMPE, Ariz. - Two long Nebraska scoring drives in the second half ended Tennessee's hopes of an upset in the Cornhuskers' 31-21 victory over the Vols before 71,526 in the 2000 Tostitos Fiesta Bowl.

The Cornhuskers rushed for 321 yards and held the Vols to 44. Nebraska jumped to a 14-0 lead in the first quarter on a 7-yard run by Dan Alexander, who finished with 108 yards, and a 60-yard punt return by Bobby Newcombe. Nebraska added a field goal late in the half before Tee Martin led a 65-yard, eight-play drive culminating in a 9-yard pass to Donte' Stallworth.

The Vols closed it to 17-14 when Travis Henry scored on a 4-yard run early in the third quarter after the Vols forced a fumble on the second play after the third quarter kickoff. Will Overstreet caused the bobble and Dominique Stevenson got it.

The Vols got the game's last score when wide receiver Cedrick Wilson, a former high school quarterback, threw a 44-yard TD pass to Stallworth that closed it to 31-21 with 7:25 left. It was his first pass as a Vol.

■ Jan. 1, 2001

DALLAS - Leading 21-14 at the half, Kansas State scored on its first two possessions of the third quarter and held Tennessee scoreless until the final minutes to take a 35-21 victory in the 65th annual Cotton Bowl Classic on a snowy day.

The Wildcats jumped to a 7-0 first quarter lead, but the Vols tied the game on a 17-yard pass from Casey Clausen to wideout David Martin in the second period. Kansas State then parlayed two TD passes from game MVP Jonathan Beasley to wideout Quincy Morgan, 56 and 10 yards respectively, to lead 21-7.

Kansas State appeared headed for more late in the second quarter, when defensive tackle Chavis Smith tipped a pass and Jabari Greer took the interception back 78 yards for a score.

The Wildcats' two third quarter scores came entirely on the ground in the first 4:54 of the third quarter. It remained 35-14 until Travis Henry, who ran for 180 yards on 17 carries, found daylight on a dash up the middle.

The game marked the Vols' fifth appearance in the Cotton Bowl and first since 1990. It was also the Vols' first game against K-State.

■ Jan. 1, 2002

ORLANDO, Fla. - The Vols threw nearly every offensive weapon possible at Michigan and rolled to a 45-17 victory in the Capital One Florida Citrus Bowl. Capping an 11-2 season, Tennessee's 28-point win matched its largest bowl triumph.

Game MVP Casey Clausen threw for a career-high 393 yards on 26-of-34 completions. He also passed for three touchdowns and nearly had two more -- twice Donte' Stallworth was tackled inside the 1-yard line.

After UT marched for an opening field goal, defensive MVP John Henderson was in on three straight tackles that forced Michigan into a quick three-and-out. Henderson caused one fumble and recovered a fumble to set up the Vols' first touchdown.

Stallworth caught eight passes for 119 yards and had 190 all-purpose yards. Kelley Washington caught six passes for 70 yards and two scores, while Jason Witten hauled in six catches for a career-high 125 yards.

■ Dec. 31, 2002

ATLANTA - Maryland handed Tennessee its worst bowl loss in school history, a 30-3 blitz at the 35th annual Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl. The Terrapins took advantage of two key UT turnovers and used a balanced attack in defeating the Vols for the third time in five postseason meetings.

Tennessee had eight penalties for 68 yards and Vols quarterback Casey Clausen was sacked six times for minus-36 yards. In addition, UT converted only four of 13 third-down opportunities and rushed 27 times for just 45 net yards -- the school's third lowest figure in 43 bowl appearances.

The Terps' second touchdown was a 54-yard interception return by Curome Cox, the longest against a UT team in bowl history. Later, return specialist Steve Suter fielded a Dustin Colquitt punt and scampered 79 yards to the 14, setting up Maryland's final three points of the game.

Maryland quarterback Scott McBrien scored twice and place-kicker Nick Novak hit on all three field goal tries.

Alex Walls' 38-yard field goal in the second quarter was the only scoring the Vols could muster.

■ Jan. 2, 2004

ATLANTA - Clemson jumped to a 10-0 lead late in the first quarter, matched two Tennessee touchdowns with two of its own before halftime and added a late field goal, all adding up to a 27-14 victory in the 35th annual Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl. A record Georgia Dome crowd of 75,125 saw the first game between the two teams since 1976.

Clemson took the first drive of the game 80 yards in six plays for a score and added a field goal after a long punt return.

Casey Clausen who completed 31 of 55 passes for 384 yards, threw touchdown passes to Chris Hannon in the first quarter and Jones in the second, but the Tigers had touchdowns of their own in response to each of the Vol scores.

Clausen completed passes to 10 different receivers, with Troy Fleming catching 6 for 54 yards, Jones 5 for 66 and Hannon 4 for 57. The Vols' first score came after an 11-play, 87-yard drive and the second was 4 plays, 43 yards after an interception by safety Gibril Wilson.

The Vols finished 10-3 and played in their eighth New Year's bowl game in nine years.

■ Jan. 1, 2005

DALLAS - Tennessee took the first drive of the game in for a touchdown and never looked back, forcing five turnovers in a 38-7 win over Texas A&M in the 69th SBC Cotton Bowl.

Offensive MVP Rick Clausen threw three TD passes and Cedric Houston and Gerald Riggs Jr. scored on the ground to pace the Vols' offensive attack.

Defensive tackle Justin Harrell, who forced a fumble and had a sack, was named the game's defensive MVP. The Vol defense forced four fumbles on the day, with defensive back Ryan Karl adding an interception. A crowd of 74,704 saw the contest played on a warm, overcast day.

Clausen, who completed 18-of-27 passes for 222 yards, threw TD passes to C.J. Fayton, Cory Anderson and Tony Brown and kept the Aggies off balance with an offensive attack totaling 474 yards, nearly equally divided between the pass and the run.

Riggs Jr. had 102 yards on 18 carries, while Houston added 62 yards on 13 carries. The Vols held the ball for 40:22, with a school and Cotton Bowl record 32 first downs.

2007 Outback Bowl

Penn State	0	10	0	10	-	20
Tennessee	3	7	0	0	-	10

■ Jan. 1, 2007

TAMPA, Fla. - Three Tennessee turnovers led to 10 Penn State points and a 20-10 loss at the Outback Bowl.

The Vols appeared poised to take command of a 10-10 game early in the fourth quarter when Erik Ainge hit tight end Chris Brown for a 53-yard pass play to the PSU 14-yard line.

But Penn State linebacker Dan Connor's tackle on tailback Arian Foster caused a fumble that Tony Davis picked up and raced 88 yards for the clinching touchdown with 10:01 to play. It was the longest defensive score against the Vols in UT bowl history.

UT had tied the contest late in the first half when LaMarcus Coker raced 42 yards for a touchdown.

Penn State handed off to bowl MVP Tony Hunt 31 times for 158 yards. Hunt's rushing totals were the most carries and third-most yards against UT in a bowl game.

Ainge completed 25-of-37 for 267 yards, including career highs of seven passes each to Brown and Jayson Swain. Brown finished with 66 receiving yards, while Swain had 84.

The Vols took a 3-0 lead in the first quarter on James Wilhoit's 44-yard field goal. Wilhoit added an extra-point later in the game and finished his tenure at UT with 325 points.

2008 Outback Bowl

Tennessee	7	14	0	0	- 21
Wisconsin	7	7	3	0	- 17

■ Jan. 1, 2008

TAMPA, Fla. - After a season full of clutch plays and last-second heroics, Tennessee's Antonio Wardlow intercepted Tyler Donovan at the one-yard line with less than a minute to play to preserve a 21-17 Outback Bowl victory over Wisconsin and 10-win season for the Vols.

Wardlow's pick came after Wisconsin had driven to the Tennessee 36 in hopes of punching in a game-winning score. The Badgers had marched all the way from their own 12 before deciding to take a shot at the end zone with 28 seconds remaining in the game.

Bowl MVP Erik Ainge connected on 25 of 43 passes for 365 yards and two touchdowns. He completed passes to nine different receivers led by Josh Briscoe, who caught seven balls for 101 yards and a score.

Tennessee jumped out to a 7-0 lead when it converted a Wisconsin turnover into a Gerald Jones three-yard touchdown run early in the opening period.

The Vols found paydirt on two consecutive possessions in the second quarter to jump out to a 21-7 lead. Ainge hit Briscoe for a 29-yard score to cap the first drive.

2009 Chick-fil-A Bowl

Virginia Tech	7	10	7	13	- 37
Tennessee	0	14	0	0	- 14

■ Dec. 31, 2009

ATLANTA - Ryan Williams isn't keeping track of his records.

"Someone eventually will break them anyway," Virginia Tech's fantastic redshirt freshman running back said.

Probably, but in just one season Williams has already made a quite an impression.

He capped a brilliant debut season with a record-setting game, running for two touchdowns to power No. 12 Virginia Tech past Tennessee 37-14 in the Chick-fil-A Bowl on Thursday night.

Williams, a redshirt freshman, had 117 yards rushing to become Virginia Tech's single-season rushing leader with 1,655 yards.

Tennessee's star running back, Montario Hardesty, could not keep up with Williams. The Volunteers' senior had 18 carries for 39 yards and a touchdown.

"We got gassed; we got tired," said Tennessee defensive end Chris Walker. "You could tell especially on defense we weren't making plays. Ryan Williams is a really great player."

Tennessee was hurt by two turnovers which led to 10 points for Virginia Tech, and a dropped pass that cost the Vols a touchdown.

Bowl Halls of Fame

George Cafego

Orange Bowl Hall of Honor • 1984

Cafego played in Tennessee's 17-0 victory over Oklahoma in the 1939 Orange Bowl. The Tennessee running back set up the Vols' first score with a punt return to the Sooner 27-yard line and a 15-yard rushing gain. The Tennessee offense totaled 260 yards of offense behind the direction of Cafego. He was inducted into the Orange Bowl Hall of Honor in 1984.

Doug Dickey

Gator Bowl Hall of Fame • 1994

Coach Dickey appeared in four Gator Bowls, three as a coach and one as a player. He quarterbacked the University of Florida to a 14-13 victory over Tulsa in 1953 and led his first Tennessee team to an 18-12 victory over Syracuse in 1966. He also coached Tennessee in the 1969 Gator Bowl and Florida in the 1975 Gator Bowl. Dickey was inducted into the Gator Bowl Hall of Fame in 1994.

Andy Kozar

Cotton Bowl Hall of Fame • 2005

On a rain-soaked field against third-ranked Texas in the 1951 Classic, the Tennessee sophomore proved to be the Vols' workhorse, carrying 20 times for 92 yards. His constant pounding inside forced the Texas defense to crack late in the fourth quarter. Kozar scored twice on bursts of one and five yards. His game-winner came with just 3:11 to play and capped a Vols rally that turned a 14-7 deficit into a thrilling 20-14 victory. He was inducted into the Cotton Bowl Hall of Fame in 2005.

Hank Lauricella

Cotton Bowl Hall of Fame • 2005

Lauricella, the Vols' great single-wing tailback, found a way to place his name among the legends of the Cotton Bowl without scoring a touchdown. On the Vols' second possession, he set up the game's first score with a 75-yard gallop to the Texas five-yard line. Lauricella reversed his field three times and slowed only to allow his blockers to catch up. He gave UT the spark to claim what many consider to be its greatest bowl victory. He was inducted into the Cotton Bowl Hall of Fame in 2005.

Johnny Majors

Chick-fil-A Bowl Hall of Fame • 2005

Majors coached three teams to Sun Bowl berths including his 1984 UT team. He also led Iowa State to the Sun Bowl in 1971 and Pittsburgh in 1975. He is only one of three coaches to appear in three Sun Bowl games. He was named a Legend of the Sun Bowl in 1995 and earned a position in the Chick-fil-A Bowl Hall of Fame in 2005.

Lindsey Nelson

Cotton Bowl Hall of Fame • 2000

Nelson was the longtime Voice of the Cotton Bowl as he served as the play-by-play announcer for 26 of the annual New Year's Day games. His first broadcast was in 1951 on the NBC Radio Network. Nelson was inducted into the Cotton Bowl Hall of Fame in 2000.

Gen. Robert R. Neyland

Orange Bowl Hall of Honor • 1969

Neyland was included in the first Orange Bowl Classic Hall of Honor class in 1969. The legendary coach was instrumental in Tennessee's classic 1939 win over Oklahoma. Neyland also directed the Vols to the 1947 Classic against Rice University. He finished his career with a 173-31-12 (.829) record in 21 seasons at Tennessee.

James Stewart

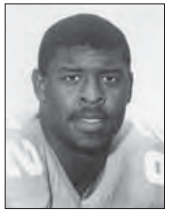
Gator Bowl Hall of Fame • 1998

The Morristown native was named the Most Outstanding Player as Tennessee took a 45-23 victory over Virginia Tech in the 1994 Gator Bowl. The Vol running back scored three touchdowns as he rushed for 85 yards on 22 attempts and also threw a 19-yard touchdown pass to Kendrick Jones. Stewart was inducted into the Gator Bowl Hall of Fame in 1998.

Bob Suffridge

Orange Bowl Hall of Honor • 1982

Suffridge, a three-time All-America lineman, played in Tennessee's 17-0 victory over Oklahoma in the 1939 Orange Bowl. The Vol defense allowed only 94 yards of total offense while the offensive line paved the way for the Vol rushing attack that gained 197 yards. Suffridge was elected to the Orange Bowl Hall of Honor in 1982.



Reggie White

Chick-fil-A Bowl Hall of Fame • 2004

In Tennessee's 28-22 1982 Peach Bowl loss to Iowa, White logged eight tackles, including one for loss, two sacks and a forced fumble. White holds Tennessee school records for career sacks (32), sacks in a season (15) and sacks in a single game (4 vs. The Citadel in 1983). He was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame in 2002 and the Chick-fil-A Bowl Hall of Fame in 2004.

Vol For Life

■ Coach Dooley hired former Vol captain Andre Lott (1998-2001) to coordinate the Vol For Life/ Character Education emphasis, a comprehensive player enhancement program to develop the person outside of football. He has begun working with UT's football student-athletes to further their personal growth through the newly-created program centered on four areas: character education, life skills, career development and spiritual growth.

'I'm Here For Them': Lott starts role to prepare Vols for life after UT

By Austin Ward, Knoxville News Sentinel
July 19, 2010

Andre Lott plays touch football with students at the Wesley Center on Monday. Lott, who is Tennessee's coordinator of the Vol for Life program for character development, visited the Wesley Center's summer program with selected sophomores.

Tennessee defensive tackle Montori Hughes lifts 10-year-old Tyson Bivins to help him get a better basketball shot on Monday.

Andre Lott got a glimpse of an outgoing personality he didn't know existed.

He heard the story of another player overcoming poverty to earn a scholarship at Tennessee.

The coordinator of the new Vol for Life program for character development also saw a class of sophomores bond instantly with a group of inner-city kids, following up speeches about the value of education with an afternoon full of games together on a humid Monday afternoon.

The Vols might not be able to change the culture or preception of their program overnight, and Lott certainly won't be able to get to know the entire roster he'll be working with in that timeframe either. But in his first community service event since coming back to UT this month - and the first of several scheduled this week - Lott was able to make significant progress with the latter as the Vols opened up at the Wesley House Community Center.

He also saw that the former might not be as bad as advertised.

"It's going to take some time," Lott said before heading to the playgound himself. "I'm currently in the process of sitting down with each player on a personal level to let them know what I've done. I want them to tell me about them, what their expectations are of me. More than anything, I'm here for them.

"It's been great so far. I think the best thing we really have going right now is me getting to know the players before we really start implementing anything in the fall, and that's been going great. It's easy for me to get to know these guys when they're coming down and speaking to the kids - you really get to see their real personality. With (linebacker) Robert (Nelson), I would never have thought he had the personality that he has, it's awesome. It's going to be great, and we're really looking forward to this."

The day of service certainly started building some excitement for the Vol for Life program, though in some ways it's just the tip of the iceberg in the long-term plan for the new coach Derek Dooley.

Community service is just one part of a multi-faceted approach to preparing the Vols for life after UT, along with life skills, career development, spirituality and character education - all of which Lott will be responsible for organizing and overseeing for Dooley.

The former Louisiana Tech coach had a bare-bones version of the program at his last stop, but it will be expanded considerably thanks to UT's resources and the hiring of Lott. Neither the program nor the community service events this week were scheduled as a response to the latest embarrassing arrests at Bar Knoxville, but in their wake the potential value of Vol for Life in helping shape the players has only become more clear.

"It's essentially surrounding our players with all the resources that are going to empower them to reach their capacity in three areas - school, football and personal growth," Dooley said. "They're all very distinct fields. But those three things are, to me, what college is all about.

"Most people focus on making you a great player and making sure you graduate, but the third component is the most important to me. If you get out of school and can't do the basics, that's a problem. No matter who you are, you've got to turn pro as a man."

Like repairing UT's image or Lott getting to know the roster, that process will take some time as well. But UT is committed to a comprehensive program, breaking the team up by class for different lessons throughout their career and keeping them together for bonding events.

For now, that's merely a starting point for the Vols and Lott. But class will soon be in session, and the man in charge is getting a jump on roll call already.

"This isn't really overwhelming for me because I've been doing it for the last three years," Lott said. "I know what to expect, and Coach Dooley knows what he expects of me, so that's why it's been an easy transition for me. It was a little overwhelming with actually seeing 100 players or 90 players, but I think that was the only thing that was a little overwhelming.

"But you know, I really will take this and evaluate them. You know, like how you dress, how you speak out, things like that. There's something they can learn from in every situation."

In the process, the players are helping Lott learn a thing or two about them as well.

Tyler Bray & Derek Dooley

Tyler Bray

■ Freshman quarterback Tyler Bray (above) took over the starting reigns at the beginning of November and shattered UT records for passing yards by a freshman (1,537) and passing yards (308) and touchdowns (five) in a half (at Memphis). Bray earned SEC Freshman of the Week honors in his first two starts and three of his first four. He set career highs in completions (20), attempts (38) and yards (354) in final regular season game vs. Kentucky and finished the season with 14 touchdowns.

Bray takes command

By Wes Rucker, Knoxville News Sentinel
November 18, 2010

Tyler Bray is a laid-back kid. That's just the Californian's nature. He's always been like that, and he probably always will be to a certain extent.

But something suddenly changed sometime during Saturday's 52-14 blowout win over Ole Miss.

Sharply and suddenly, the University of Tennessee's tall, thin true freshman quarterback took control of his huddle.

"Guys were talking about another play, and he was like, 'Hey guys, just shut up and let's get to the next play,'" Volunteers junior tailback Tauren Poole said.

Did they quiet down?

"Oh, yeah," Poole said.

And the Vols continued to romp the Rebels.

To hear Poole tell it, the 6-foot-6, 18-year-old Bray is becoming a man.

"He's definitely way more commanding now," Poole said. "At first, he wouldn't say anything -- you know, he'd be quiet, let guys kind of do their thing. But now he's stepping up as a leader, and I love to see that in him, because the type of talent he brings to the table as a quarterback, he needs those communication skills to kind of delegate guys around. And he's definitely doing that, and it's great to see.

"He has a great future, he's doing great things right now and hopefully he can do more."

That's the plan, of course.

Bray, who has thrown 10 touchdown passes and just one interception in his first 10 quarters as UT's first-team quarterback -- and that pick came on his first pass -- has "sparked" the entire team, according to senior wide receiver Gerald Jones.

"I think that's pretty obvious," Jones said. "It's clear as day."

The baby-faced Bray is taking baby steps. His first start was his first win. His second start was his first Southeastern Conference win. He hopes his third start -- Saturday at in-state rival Vanderbilt -- will be his first SEC road win.

"When I first started, everything seemed like it was a million miles per hour," Bray said. "Now it's starting to come back to normal, and it's getting a lot easier."

For accuracy's sake, it should be noted that Bray hasn't faced college football's stiffest competition, even in the second half at SEC Eastern Division champion South Carolina. The Gamecocks are ranked 107th out of 120 FBS team in passing defense, while Memphis is 116th and Ole Miss is 95th.

But here's the good news for Bray: Vanderbilt is tied with Ole Miss for 95th nationally.

First-year Commodores head coach Robbie Caldwell has taken notice.

"Bray threw the ball all over the field last week and did a great job," Caldwell said. "I didn't know much about him previously because I didn't recruit him directly, but to see what he's done, stepping in and being cool and calm. He takes some hits and keeps coming, and I'm very impressed.

"He seems to be very tall and can see over the line. His vision impresses me."

Vandy doesn't directly apply much pressure to the quarterback. The Commodores generally prefer to sit back in deep zones and make offenses earn their way down the field, and they count on a major mistake along the way.

Bray said he'll have to be more patient Saturday. "Very patient," actually.

"We've got to hit the underneath routes, just check throws, just let them get them yards after catch," he said. "Their secondary stays pretty deep, [and] once you throw all underneath routes, they swarm to the ball really fast.

"They're great at that."

Bray said he feels fine when defenses attack or sit back.

"It doesn't matter," he said. "If they blitz, just check down or hot route them. If not, just wait, settle back in the pocket and wait for a guy to get open."

That hasn't necessarily been accurate sometimes, though. Bray trusts his arm and his receivers' talents to the point that he's made several risky throws.

Not that the wideouts mind.

"He has confidence is us to go make plays," true freshman receiver Justin Hunter said. "It's great when your quarterback trusts you like that."

It's not bad when he tells you to be quiet, either. Poole admitted to "kind of (having) of a smirk on my face" when Bray hushed the huddle.

"I'm like, 'Wow, that's a big step for you, actually saying something to somebody,'" Poole said. "But, you know, older guys ... like that, too, and they appreciate him kind of stepping up and being the quarterback that he can be."

Bray: tall, skinny and . . . elusive

By Austin Ward, Knoxville News Sentinel
November 9, 2010

Tyler Bray is a big target, at least vertically.

The Tennessee quarterback is working behind an offensive line that's allowed more sacks than all but a small handful of teams, and the freshman isn't exactly the most mobile guy around, either.

Even with those factors working against him, though, Bray has shown an ability early in his career to shake off defenders or find an escape route from pressure in the pocket, which could come in handy on Saturday against Ole Miss.

But nobody is quite sure exactly why that is yet, even the guy pulling off the great escapes.

"I have no idea," Bray said. "I just try to avoid those big linemen because they're twice the size that I am.

"The more I avoid them, the less I'm on my back and that's better."

Any quarterback is going to be more effective when he's upright, and obviously that's true for Bray.

But the way he's gone about it, deflecting a handful of would-be sacks, stepping up in the pocket and extending plays outside of it has come as a bit of a surprise.

The Vols (3-6, 0-5 SEC) put their quarterbacks in green, non-contact jerseys at practice, so it's not likely a trait that's been learned through repetition. Bray is listed at 6-foot-6 and 210 pounds by UT, so it's surely not pure strength helping him hold off tacklers.

Even teammates and coaches who have seen him operate up close and personal struggle to come up with a concrete reason he's able to stay on his feet so well, though they're not really hung up on specifics.

"What you saw was his instincts," UT coach Derek Dooley said. "It's hard to put a better word on it. Pocket awareness -when things are moving he naturally moves away from it. He naturally steps up and you wonder how he sees that. Some quarterbacks just have that and you've got to have some of that to survive back there or you're going to take some shots.

"I think he's got more elusiveness in the pocket than you would think, being a tall, lanky-looking guy. That just comes from instinctively feeling where guys are and knowing them. Some quarterbacks can maneuver through the pocket, elude arms and some struggle to do it. He has shown the ability to do that."

Bray did take three sacks during his coming-out party two weeks ago against South Carolina. But that game also provided a glimpse of his potential elusiveness with his first completion coming off a scramble to his right that produced a first-down throw to Gerald Jones. And though Memphis didn't sack him at all last week, Bray was still under fire as an inexperienced line broke in a new center and dealt with another injury to a starter.

"It blows my mind, too, man," Jones said. "I mean, the guy's poise in the pocket is crazy, and even when he gets out of the pocket he makes something happen. He's got an incredible arm, his arm is what gets him out of trouble.

"(And it's) because he's 6-6 and he's skinny and a big target - a tall target, but it's not a wide target. He's just slim, and he's not moving fast but he's just slipping out of it and buying himself an extra two seconds to get the ball out."

Whether that's just instinctual or something else entirely, UT doesn't really care as long as Bray continues to buy himself that precious time.

Brent Brewer

■ Freshman defensive back Brent Brewer started the last five games and was one of seven true freshmen to play in every game for UT. Brewer emerged as a commodity for the UT secondary, ranking fifth among members of UT defensive backs with 27 tackles and leading the Vols with eight in just his third career start vs. Mississippi.

UT safety Brewer shifts to football

By Wes Rucker, Chattanoog Times-Free Press
October 27, 2010

A vast majority of minor league baseball players have "that moment."

University of Tennessee defensive backs coach Terry Joseph, a former farmhand of the Chicago Cubs, knows exactly what "that moment" is. He interrupted the reporter asking the question after Wednesday's practice.

"It's when you realize, 'I'm not going to make it [to the big leagues],'" Joseph said.

That moment is often one of the worst times in a baseball player's life. Most enter the minors with aspirations of playing in the show, and far too many fail to cultivate solid backup careers.

But Joseph and one of his players -- 22-year-old freshman safety Brent Brewer -- were different.

Joseph, a former honor-roll high school student who turned down academic scholarships from Ivy League schools to play baseball at Northwestern State in Louisiana, had a college degree and several options after leaving baseball in 1998. He coached high school baseball and football at his alma mater, New Orleans-area Archbishop Shaw High School, and ultimately latched on as a football graduate assistant under Les Miles at LSU before working under head coach Derek Dooley at Louisiana Tech and then Tennessee.

Brewer, a second-round draft pick of the Milwaukee Brewers in 2006, was also a major college football prospect coming out of Sandy Creek High in Tyrone, Ga. He committed to play football for Florida State before getting drafted so high in baseball -- a no-brainer, financial decision in most cases.

"Our situations were different, yet similar," Joseph said.

Neither man could hit a breaking ball well enough to play baseball at the highest level, so neither advanced past the Class AA level. But baseball wasn't either man's only option in life.

"That was my goal, to make it to the major leagues and be a superstar," Brewer said. "After realizing that wasn't possible, it really was disappointing."

But the backup plan -- playing college football at the highest level while getting a free education -- wasn't all that bad.

"I always knew from high school that if I got drafted, I could come back and play football," Brewer said. "I had a heck of a four years, made it to AA and after that fourth year, I was kind of second guessing. I wasn't having that much fun.

"I just wanted to come back to school, get my education and play football."

Joseph wishes so many of his former minor league teammates had similar options -- or any options, for that matter.

"So many times, a high school guy gets drafted for a little money -- but not a lot of money -- and he's out of school for four or five years, and he has no idea how to make a living," Joseph said. "He's got his high school diploma, his signing bonus and that's it."

But not Brewer. The 6-foot-2, 210-pound athlete chose UT over several other high-profile programs and enrolled in school this summer.

Dooley, Joseph, defensive coordinator Justin Wilcox and graduate assistant Peter Sirmon -- a former NFL linebacker who coaches UT's safeties -- had some concerns about Brewer, but his athleticism and maturity were known commodities.

"After you talk to him for about two days, you realize that you're dealing with a grown man who understands what it takes to succeed," Joseph said. "He's very mature beyond his years, ... and athletically, the sky's the limit for that guy."

Said Wilcox: "You see in his preparation and his practice and how he handles his business off the field, that he's very mature. He's been a professional. That's been good for our team and for that defensive back room."

Added Sirmon: "He has a level of maturity that you'd love to see every freshman coming in would possess. He's a professional athlete, and he shows up every day to work hard, and he's accountable for himself."

The worries were whether Brewer could handle the academic workload after four years away from school, and how quickly he could bounce back into football shape and understand the scheme.

Academic reports have been unanimously positive.

"Nothing but glowing remarks from every professor, every academic support person we have," Joseph said.

Football shape? That was a problem late in preseason camp, when Brewer and his coaches admitted he "hit the wall," mentally and physically.

"You don't do as much running, and also the pounding on the body is less (in baseball)," he said. "You really don't lift weights in baseball, things like that. I'm just getting back into the groove."

Coaches credited Brewer's past with helping him overcome those hurdles. Perhaps only basketball compares to professional baseball's daily grind, and a level head is needed to manage the schedule.

"That's the battle," Sirmon said. "If you can't get up for Saturdays, you're in the wrong sport. But it's the other days that are the difference, and he's done a nice job of staying consistent, and I think that's why we've seen him progress as fast as he has.

"It takes some time, but he's basically on schedule right where we thought he'd be. Around week 6 or 7, we hoped to start getting some production out of him, and he's been very consistent and very thorough and preparation."

Brewer made his biggest contribution in last Saturday's loss to Alabama. He didn't collect a tackle in special teams work the first six games, but he entered the Bama game early and often on defense, finishing with six stops and a quarterback hurry.

Coaches already consider Brewer a plus player against the run -- the player admits he's "a lot stronger than some of the kids" in the college game -- but he was out of position a few times in pass coverage against Alabama, and that'll certainly be something to keep an eye on.

"He's made some mistakes like any freshman would," Dooley said. "But he's a talented, mature guy, and I'm glad we have him. He was a good pickup, and he's going to be a good player."

Justin Hunter

■ Freshman wide receiver Justin Hunter (right) provided UT fans with a glimpse of the future while giving them something to cheer about in the present. Hunter ranked second on the Vols in receiving touchdown catches and broke the UT freshman record with six, four of which were longer than 30 yards. The freshman standout led the team with 27.1 yards per catch and finished the regular season second on the Vols with 407 receiving yards.

No bones about Hunter's skill

By Brent Hubbs, VolQuest.com
October 6, 2010

At 6 feet, 4 inches and 186 pounds, freshman wide receiver Justin Hunter has heard them all. Slim, gumby, you name it, the skinny track/football standout has heard virtually any applicable nickname in regards to his stature. So when senior wide receiver Gerald Jones dubbed the Virginia native "Bones" when he arrived on campus this summer, Hunter gladly accepted it and admits he likes it.

However, he doesn't plan on keeping it.

"They are going to have to call me muscles after a while," said Hunter, decked out in his USA Junior Track warm-up. "I have been gaining weight good right now. I have gained like eight pounds since I have been here. I am looking forward to being 200 pounds. I am trying to be 200 pounds by next season. Right now, I am 186."

Regardless of Hunter's weight, the freakish athlete has been making jaw-dropping plays on the practice field since he arrived in Knoxville, outside of a 10-day sitout due to the NCAA's Clearinghouse.

"I think I have come in and stepped up as a freshman and played a pretty big role on third and fourth down," Hunter said. "I am pretty excited with the way I have played so far."

Hunter has 6 catches for 126 and a touchdown on the season. Three of those catches have been for 31 yards or more. For Hunter deep balls/jump balls have been the focus or his role, a job he's very comfortable with.

"It's mine. It's no one else's but mine," Hunter said of his mentality on a jump ball. "I have to go get it. That's my job.

"In high school, when it came down to the time that we needed to make a play, coach called on me to make a play. To go up and get the ball. Hopefully the quarterback sees one on one with a short corner on me. If he sees me, he knows I will come down with it."

Quarterback Matt Simms believes Hunter will come down with it wherever he throws it.

"His pure athleticism and his ability to adjust to the ball no matter where it's thrown," Simms said when asked what stands out about the freshman. "The throwing chart changes when you throw it to him. You don't exactly have to be accurate when you throw him the ball."

Wide receivers coach Charlie Baggett notes that Hunter's body control has nothing to do with coaching and everything to do with natural ability.

"You can't coach that. That's just natural for him. He's developed that over time. He's kind of a loose body-type kid. He can contort his body in different ways, and not a lot of people have that," said Baggett. "Justin just has that special ability and he uses it to his advantage. I think the more that he learns about the nuances of college football and receiving, I think he's going to be even a little bit better which is kind of scary. I really am excited about what he can be and where he can go."

With three deep balls on his resume and really that being his signature route, Hunter said he expects defenses will start playing him differently.

"I think they will start playing off of me more expecting the deep ball everytime, but that's when we are going to change things up.

"They think that all tall receivers are slow. But I'm skinny and tall, but can run. I think they have probably underestimated me."

Indeed, Baggett likened Hunter's long strides to those of NFL standout Randy Moss, whom Baggett coached in Minnesota with the Vikings.

"He has a knack for doing things on the football field that a normal receiver, a normal athlete struggles to do. It comes so natural for him," Baggett explained. "He's such a great athlete, he can leap. His running ability is exceptional because he's deceptive. He's a lot like Randy Moss in that respect in that you think he's not running fast because of his long strides and then all of a sudden, he's by you. So that's one of the things he has going for him. He just has so many positives. When it comes he can adjust on the ball and jump up over smaller DBs. He's got big hands. He catches the ball well at all parts of his body. He has very good running skills after he catches the ball. The sky is the limit for this kid but I don't want to get too high on him because he's young and he's got a lot to learn. And he's still learning, but he's so willing and he has the right attitude about everything. He's just a joy to coach."

Being underestimated as a football player is nothing new to Hunter, who admits he's heard more than once that he's a track guy playing football. A notion he obviously disagrees with. But track has certainly been a big influence on his game and not just in his ability to leap for a ball. Hunter has garnered praise since he arrived on campus for his work ethic and his focus everyday on the practice field. It's something Hunter said he learned from competiting on the track.

"With my past experiences I have to be focused on myself and not listening to everyone else. I have to be focused more. In track competitions you can't roam around and talk to other people. You have to stay focused on what you got to do," Hunter said.

Track guy showing out on gridiron

By Dave Hooker, InsideTennessee.com
Oct 7, 2010

He's supposed to just be a "track guy".

Surely, he's not big enough to take a hit. Surely, the receiver nicknamed "Bones" will need time to develop physically before he has a real impact at Tennessee.

Nonsense.

Justin Hunter isn't waiting until his frame fills out to fill out UT's passing attack. Hunter has already shown he can regularly pull in deep passes with his exceptional athleticism. The 6-foot-4 (if not taller) receiver has caught six passes for 126 yards to post a team-leading 21 yards per reception this season.

Hunter considered just running track and not playing football, even after he signed with UT out of Ocean Lakes High School in Virginia Beach, Va. Instead, he'll do both. He plans to join UT's track team as soon as the football season is complete.

Hunter hopes to compete in the long jump, the triple jump and the high jump during his freshman season. However, one of those events could fall by the wayside if Hunter reaches his goal weight of 200 pounds. Hunter, who has gained eight pounds during the off-season to get up to 186, said extra weight would likely hurt his high jump but shouldn't affect his other events.

On being perceived as just a track guy:

"I've heard that a lot, but people are changing their minds now that they've seen I can take a hit and I'm not just a track guy. I'm a football player too."

On picking football over track:

"It's kind of easy because I can see a defensive player coming right at me instead of just track, where I just run."

On defenders being surprised by his speed this season:

"Yeah, I think so. They figure all tall receivers are slow. But I'm skinny and tall so I think they underestimated me the whole time."

On defensive backs adjusting their approach to defending him in upcoming games:

"Yeah, I think they'll probably shade off of me a lot more expecting the deep ball a lot more. That's when we'll come up with a scheme to change things up."

Janzen Jackson

■ Sophomore defensive back Janzen Jackson started all 12 games and ranked second on the team and fifth in the SEC with four interceptions. Jackson led the team in INT return yards with 114 and among the Vols, led the secondary and ranked third on the team with 65 tackles.

Who does Jackson remind you of most?

By Dave Hooker, InsideTennessee.com
Posted Aug 24, 2010

James Banks or Eric Berry?

Athletically, Janzen Jackson is largely unmatched among his fellow Vols. Like Banks before him, Jackson has the universal respect of his teammates on the field. Away from football, however, Jackson still must earn admiration. At times, Jackson has been way too Banks-like off the football field as well.

The charges have been dropped from the attempted robbery incident last December. And the persistent chatter of a player who wasn't too fond of team rules has died down. But reputations don't fade as quickly.

Jackson knows as much. Sure, he'd like to be known as an All-American one day, but he'd also like to be known as a team leader.

"That would mean a lot to me," the sophomore free safety said. "Just the progression with all the stuff that went down, just growing up and maturing. People recognizing me as a leader, that would be awesome."

According to Derek Dooley, that seems more likely with every passing day.

"He went through some tough stuff personally," Tennessee's head coach said. "I've been real impressed with how he's evaluated where he is as a man and where he wants to be as a man. He's taken a lot of steps to be better as a man.

"I think Janzen has a tremendous future. He's got a great soul. (He) came from a tough area growing up - a real tough area - and didn't have some of the advantages that many of us had. I believe in Janzen and I've been real impressed with what he's done with himself over the last few months."

That's strong praise from a coach who doesn't pull punches with the media concerning his players. Berry wasn't afraid to heap on the praise last year as well. He said Jackson was a better talent that he was, months before Berry was selected as the overall No. 5 pick in the NFL Draft.

Jackson said Berry is still a more complete player, but smiles when he reluctantly admits he may be a bit faster than the Kansas City Chiefs rookie.

Berry's praise of Jackson is reminiscent of what Banks' teammates said about him until one dumb mistake after another undermined an incredibly promising career.

Berry is still in contact with Jackson as he and other former UT players try to show the sophomore the way. Former Vol standout cornerback Terry Fair was encouraged by Jackson after a recent meeting.

"I really sense that he's maturing and just taking steps to get better everyday on and off the field," Fair said.

A sore hamstring has limited Jackson's production during preseason camp. Subsequently, he struggled in last Saturday's scrimmage, his first of fall camp. But given his talent, those struggles won't likely last long.

"We tend to forget he's only a sophomore," Fair said. "He has a lot of growing and maturing to do as well. But I think when it's all said and done and he leaves UT, he'll rank among some of the best that's played here."

Jackson is determined not to follow the path that Banks and so many of Jackson's 2009 classmates took. Highly touted prospects like Nu'Keese Richardson, Mike Edwards and Bryce Brown are gone for a myriad of reasons. Jackson is determined to salvage the once star-studded class.

"We lost a lot of key players from the 2009 class," Jackson said. "Me and (defensive back Marsalis) Teague were talking about that the other day. We've got to hang in there for each other. When something goes down, something's about to happen (bad) or somebody is slipping in their grades, we've got to help each other.

"It's a family with the team, but you're a close knit group of brothers with your class."

Family. Brothers. Sounds a lot like Berry. That should give UT fans hope.

Malik Jackson

■ Junior Malik Jackson transferred from USC and emerged as one of UT's top defensive players after switching to defensive tackle at Georgia. Since that time, Jackson has compiled 34 tackles, 10 tackles for loss, five sacks, three quarterback hurries, three passes defended and an interception. Jackson wreaked havoc in opponents' backfields, leading the team with five sacks and 11 tackles for loss.

Jackson enjoying switch to 'phone booth'

By Austin Ward, Knoxville News Sentinel
October 26, 2010

First it was a change of school, then it was a new position.

Now Malik Jackson might truly be settling in at both.

The former Southern California end turned Tennessee edge rusher turned defensive tackle hasn't had his career pan out exactly how he might have envisioned so far, but just a couple weeks into his latest move, the junior has looked quite comfortable in his new digs.

"It's going pretty good," Jackson said. "I never thought I'd like three-technique as much as I do. It's a fun position. It's pretty hard and gritty, especially with the double-teams, but other than that it's a good position.

"I feel like (defensive line) Coach Chuck (Smith) has all four of his best defensive linemen on the field at one time, so it's pretty good. It is harder though - inside it's like working in a phone booth."

Jackson hasn't exactly left the booth as Superman, but he has become perhaps the steadiest contributor up front for UT and certainly made a significant impact against Alabama last weekend.

He set a career high with six tackles, one of which went for a loss, and Jackson also brought a pair of drives to an end with plays on Crimson Tide quarterback Greg McElroy - first pressuring him into an incompletion and then batting a ball down before halftime to force a field goal.

"He's playing better, he really is," Vols coach Derek Dooley said. "You know, he's a little light for being in there (at tackle). What is he, 265 (pounds)? If he was about 305 he'd really be playing well. But he's helping the team, he's been the most consistent up front the last few weeks.

"It's exactly what I envisioned, that's why we brought him here. We knew we had a lot of concerns up front, and that's why we were searching. He was a good answer for us. Of course, he wasn't the answer for us, but he's a good answer. I'm glad he's here."

Jackson easily could still be with the Trojans instead, though he took advantage of their probation and a rare penalty that allowed players to transfer without sitting out a season to make his first big switch this summer.

Dealing with more double-teams at tackle might make it a bit more difficult for him to finally break through for his first sack with the Vols, a team that desperately needs more pressure from the front four to improve a league-worst sack total of eight.

But even with his hands full in the phone booth, Jackson was still closing to getting one - and collectively UT might not be all that far off when Jackson's keeping a couple blockers busy.

"It's still a work in progress," Jackson said. "That's all we can do is just keep working, man. It's going to go our way. We're still a young team, we're just going to have to keep listening to Chuck and keep working, that's all we can really do.

"Just a few more seconds and we'll get there, but it is what it is. We've got to do better, just like everybody else has to do better on defense. It's just a group effort right now, and we have to work hard."

Gerald Jones

Gerald Jones

■ Senior wide receiver Gerald Jones (above) led the team with 46 receptions despite missing three games with a hand injury. Jones proved to be a consistent third down threat, accounting for 18 of UT's 57 third down conversions (31.6%) in the nine games he played in. He finished the regular season fifth on UT's all-time career receptions list with 133.

Third and Gerald

By Randy Moore, InsideTennessee.com
October 5, 2010

You can justify just about anything with statistics but sometimes crunching the numbers provides real insight: The value of senior receiver Gerald Jones to Tennessee's offense, for instance.

Because of a hand injury, Gerald Jones has played in just two of Tennessee's first five games this fall. He played in Game 1 vs. UT Martin, when the Vols converted on 5 of 15 third-down opportunities. He also played in Game 5 at LSU, when the Vols converted on 7 of 15 third-down opportunities.

So, in the two games featuring Jones, Tennessee converted on 12 of 30 third-down plays. That amounts to a solid 40-percent success rate.

Conversely, the Vols struggled on third down in the three games Jones missed - going 2 of 15 in Game 2 vs. Oregon, 2 of 13 in Game 3 vs. Florida and 2 of 15 in Game 4 vs. UAB. That's a combined 6 of 43, which works out to a 13.9-percent success rate.

Is Gerald Jones that critical to Tennessee's third-down success? Probably. Four of his six Game 1 catches were on third down, with two of them producing first downs.

He was even more of a factor on third down last weekend at LSU. Three of his five receptions came on third down, and each of the three produced a first down. He twice extended the Vols' initial touchdown drive, making an eight-yard reception on a third-and-four and a 25-yard catch/run on a third-and-three at the Tiger 29. With Tennessee up 14-10 and looking to put the game away in the final minutes, Jones caught a clutch seven-yard pass on third-and-five at the Vol 38-yard line.

Bottom line: Of the 12 third-down plays Tennessee converted in Games 1 and 5, Jones single-handedly accounted for five of them.

Here's another number worth considering: Tennessee converted on twice as many third-down plays in the two games Jones played (12) as it did in the three games he didn't play (6). This suggests that, even when he isn't making a third-down catch, he's loosening the defense a bit for others.

Quarterback Matt Simms admitted that he felt more comfortable just having Jones on the field again.

"I really did, actually," Simms said. "I know earlier I said that one guy can't really affect our entire season. But having him at practice all week - his swagger in the huddle - it really kind of ignited a little fire in our offense a little bit, especially for some of the younger receivers. It's kind of tough for them to listen to a quarterback sometimes. It's better to listen to another receiver to kind of get energized.

"Having Gerald back out there was awesome. He made a lot of great plays for us, a lot of crucial third-down catches for us. That's why we need him; he can come up in the clutch for us when we need it."

Simms isn't alone in that assessment. The numbers say it, too.

Herman Lathers

■ Sophomore linebacker Herman Lathers played in 11 games and ranked second among the Vols with 68 tackles, fourth with 2.5 sacks, and sixth with 4.5 tackles for loss. Lathers led the Vols three times in tackles, and had a season-best 10 tackles vs. Vanderbilt and LSU.

It's read, run, hit for Lathers

By Austin Ward, Knoxville News Sentinel
November 2, 2010

Herman Lathers can run, hit and read a running back.

Tennessee can add on to the set of skills later because for now that's all the sophomore linebacker really needs to wreak havoc on an offense.

The simple approach has worked just fine for Lathers during the past couple weeks, as he's taken his cues in man coverage from the tailbacks he's assigned.

"Coming out of high school I was a good blitzer," Lathers said after practice Tuesday. "It's kind of like an automatic thing for me, especially when we're in man-free (coverage). If you have the running back and he blocks, you just add on.

"So coming here out of high school and playing a lot of man coverage, when guys stay in to block that gives me a lot of opportunities to blitz and do what I do best - run through running backs."

Lathers has done plenty of it the past couple weeks on the way to the quarterback, notching sacks in each of the last two games to help the Vols improve a rush that has struggled to get to the passer all season.

Along with credit for half of another takedown at LSU to open the month, Lathers picked up all of his team-high 2.5 sacks in October as UT turned him loose more often with a simple assignment that perfectly suits his raw ability.

"He's got good speed, he's got good twitch, he's got good burst and he's a good explosive hitter," UT coach Derek Dooley said. "He's one of those, I call them Runners and Hitters. When he runs and hits in a straight line, he's effective. So when you pressure and you've got a beeline to the quarterback, he can put a good pop on you, so it's been effective.

"Now, where Runners and Hitters get challenged early in their careers is learning how to change direction, match the patterns and do all that stuff. That's what has been giving him problems."

The other problems have been an ankle injury that kept him out of the UAB game and back spasms that forced him to the sideline late last week against South Carolina, though Lathers downplayed both issues after working out in a red, non-contact jersey for the second time this week.

The Vols still expect him to be available against the Tigers, and given his four-game run with 29 tackles and increasing appearances in the opposing backfield, they're also anticipating Lathers being effective against a team that's allowed 23 sacks this season.

"Herman's an aggressive guy," middle linebacker Nick Reveiz said. "He's really a guy with so much power and so much speed that if he's got a back man-to-man, he's going to trigger on a blitz as soon as he sees it. That's what he did in the Alabama game, we dialed up another blitz for South Carolina where he hugged up and got to the quarterback, and we need Herman back there making plays.

"I think we've seen that with (defensive coordinator Justin) Wilcox dialing up plays where (Lathers) can definitely make some."

Daniel Lincoln

The formula to do it in the backfield isn't all that complicated - read, run and hit. Lately it's been getting the desired results for the Vols.

Daniel Lincoln

■ Senior placekicker Daniel Lincoln battled back from a leg injury to break his own UT record, making nine straight field goals to start a season. Lincoln holds a perfect 5-for-5 clip on field goals ranging from 40-49 yards. He currently ranks second all-time at UT for season field goal percentage (.909) with a minimum of 10 made and eighth on the career field goal percentage chart (.689) with a minimum of 25 put through the uprights.

Lincoln 'felt good to be out there'

By Andrew Gribble, Knoxville News Sentinel
November 13, 2010

Daniel Lincoln carries the reminder with him in his cell phone wherever he goes.

The senior Tennessee kicker, after playing in his first game since September, pulled up a snapshot of his early-October X-ray for anyone that had the stomach to see it Saturday. There weren't many, as the tiny picture clearly displayed how severely Lincoln tore the quadriceps muscle in his kicking leg one month earlier.

"A pull is a minor tear," Lincoln said. "But that's a tear tear."

Lincoln got plenty of action on extra points and one shot from deep in UT's 52-14 romp over Ole Miss at Neyland Stadium on Saturday. He had just enough leg on his 43-yard attempt that capped a 31-point first half, his fifth make of the season from beyond 40 yards.

"It could have been 43 or 3, it didn't matter to me," Lincoln said. "It just felt good to be out there, embracing the moment."

The only prescription to remedy his tear, Lincoln said, was not to be out there. Rest was the only cure, Lincoln said, a process that wasn't made any easier by missing four games in 2009 with a similar injury.

"Initially, it made it more frustrating," Lincoln said. "It's something you're not going to be able to play with."

Lincoln suffered the injury during a Thursday practice before the Oct. 2 game at LSU, when he felt something rip on a 54-yard field-goal attempt. He tried to push himself to play against the Tigers, but it was a lost cause.

The injury only got worse, and he was unable to even run for the next three weeks.

"I look back and I don't know why it is, but I know it's for a reason," Lincoln said. "The biggest thing was to try to stay positive."

A kick start for Lincoln

By Austin Ward, Knoxville News Sentinel
September 15, 2010

The kicks all cleared the line of scrimmage.

They each had more than enough distance to get over the other relevant hurdle at the back of the end zone as well, and all of them were accurate enough to count for three points for Tennessee.

Daniel Lincoln is always looking for something to work on during the week, but heading into a date Saturday (TV: WVLT, 3:30 p.m.) with No. 10 Florida (2-0), one thing the oft-criticized senior hasn't had to worry about is failing to convert his field goals.

"I'm 4-for-4," Lincoln said. "They don't give you style points, and that's what matters now."

The Vols (1-1) certainly can't complain about the results, and Lincoln has mostly appeared to be kicking with the kind of form that helped him earn All-America honors as a freshman.

That doesn't necessarily mean everything has been as flawless as his numbers indicate though, particularly a fluttering attempt in the opener two weeks ago that looked to be anything but struck solidly.

But considering the well-documented struggles last year for Lincoln as he battled injuries and blocks, the fast start is definitely an encouraging sign for a team trying hard to improve its reputation on special teams.

"That's just a lot of hard work paying off," Lincoln said. "As far as validation or confidence and whatnot, those are outside things. The only things that really affect what I have to do are physical things, and I don't let the mental things come into play.

"You manage your emotions and manage your mindset and focus on the process, and last week was last week. Now that's over, I move on to this week. Whatever happened last week, take the good and build on it. Any bad, correct it and move on. That's the mindset - kind of reload."

The signing of talented freshman Michael Palardy presented UT with an option to simply change weapons instead of reloading with Lincoln again, though the veteran responded with a productive camp to win the place-kicking job outright and hasn't looked back.

Palardy is still the future for the Vols and is listed as the backup behind Lincoln as well as punter Chad Cunningham, assuming his injured groin allows him to play against the Gators. But even with all the expectations and hype around Palardy, for now there's been no reason for Vols coach and kicking-game guru Derek Dooley not to use Lincoln.

"He's been doing pretty good (with elevation on his kicks)," Dooley said. "He's not every-time perfect, some kicks he gets great height, some kicks not as much. You know, he's kicked a couple long ones in the game.

"They all have a lot of ownership in what they do. You know, what's important to me is that they have a tremendous knowledge of their trade. They're like golfers, and as a swing coach, I'm not there to sit there and try to change their swing. All I do is just make sure they have a good feel for what's going on -- let's talk about it, here's what I see, your operation is a little slow. I'm just kind of double-checking everything with them."

So far, Lincoln doesn't appear to have left much for Dooley to check out with his technique.

Even if it hasn't been completely flawless, the outcomes have been.

"There's always something to work on, you never stay the same," Lincoln said. "You get better or stay worse, and that's a constant battle, especially in a long season. It's a marathon, not a sprint.

"You come in every Tuesday and Thursday, for me those are heavy workdays, so those days I find something that I'm going to work at and be perfect at, and that's what I do that day. Everything else will just fall in place in preparation for the game."

Denarius Moore

■ Senior wide receiver Denarius Moore had one of the most prolific seasons by a wideout in UT history, his 912 yards ranking 10th all-time in a single season. Moore racked up the second-most receiving yards by a UT receiver in a single game with 228 at South Carolina, the ninth-most in the SEC all-time. He became the first Vol receiver to have two 200-yard receiving games in a season or career with 205 yards vs. Kentucky.

Moore's crazy play sets benchmark

By Paul Fortenberry, VolQuest.com
November 27, 2010

Tennessee wide receiver Denarius Moore had already set a record this season for most receiving yards in a game. He added a new one Saturday as the Vols beat Kentucky on senior day 24-14.

Moore caught seven passes for 205 yards to become the first receiver in Tennessee history to have two 200-yard receiving games in a career. For Moore, both came this season as he had six catches for 228 yards and a touchdown when the Vols lost to South Carolina 38-24 earlier in the season.

The monster game for Moore capped a five-game streak where he compiled 25 catches for 655 yards and five touchdowns.

"Unbelievable. The guy was going loco on everybody," head coach Derek Dooley said, referring to Moore's swirling hand-gesture when he makes big plays. "I told him to get some oxygen because we were going to keep throwing it to him because he was great."

Moore did all of his work in the middle two quarters and exploited a Kentucky defense that was susceptible to giving up the big play. Three of his catches went for 40-or-more yards and the big plays were a big part of the game plan according to Dooley.

"We had a lot of chunk plays in this game. We knew if we executed some of these throws we could have some big gains on the perimeter. That was our gameplan," Dooley said.

While Dooley said it was the plan, Moore said it was an honor for the offense to evolve around him at multiple times in the Vols' four-game winning streak.

"It's an honor, again, just being one of the top wide receivers on the team that they want to get the ball to me and trust me to get the ball in my hands," Moore said.

The most impressive play for Moore on the day arguably was his first catch on the Vols' first drive of the second quarter. Trailing 7-0, quarterback Tyler Bray threw to a streaking Moore down the right side of the field in-between two Kentucky players.

"That one, I really didn't see the backside safety. I thought the play-side was down and I it was just him and I threw it up and realized there were two safeties and I said, 'Please, just go up and get it,'" Bray said.

That's exactly what Moore did, although he had to wrestle it from a Kentucky safety to maintain possession.

"When it first touched my hands, I had it at first but at the end he tried to take it from me and that's when I had to get in there and take it away from him, and that's when I came up with the ball," Moore said.

The play set up the Vols' first touchdown of the day, an 11-yard pass from Bray to fellow senior wideout Gerald Jones.

Moore would score his touchdown on the next drive. The 12-yard touchdown catch came one play after he set himself up with a 49-yard catch. The deep-ball plays seemed routine for him on the day, much like they did all season.

"We came out, we knew they were going to bite on the play-fake and gave a lot of play-action looks and knew he was going to be running deep," Bray said of his top wide receiver. "He was fast enough to get behind him and that was what he did."

Tauren Poole

■ Junior tailback Tauren Poole proved he belonged in the SEC in his first full season as a starter. Poole tied for the SEC regular season lead with six 100-yard rushing games, including a career-high 162 vs. Oregon in which he compiled 140 in the first half alone, the seventh most in an opening half by a UT rusher. He leads the team with 12 total touchdowns and is just six yards shy of the 16th 1,000-yard rushing season in UT history.

Vols knew it: Tauren Poole is proof

By Wes Rucker, Chattanooga Times Free Press
November 16, 2010

With about three minutes left on the clock in last season's rout of Memphis, then-Tennessee running backs coach Eddie Gran approached then-sophomore Tauren Poole and told him he was about to enter the game.

Poole had other plans.

"I was like, 'Naw,'" Poole said. "I was really respectful, but I said, 'No, sir, I don't want to go in.'"

Gran walked back toward the other coaches and relayed the information to then-head coach Lane Kiffin, who then approached Poole for confirmation.

"Coach Kiffin was like, 'You don't want to go in?'" Poole said. "I was like, 'No. I should have been playing all year. I don't want to go in there with three minutes left in the Memphis game.'"

Kiffin blew up and sent Poole to the showers before time expired.

Poole calmly walked through the north end-zone tunnel, into the palatial Peyton Manning Locker Room Complex, changed clothes and left Neyland Stadium, in his mind, for the last time.

"I felt like I was done at Tennessee," he said.

Gran called Poole that night and convinced the fourth-team tailback to come back to practice and "stay the course," because the "situation was what it was, but everything can change in a hurry."

"I came back, but nothing changed," Poole said. "They kept feeding me a bunch of bull."

Stories that start like that are fairly common. But they don't usually end like Poole's.

First off, his teammates didn't protest Poole's actions. Most of them said they weren't upset, many of them said they understood and some even said they'd have done the same thing.

"Tauren deserved a shot last year," sophomore cornerback Prentiss Waggner said. "That's why we stood behind him."

Senior wide receiver Gerald Jones, as he's prone to do, went even further.

"I think anybody would have got up and left," Jones said. "Tauren took as much as he could take."

Senior kicker Daniel Lincoln said "everybody was in Tauren's court."

"I was, 100 percent, and so was just about everybody else," Lincoln continued. "People on the sideline literally yelled at coaches, 'Yo, put him in,' during games last year. And it still didn't happen. Players ... you can't fool the players. It doesn't matter what coaches say in the media, you cannot fool the players. The players know what's going on. They know who's good and they know who's not good, and they know who's paid the price and who hasn't.

"We've been supporting Tauren the whole time. We've known how good he is since day one. What you're seeing now is what we've seen the whole time."

After getting just 10 carries last season — behind Montario Hardesty's 282, Bryce Brown's 101 and David Oku's 23 — Poole is on track to rush for 1,000 yards this season. His six 100-yard games this season have been matched in the Southeastern Conference only by Auburn quarterback Cam Newton, the presumed Heisman Trophy favorite. No tailback has matched it.

Poole is just seventh in the league in rushing, but his 5.5 yards per carry are better than second-place Marcus Lattimore and third-place Stevan Ridley and barely behind 2009 Heisman Trophy winner Mark Ingram. And Poole has done that behind the league's youngest offensive line, which entered the season with three combined career starts and sometimes plays four freshmen at the same time.

"He's quietly gained a lot of yards," said Kiffin's replacement as head coach, Derek Dooley. "I don't know how best to say it. I was thinking about that because I think the consistency of our run game has not been what we want it to be. And that's not all on Tauren. But then you look at his numbers, and they're pretty good. They're solid. They're not phenomenal but they're good.

"He's done what we've asked him to do."

That seems to be Poole's philosophy: Respect me, and I'll respect you. After an official told Poole he celebrated too much after scoring the final touchdown in UT's 52-14 win over Ole Miss on Saturday, he started his postgame interview by apologizing to the Rebels and their fans.

Janzen Jackson (15) & Tauren Poole (28)

"He's a great young man. He really is," Dooley said. "He's got tremendous character. His work ethic is as good as anybody on the team. And I think all the players respect the investment that he's put into the team. Generally that's how you earn respect — by your investment, your personal investment to the program.

"There's not many guys that's put more in it than him."

Poole was surprised that so many teammates openly stood behind him last season, which could have jeopardized their own standing with the coaches. But he wasn't surprised that they agreed with him.

"My teammates knew where I was coming from," he said. "They told me all year, basically every day, that I should be playing more. So many guys told me they understood why I was mad. They kind of respected me for doing what I did, even if it wasn't the best decision to make.

"They said they respected that I wouldn't stand for them doing me wrong any more."

Poole hasn't proven his teammates wrong this season.

Oku, who played much more than Poole last season, is now third on the depth chart behind Poole and true freshman Rajion Neal. Brown transferred to Kansas State after averaging 4.6 yards per carry last season behind an offensive line with four seniors — two that were drafted — and a freshman All-American who since has left the program.

"We work out together. We run against each other. We compete every day," Jones said. "You can't fool us. We're out here every day, and we see it. We see who can play the best.

"If I was a coach, I would have had [Poole] out there last year. But that's not my decision, so I stayed out of it."

Poole doesn't enjoy discussing last season, and he only discusses if after a gentle prodding and a reminder that things have improved quite considerably.

But, to be sure, he doesn't regret any of it.

"That [Memphis game] was kind of the climax of how I was feeling, that I should have been playing all season," he said. "That was kind of the turning point. I was fed up about not playing, because I knew what type of player I was, ... and I still do.

"I still know what type of player I am. I'm just thankful I've finally been blessed with the opportunity to show it."

Poole playing with 'chip on my shoulder'

By Austin Ward, Knoxville News Sentinel
September 13, 2010

The chip on his shoulder was acknowledged.

Tauren Poole also admitted playing with something to prove now that he's been given the opportunity to actually play.

But given the chance to deliver the message verbally that he's made crystal clear while leading the SEC in rushing through two early games, the Tennessee running back showed some restraint on Monday afternoon. Poole is mostly content to let the numbers do his talking.

"I'm really just focused on being productive for this offense, for this team and just getting better," Poole said. "That's the biggest thing. It'd easy for me to say, 'I told you so.' But that's not what I'm trying to prove. I'm just trying to win football games.

"I've had the ability and just haven't had the chance to show it. I always knew that when I got my opportunity I was going to try my best to make the most of it, and I'm doing it. But I've got a long ways to go. I'm definitely not where I want to be."

Poole might still be looking for more, but after his first two games as the starter for the Vols (1-1) he couldn't be in a better spot on the SEC rushing leader board.

After opening the season with a relatively easy 110 yards against UT Martin, Poole really opened eyes with a breakout, 162-yard effort last week against No. 5 Oregon - including 111 yards in the first quarter. Thanks in part to his limited playing experience after getting buried on the depth chart last year behind Montario Hardesty, Bryce Brown and David Oku, that huge 15 minutes qualified as a career high by itself.

Hardesty was obviously established as the workhorse a season ago, and Poole wasn't realistically going to steal many carries from him. But the junior has surely strengthened a case early this year that the Vols could have benefited if he had gotten more work in the past.

"It's hard for me to say that, because Hardesty, the guy went in the second round (of the NFL draft), and I've never seen Bryce," UT coach Derek Dooley said of the two running backs no longer with the Vols. "So, it's hard for me to say if it was deserving or not. What I will say is, he's taken advantage of his opportunity as well as anybody has.

"If everybody on our team had the competitive character and the personal character that Tauren Poole has, we'd have a heck of a little squad. He's a special guy. I don't know how he's going to perform, and when I say special, I don't mean God just blessed him with all this ability. But to me, he's exactly what every competitor should strive for - and that's to play to your capacity as a player. Tauren is playing to his capacity."

Poole might disagree with that assessment, though he didn't reveal exactly how much more he expected of himself. Clearly the standards are high since Poole isn't satisfied even at the top of the rushing charts.

"If leading the SEC is going to make us win games, then fine," Poole said. "If it doesn't, that's fine also. I don't have to lead the SEC for us to win games, but if I have to, I will and we'll continue to work together with those guys in front of me.

"It's just my drive. My whole life, people have always told me what I can and can't do, and then that's just kind of my mentality. I always run with a chip on my shoulder, and I always play with a chip on my shoulder. I always approach each game like I've got something to prove."

Nick Reveiz

■ Senior linebacker Nick Reveiz (above) exemplified the heart and soul of the Vols, returning from a season-ending injury in 2009 to lead the Vols in tackles with 94. Reveiz led in tackles five games, including two performances vs. Florida and UAB in which he notched a career-high 14 stops. He also tied for second on the squad with four takeaways.

Appreciating Mr. Nick

By Brent Hubbs, VolQuest.com
November 25, 2010

Imagine a player upset to the point of tears, sitting fully dressed in his football uniform in the locker-room bathroom. He's not upset over a loss, but he's upset over the fact that he was told to tone it down on the practice field.

Imagine that same player fearful of ever getting to play significant snaps after a coaching change.

If it sounds like a couple of scenes from the movie "Rudy," you would be making a good guess, but the above described scenes are not from the inspirational story of Daniel "Rudy" Ruettiger. They are instead from the insprirational story of the Vols leading tackler, Nick Reveiz.

"For me the lowest point in my career here, I remember it was my freshman year here, and we were preparing for South Carolina. I remember wearing the number 52 for the scout team. I was being Jasper Brinkley and we were doing scout team 9 on 7 versus the offensive line. I remember hitting David Ligon with a pad as hard as I could and coach (Phillip) Fulmer got really mad at me because I was going really hard," Reveiz recalled. "He didn't want guys to get hurt and I just remembered thinking, 'What could I do?'. I don't know what to do but to go as hard as I can. I remember going into the bathroom stalls after practice and sitting on a toliet in full pads crying. How was I ever going to make a difference? How was I going to show them that I could play? I remember just sitting there crying. It was hard to show my face because I was so upset. Seeing where I am from that point till now is just incredible."

Incredible, rewarding, surprising and definitely challenging would be the way to describe the journey of a linebacker labeled too short, too small and too slow to play big-time football.

It's a journey Reveiz has seldom questioned, but one that has had plenty of heartache and disappointment at times. Obviously losing last year to a knee injury is at the tops of the list. But there were others. Like seeing Phillip Fulmer, who had promised Reveiz a legitimate shot to play, get fired, leaving the Farragut native wondering if he would ever see the field.

"I went into spring practice in 2009 thinking that I was probably going to be 2nd or 3rd string guy because the new staff didn't know anything about me. I knew that they had seen some cut-ups on tape, but they didn't know anything about me," he said. "Fortunately, I was blessed to be able to go in as the first team guy. I will never forget it was our first scrimmage in the second week of spring practice right after spring break and they had decided to put Herman (Lathers) in front of me. They said it was just a rotation and that the depth chart didn't matter, but it was big to me. I remember that it affected the way I was playing. I was like, 'I'm never going to play.' We had the scrimmage and I didn't play well and I remember on a knee looking up at the sky and thinking my dream was over. I was never going to start here. I wanted to play every down. I wanted to play in Neyland Stadium and make a difference and it's never going to happen."

Obviously it did happen and along the way, Reveiz

went from a simple feel good story that anyone who has ever had dreams of playing big-time sports appreciates and respects to a story about the heart and soul of the Vols. The face of a program that became faceless at the top twice in 14 months.

"Life is one of things that you are never going to understand situations till you go through them," Reveiz said. "I know people have been through one coaching change but to go through two has been incredible. You can't even explain just how many instances of doubt. Is this the right person? Are we going to get to where we want to people? Is this guy doing it the right way because you have been through so many different philosophies. It's been tough. But something I cling to is that everything happens for a reason."

That notion helped Reveiz get through the most difficult moment. A moment that changed the gung-ho linebacker with a single-minded dream. A dream of playing pro football.

"I'll never forget Sept. 26, 2009, when I tore up my knee. That was just kind of a turning point for me and really changed my life personally," Reveiz offered. "I think there's a good saying about a lot of times you remember your failures and your adverse times more than you do your success and victories. Just as much as I enjoyed those sweet moments, I grew a lot from those bitter and hard moments."

Through sweet moments and bitter times, Reveiz has never been shy about sharing his faith or emotions and has never been shy about illuminating his story. In fact, during the open date week, Reveiz spoke to either a school, church youth group, or made a hospital visit every day of his "vacation" week. It's what makes Reviez more than just a feel good football story.

"Oh, man. Where do you want to begin? Tremendous leadership. Tremendous leadership by example. Does it right on and off the field," head coach Derek Dooley said. "He's our most productive player on defense. He gives back to the community as well as anybody. Very strong in his faith. He's what I think everybody when they raise their boys, they want them to be like Nick Reveiz. That's a testament to his parents and his family, but it's even a bigger testament to him because he's the one that's done it. He's just a great example for everything."

For parents, Reveiz is a role model, an example. Three weeks ago as practice started, Reveiz trotted over to the sideline to say hello and shake hands with a 5-year-old little boy. That 5-year-old, who owns a 56 jersey, now calls Nick his friend.

That 5-year-old is my son. Who's yet to stop talking about Mr. Nick.

It was one of those 'Man, I'm old moments' as I thought back to when I was nine years old and Nick's dad, Fuad, called me while I was in the hospital to wish me well. He later sent me a card that I still have today.

Saturday night, Nick Reveiz will run through the 'T' for the final time. He will do it in front of roughly 100,000 adoring fans. Fans young and old will cheer in appreciation of a native son's desire, effort and willingness to believe in himself when others didn't. An appreciation for his play. An appreciation of how he has represented their school.

And for this dad, an appreciation for simply being Mr. Nick.

Reveiz has repaired knee, same old desire

By Ron Higgins, Memphis Commercial Appeal
August 15, 2010

Tennessee linebacker Nick Reveiz, groggy from anesthesia, looked at his surgically repaired right knee last October and did what anyone would do in that situation.

He felt sorry for himself.

"I wondered if I'd ever walk again," Reveiz said.

But if you know Reveiz, son of former Vols and NFL kicking great Fuad Reveiz, then you understand his pity party didn't last very long.

"My philosophy is everything that happens, whether it's good or bad, God uses that for your development, for your perseverance," Reveiz said, "He puts things in your path to see where you're at, and it's up to you to react positively."

No one is doubting Reveiz, a fifth-year senior, will bounce back from his injury. All questions about his grit were answered long ago when he joined the Vols in 2006 as a walk-on, and worked his way into the starting lineup last year as an undersized linebacker (5-10, 224) in a league of giants.

He had 27 tackles before he tore his lateral meniscus and anterior cruciate ligament in the fourth game against Ohio. No one touched him -- "I was just running and it popped," Reveiz said.

And though he did allow himself that moment of self-doubt after surgery, Reveiz realized that it was just a blip compared to some of the things his family had been through the last couple of years.

In January 2008, Nick's younger brother Shane, now a Vols' junior linebacker who also plays on special teams, underwent open heart surgery to remove a non-cancerous tumor.

Three months later, sister Bryanna was on her way to school at Farragut High when she ran off the road trying to adjust her car radio. She was taken to the hospital in critical condition, but today after 12 surgeries, she's a student at Tennessee.

Finally, Fuad, who played 11 years in the NFL, then became a successful home builder in Knoxville as well as hosting shows on the DYI Network, fell victim to a wheezing economy. Reveiz and Company, Reveiz Homes LLC and Hardin Valley Development filed for Chapter 7 bankruptcy protection in January 2009.

Fuad, now in the insurance business, said maybe he and his family developed their resiliency and toughness from Fuad's parents, who migrated from Colombia to Miami.

"My mom and dad came to this country with $400 in their pocket, three kids and four suitcases," Fuad said. "I never heard my parents complain and whine about what anybody owes them. My parents pointed out what we had instead of what we didn't have, that we are blessed for what we have."

Fuad still holds eight Tennessee records he set from 1981-84, including most field goals made in career (71), consecutive field goals made (18) and a 60-yard field goal vs. Georgia Tech that remains tied for the longest in SEC history. But a little-known fact is he was also a fiery linebacker and fullback at Miami's Sunset High.

And when Fuad was in the NFL, especially with Minnesota, he made it a point of not just living the one-dimensional life of a placekicker.

"I've always been a big fan of guys like Tony Dungy and Jack del Rio, so I'd always hang around the defensive team meetings (with the Vikings when Dungy was defensive coordinator and del Rio was a starting linebacker)," Fuad said. "I was able to pick up a lot of little neat things that Tony and Jack would do, and I just tried to pass some of those on to my sons."

This all ties into Nick, because in the eighth grade he decided he wanted to play football. But he wanted to be a linebacker and not a placekicker like his dad or his uncle Carlos, who followed his father at UT.

"I tried placekicking once," Nick said. "I took three steps back, two steps to the left ... and then shanked it. When I told my dad I wanted to play linebacker, he coached me up."

But Fuad did more than that. He instilled an insatiable work ethic.

"Preparation is more important than just about anything," Fuad said. "If you want to be good, do just what the coaches tell you. But if you want to be exceptional, get there before practice and stay after practice. You have to watch more film than anybody else. You do all the extras so that when you get to the game, you are so well prepared that you just have fun and fly to the ball."

That's why Nick, though he never got major scholarship offers despite being Class 5A All-State and a Mr. Football finalist at Farragut in 2005, didn't blink about walking on and succeeding at Tennessee.

He felt outworking everybody would get him noticed. It did, and he was on his way to a great season a year ago when he got hurt.

"I knew it would be a long road back, and I could not focus on the end result," Nick said of his rehab that he started one week after surgery. "Every single day, I had to think about something that I needed to improve. Four months ago I wasn't feeling that great, but it's interesting to see how fast you heal when you keep working hard."

As happy as Reveiz is to be back on the field -- he's the first former walk-on to be named a team captain since J.J. McCleskey in 1992 -- his teammates are ecstatic to see him running from sideline to sideline.

"We had some awesome guys replace Nick last year, but nothing can replace Nick's energy, his heart and his passion for the game," Vols' defensive end Chris Walker of Christian Brothers said.

Jarrod Shaw

■ Senior offensive guard Jarrod Shaw did anything that was asked of him, bouncing around the left and right guard positions all season, as one of three offensive linemen to start every game for UT. Shaw helped Tauren Poole rush for six 100-yard games, which is tied for the SEC lead, and was part of an offensive line that allowed just six sacks in November.

Hold the line: Shaw shows versatility

By Andrew Gribble, Knoxville News Sentinel
November 18, 2010

It's not exactly clear when Tennessee coach Derek Dooley came up with the nickname "ShawDog" for the only upperclassman on his offensive line, but there's no mistaking what Jarrod Shaw thinks about it.

"I don't like that, man," Shaw said with a smile and an eye-roll earlier this week.

On Wednesday, Dooley had a different title for Shaw, one that likely resonates with the senior just a little bit better than "ShawDog."

MVP.

"He's been phenomenal, his attitude has been great, he's playing to his capacity," Dooley said. "I'm proud of him. I'm proud of what he's done this year."

There are few statistics that one can attach to an offensive lineman, especially a guard like Shaw, but the most important number Shaw can claim for UT as soon as Saturday against Vanderbilt is three. If Zach Fulton returns from an ankle injury, it will mark the third time this season where Shaw starts at a different position than he did one week earlier.

On a line loaded with freshmen and sophomores, that versatility has proved invaluable.

Just recently, freshman James Stone needed a couple weeks away from the field to prepare for his switch from guard to center. Shaw wasn't given that option when he was bumped over to left guard, which gave Stone more time to develop chemistry with the quarterbacks and Fulton, a star in the making on UT's offensive line, an opportunity for significant playing time.

"Boy I tell you, I'm thankful he's here," offensive coordinator Jim Chaney said. "If we even have an MVP - I don't know if we do or if we don't - but he'd certainly have my vote. He's done a wonderful job.

"The more you can do is kind of a pretty good adage to live by. If you're an offensive lineman, if you can play a lot of positions, it benefits you."

Shaw has certainly taken his time developing into an every-game starter.

A three-star defensive tackle out of LaFayette, La., Shaw redshirted in 2006 and didn't see the field in 2007. As a redshirt sophomore in 2008, Shaw played in just two games, picking up a few snaps here and there against Mississippi State and UAB.

"The tempo of practice, you just don't get in high school," Shaw said. "The different periods, the length and just not understanding how to practice. It's the way you're supposed to practice, it's game speed and a lot of guys coming in the program don't understand that."

Though he didn't play much in 2008, Shaw picked up skills that have become paramount to his production today. Then-offensive coordinator Dave Clawson wanted his linemen to be versatile enough so that in case of an emergency, the next-best lineman, not just the next-best player at that particular position, would be ready to play.

"We started flip-flopping sides," said Shaw, who has been groomed as a right guard since his arrival. "I got comfortable at left guard, too. The biggest challenge is just flipping everything around in your head. That kind of messes you up sometimes when you want to fire out and hit somebody."

Shaw, though, started the first three games in 2009 at right tackle before he saw spot action at the two guard spots. With an uncertain future under his third coaching staff in as many years, Shaw didn't know exactly where he'd play, or if he'd play at all, during his senior season.

He approached the offseason with a mindset that gave him a bit of an edge over his younger counterparts.

"When you're young in the program, I'm not going to say you don't like practice, but you just don't understand how to practice with a purpose," Shaw said. "Toward the end of last season when I had not played anymore, I went back to that and was thinking about it for a while, trying to focus myself in practice and dedicating myself to practice more.

"Obviously that's been paying off for me in the past couple weeks."

Against two of the biggest defensive tackles in the SEC - Ole Miss' Jerrell Powe and Ted Laurent - Shaw played one of his best games of the season. Though he's remained modest throughout his five years at UT, Shaw had no problem boasting a bit on his Twitter account about how high he graded out against the Rebels.

Now, he'll likely be asked to do the same against Vanderbilt from the other side of the line.

"Shaw's our swing guy," Dooley said. "Every time a guy has gone down, he's the guy that's been the sacrificial lamb."

Luke Stocker

■ Senior tight end Luke Stocker remained a reliable threat for UT, leading the Vols with an impressive 37 consecutive starts. Stocker is third on the team with a season-high 34 receptions and fourth with 359 receiving yards. He is the only Vol to haul in a reception in every game this season and matched a career high in a game with five vs. Kentucky.

Luke Stocker's stock is on the rise again

By Austin Ward, Knoxville News Sentinel
November 18, 2010

Dropped passes, losing efforts and public criticism weren't what Luke Stocker had in mind when he decided to come back for one more season at Tennessee.

So one by one, the senior tight end has fixed every issue that might have been plaguing him early in the season.

After a disappointing, almost nonexistent game against Oregon, Stocker bounced back with five catches the next week and has kept his hands on most everything thrown his way since then.

He's the only player on the team with a reception in every game to help UT make up for those early losses and claw back in the bowl picture.

And as for those assessments from coach Derek Dooley about him not playing well? Heading into Saturday's game at Vanderbilt, it's safe to assume Stocker is back in the good graces of the coaching staff.

"I think he just committed," Dooley said. "I think Denarius (Moore) was in the same boat early in the year. Probably the new system, couple of early losses, all those emotions, third coach (played a part). And then they just hit a point where they got a good demeanor about them, a good approach, and they're playing great.

"They're playing great and we need them to."

In fact, despite that sluggish start and his one-catch, 2-yard performance against Oregon, Stocker's first reception against the Commodores will tie his career season-high established a year ago and this week he was also named one of eight semifinalists for the Mackey Award for the nation's best tight end.

He only has one touchdown this season, down from five last season, but since UT made the switch to Tyler Bray at quarterback Stocker's average yards per catch have been on the rise and he's again providing a difficult matchup for defenses.

"I guess the first two weeks, I didn't get a lot of production," Stocker said. "In camp I didn't get a lot of production. But Florida, I had five catches. UAB, I had four. So it wasn't that slow, but I definitely wasn't playing as good of a total game as I felt like I should have been. Since then I've definitely elevated my game.

"It's just kind of like our offense is growing as a whole. I think everyone's got a lot more production here lately, and if you look back as the season goes week-to-week, it seems like more guys are getting more involved each week - not just me. I think as an offense as a whole we've grown."

Stocker man of many roles for UT

By Patrick Brown, Knoxville News Sentinel
August 22, 2010

Somehow, Luke Stocker has managed a difficult accomplishment.

Amidst all the attention on a brand new offensive line and quarterback, a trio of talented wide receivers and lack of depth in some areas on defense, Tennessee's 6-foot-5 senior tight end has gone through three weeks of preseason camp relatively unnoticed.

But that doesn't mean Stocker's not filling his role as a go-to-guy on offense and, more importantly, as a leader.

"We need him to be a good player and a good leader," Vols coach Derek Dooley said.

"We've got to find ways to get him the ball, I know that. We probably need to do a little better job as coaches to do that, and when we get him the ball he needs to do something with it."

Stocker and senior receivers Gerald Jones and Denarius Moore are the only proven productive commodities returning among all the Vols' new offensive faces.

As a tight end, Stocker is in the unique position of having a hand in both UT's passing and ground games.

Well aware of the importance of his leadership role, Stocker has focused much of his efforts on the Vols' new offensive line.

"From my standpoint, a lot of it has to do with the offensive line, five new guys up there," he said. "I have an understanding of (the offense), and I have to try to help them get a same understanding of it.

"Once they grasp the concepts of our run schemes, it's going to help them a lot."

Stocker, a preseason All-SEC selection, said he's improved his blocking ability and bulked up to almost 260 pounds. He has already seen the line make large strides in its progress, as well.

"The communication process from the center down to the tackles and getting all those guys on the same page, that's been the biggest improvement," Stocker said. "That's why they're having the success they are."

Stocker's talents in the Vols' aerial attack are a given, based on his performance last season (29 receptions for 389 yards and five touchdowns).

He flirted with declaring for the NFL draft before choosing to return to UT, where he'll likely play an even bigger role than last year in the Vols' offense. UT quarterback Matt Simms appreciates Stocker for more than his abilities.

"Not only is it that he's a great athlete and he's a big target to throw to," Simms said, "but he's also very intelligent and he alerts me of certain things on the field that I don't necessarily see all the time.

"Just having that extra pair of eyes out there to look out for our offense is tremendous."

UT's offense has experienced extremes during fall camp, excelling in the first preseason scrimmage before struggling in a situational scrimmage Saturday.

And while Stocker's confident in what the offense can do, he knows what it takes to reach that level.

"As an offense, every phase there's room for us to improve," he said. "It's a matter of getting that consistency put together to do well all the time."

More Wilcox Praise: Add Simms to the growing list of Vols who are excited about new defensive coordinator Justin Wilcox's blitz schemes.

"Coach Wilcox is a genius," Simms said. "It's tough to sit back there and know what's really going on with their defense because they're moving around a lot, and you're not sure when they're blitzing and when they're not blitzing. That's definitely going to be an advantage for them."

James Stone

■ Freshman offensive lineman James Stone started eight games at multiple positions in the trenches but has found his home at center, notching the start there in the last four games of the season. In the final four weeks, Stone helped the Vols allow just six sacks, including zero at Memphis.

Stone rolling in Vols' offense

By Brent Hubbs and John Brice, VolQuest.com
October 20, 2010

Freshman offensive guard James Stone's first offensive snap cost the Vols five yards as he jumped offsides against UT-Martin in the first quarter.

And while Stone's desire to be first caused the Vols to settle for a field on that play, these days finishing first is a sign that the Nashville native is arguably the most prepared of any of the Vols on the offensive front.

"He definitely does know all the responsibilities (of the entire line)," quarterback Matt Simms offered. "You see him taking tests on road trips and he's usually the first one done. It's pretty unbelievable what he does."

Those test are all encompassing about that game plan and often times are as big as 50 pages according to Simms. Stone earned has earned praise from his peers for his unintimidated approach to the game and doesn't see knowing the entire offensive front as that big of a deal.

"It's football," Stone said. "I feel like if I prepare well enough then I should be able to go out there and play and perform.

"It's just attention to detail. You have to pay attention to detail like I have never done before. You have to be really focused."

Added Simms, "The funny thing about him is that you sit there and talk to him and you realize, wow this guy is a really, really smart guy. You sit there and talk about some of the stuff we do offensively and he's explaining to me how we run certain run plays and I'm like, 'Man this kid's a freshman, I need to step my game up a little bit, he understand things a little better than I do.' He's an extremely impressive individual."

Stone has impressed many for years. It's why the Nashville native was at the top of many people's recruiting wish-lists a year ago. In fact for the Vols and the Tide, Stone was the top offensive guard on the board. And Stone is no stranger to the rivalry having witnessed it in person the last two years. Had it not been for a late unofficial visit to Knoxville, Stone likely would be donning a crimson jersey Saturday instead of the orange and white in his first ever Tennessee-Alabama clash.

"I was very close to going there. Alabama and Tennessee were my final two teams. Coach (Jim) Chaney told me to come over and meet coach (Derek) Dooley," Stone recalled. "I met him and he told me what his plans were for Tennessee and what kind of coach he was. I just knew by his personality that he was the guy I wanted to be coached by and led by.

"He has a winning mentality. He wants to do things the right way."

Certainly an approach that Stone can relate to and brings to the field every week according to his quarterback, who says he never has a concern about Stone going the wrong way or doing the wrong thing.

"I know one thing, he's not losing the battle of technique let's put it that way," Simms said. "Against the great defensive linemen we play each week that's crucial in this league."

Prentiss Waggner

■ Sophomore defensive back Prentiss Waggner posed a dangerous threat for opposing offenses, becoming the first Vol with eight takeaways (five interceptions, three fumble recoveries) since Deon Grant in 1999 (nine INTs). Three of his team-high five INTs were returned for touchdowns, breaking the UT season record for INTs returned for scores. Waggner's three recovered fumbles lead the SEC and are tied for third in the NCAA FBS, while his five picks are tied for third in the conference.

Prentiss is no apprentice

By Randy Moore, InsideTennessee.com
November 1, 2010

He played cornerback in high school, so filling that position for Tennessee in Saturday's game at South Carolina was nothing he hadn't done before. Conversely, trying to cover a receiver like 6-4, 237-pound Gamecock superstar Alshon Jeffery was a whole new experience.

Vol sophomore Prentiss Waggner rose up to meet the challenge, however, helping limit Jeffery to three catches - four below his SEC-leading average.

"When I had him man-to-man, I think I played very physical with him at the line of scrimmage," said Waggner, a 6-2, 181-pounder from Clinton, La. "I think I challenged him very well. As a group I think we (defensive backs) did pretty well. Now we're looking forward to getting better every week."

Waggner started at left cornerback in place of Art Evans. Knowing Jeffery is an elite pass-catcher, Waggner worked hard to prepare for the challenge.

"I studied a lot of film on Jeffery and all of their receivers," Waggner said. "I think I got a good read on his releases and stuff, and I think that's what enabled me to do a good job at the line of scrimmage on him."

Jeffery made his one big play of the day in the fourth quarter, turning a short curl route into a 70-yard touchdown play.

"We were in cover-2," Waggner recalled. "He ran a little sit-down route in the middle of the field. Some kind of way he just brought it back to the other side of the field. He just did a good job of making our guys miss and took it the distance."

After starting the Vols' first seven games at strong safety, Waggner switched to corner just last week. He says the adjustment went smoothly.

"It wasn't really a big transition because I played cornerback in high school," he recalled. "I joked with the coaches all summer because during 7-on-7s I played corner when guys couldn't make it, and I think I held my own. The coaches gave me a shot at the corner position. I think I did pretty well but I can get better."

Asked if he expects to start at cornerback again this weekend at Memphis, Waggner shrugged.

"That's up to the coaches," he said. "I think I had a pretty good game. I've got to focus on little things - like my angles at the cornerback position, attacking blocks and keeping everything outside-in, instead of inside-out."

Tennessee appeared to be on the ropes when South Carolina parlayed two turnovers into a pair of touchdowns and a 24-10 third-quarter lead. The Vol defense stopped the Cocks on their next two possessions, however, enabling the Big Orange to claw its way back into the game.

"We talk about it all the time: When the defense is going bad the offense has got to overcome adversity and when the offense is going bad the defense has got to overcome adversity," Waggner said. "That's something we work on every day in practice. I think we did a good job of getting off the field. We've just got to keep getting better and finish strong."

Vol defenders appeared to get a lift when freshman Tyler Bray led a drive that closed Carolina's lead to 24-17. Waggner believes that's what happened.

"I think that gave us a big lift," he said. "I think the momentum changed right after the offense scored. Tyler Bray came in and did a magnificent job with the quarterback position. He gave us momentum."

And Prentiss Waggner gave the Vols steady play at cornerback - something that could help tremendously in the weeks to come.

Chris Walker

■ Senior defensive end Chris Walker consistently put pressure on the opposing quarterback, leading the team with six quarterback hurries and ranking third among the Vols in sacks with three. Walker was second among UT defensive linemen with 43 tackles and set a career high twice with eight a piece against Oregon and Florida.

Walker, Reveiz bring holiday cheer

For the past four years, Chris Walker has made a point to give back to underprivileged children for the Christmas holiday.

Ditto for fellow senior Nick Reveiz. On Monday inside the Vols' team room on the second floor of the Neyland-Thompson Sports Center, Reveiz, Walker and representatives of all the sports on campus, as well as cheerleading and band, provided an early Christmas for a number of area youths.

Both players said it was an easy decision to participate.

"Quite honestly to me, how blessed I am. With the time and resources I have, why wouldn't I try to help other kids out? For them to be able to come here to Tennessee and play around with the athletes, for them it's just one of the best times of the year," said Reveiz. "Not only because of the gifts but coming for Tennessee. Their director talks about how they love coming to Tennessee and look forward to it every year. Why wouldn't we continue it? It's something awesome.

"I remember growing up, people on the Vikings when my dad (former Vols kicker Fuad Reveiz) played there, like Cris Carter and Jack Del Rio, just them saying hey to me and playing around with me and pushing me around, that meant the world to me. So just being able to look in a kid's eye and let you know that you care about them, that's worth millions right there."

Added Walker just moments after he had carried one of the youths through the room, "It kind of takes me back to when I was little and opening presents, just to see the joy on their face, kind of like it is Christmas. It gives us fulfillment just to be able to give back to them. They come and support us all the time, and it's just good to give back to them.

"This is just a fun time to get with other athletes and give back to the community and just show the people of Knoxville how much we care about the youth of the city."

Reveiz and Walker took the matter seriously, helping the Vols, who embraced the program as a part of Derek Dooley's "Vol For Life" program, raise approximately $1,638 as a football team. Then, the two veterans and close friends took seriously the joyous task of shopping for gifts.

"Oh yeah. Me and C-Walk, we've been shopping a whole lot lately. Hit up the mall. Wal-Mart. All the good places," said Reveiz, who noted the players had a shopping plan. "Trying to get the most for our buck, too. Trying to treat them well. C-Walk, he had the style. We had to get some Jordan shorts and shirts. We got some high-tech stuff, an iPod shuffle, NCAA Football 2011. Some other good stuff, too."

While Reveiz led the Vols in tackles on the field, Walker tackled the shopping task with more efficiency.

"They got a little swag now. We got them some Jordan stuff. It was fun to be able to shop with Nick; we were like kids in a candy store," said Walker. "I think me [Walker said of who was the most effective shopper], because I had to get the swag right and make them look good. Nick was kind of just getting the basic stuff, but we had to make them look good, too." Walker was most pleased with the continued opportunity to impact the lives of the youngsters, and for his teammates' responses to raising money.

"This will be my fourth year. Just to be able to do that with them and see them every year and see how much they've grown up, grown to like us and grown to like them," said the Memphis native. "I'm really proud. I think that shows how much they care about helping other people out, and I think that's just the type of team we have."

Reveiz said the evening provided perspective.

"It's something we do every single year, and it's just awesome to see the kids light up when we give the gifts to them," the team captain said. "Some of these guys, they ask for basic needs stuff, things you would just expect, and they ask for it as a gift. Some of these kids, it's the only Christmas they'll get and it's just fun to be a part of it."

Time teaches Walker to tackle adversity

If you know University of Tennessee senior defensive end Chris Walker, you know it's not over until it's over.

It doesn't matter if the former Christian Brothers High star's knee is hurting. By now, three surgeries later, it's no big deal to him.

He doesn't care if his back aches from the small stress fracture he had last season, or that the struggling 2-6 Vols of first-year coach Derek Dooley need four straight wins to qualify for a bowl, maybe the AutoZone Liberty Bowl.

All he knows is that the road to the Liberty Bowl or any other postseason game has to start in Liberty Bowl Memorial Stadium on Saturday night when Tennessee takes on 1-7 Memphis.

"I've been waiting for this game since I got to Tennessee," said Walker, who has 30 tackles (two for losses) and five quarterback hurries. "A bunch of people coming to the game are watching me play for the first time, so that's going to be fun."

Walker and the Vols could use a victory and some smiles — especially the seniors, who have experienced more turmoil than any UT senior class in recent memory.

Since the mid-1990s when Peyton Manning showed up on campus, most Tennessee senior classes have battled for the title of the winningest group of seniors in school history. Walker probably had something like that in mind when he signed with the Vols in 2007 after a stellar career at CBHS as an all-state linebacker.

But since he has been at Tennessee, he was switched to defensive end, which meant more immediate contact and increased tangled arms and legs, leading to injuries and arthroscopic knee surgeries.

"It takes me a bit to get going during the week. I'm like an old car that's got to rev up," Walker said. "I get treatment on the knee twice a day and it progressively gets better during the week.

"It has been a difficult process for me, but I get ready to play each week for my teammates and my coaches, because I can't let them down. On Saturdays once I put on that orange jersey and that helmet with the power T, all that matters is the spirit of competition and being out there with my team. Whatever was hurting doesn't hurt any more."

There's also the fact that Walker has played for three head coaches and three defensive coordinators in four seasons. This is at a school where, until two years ago, there were two head coaches, Johnny Majors and Phillip Fulmer, span 32 seasons. No other SEC school touched such stability.

Because of the coaching changes — Fulmer in 2008 to Lane Kiffin last year to now Dooley — that affected continuity and recruiting, the Vols stretching back to '08 are a combined 14-19 overall and 7-14 in the SEC. They are on the verge of a second losing season in the last three years, something that has never happened to the Vols since they joined the SEC as an original member in 1933. Also, Tennessee is three SEC losses from recording its first winless league record in history.

"When it comes to adversity, I always go by this motto — 'God wants tested men,'" Walker said. "We're all tested men here at Tennessee, especially this senior class. We know when we leave here and are tested by adversity in the real world, we'll be able to handle it."
